ADOLF HITLER STIRS NAZI FIRE WHEN HE ADMITS REICH DESIRE FOR POSSESSION SOVIET RUSSIA

NUREMBERG, Sept. 12.—Chancellor Hitler, with hundreds of Nazi war planes roaring in aggressive tempo overhead, declared today Germany would be overwhelmingly prosperous "if we had" the rich agricultural lands and the ore-laden mountains of Soviet Russia.

Speaking before the Labor Front after he had told thousands of worshipful boys and girls that Germany would triumph over Russia "if the hour ever comes" when there is war, Der Fuehrer shouted:

"IF I HAD IT"

"If I had the Urals, if we possessed Siberia, if we had the Ukraine, National Socialist Germany would be swimming in surplus prosperity."

As he spoke, 200 heavy bombers and hundreds of pursuit planes wheeled and circled above the congress hall.

It was only for a brief minute in his long speech, however, that Hitler suggested the advantages Germany would gain by the possession of land to the east.

In a few words, he painted a picture of the plenty which such acquisition would bring in contrast with Germany's present, difficult

LONDON, Sept. 12.—British newspapers today pondered the significance of the anti-Russian speeches delivered at the Nazi congress at Nuremberg, Germany.

"What is Germany's actual policy to be?" asked the Daily Telegraph. "Is it the peace with all nations that Hitler so warmly extolled in his speech last night?

STRANGE FRIENDSHIP

"If so, the earlier proceedings at Nuremberg are the strangest of all preliminaries to friendship.

"That Germany dislikes Bolshevism, as we all do, is no explanation of speeches that seem deliberately designed to set a continent ablaze and align the Fascist powers in a 'holy crusade' against a force from which Germany has nothing to fear if the Nazi government is really representative of the German mind."

BREACH DESIRED

The Morning Post said the Nuremberg sessions give the "inescapeable impression that the German government desires a breach of diplomatic relations with the Soviets."

At any mention of Moscow Chancellor Hitler becomes "a frenzied victim of a pathological obsession," said the Daily Herald.

SAN SEBASTIAN AT MERCY OF REBEL TROOPS

Attack Delayed to Prevent Repetition of Horrors At Irun

WITH THE FASCISTS BESIEGING SAN SEBASTIAN, Sept. 12—Insurgent troops could march into San Sebastian at any moment but they are delaying their attack in order to prevent a repetition of the horrors at Irun, it was apparent today after a tour of the front.

Batteries are so placed on surrounding heights and intensive bombardment from them would be irresistible.

An insurgent colonel, in reply to questions from this correspondent, said: "When will we take San Sebastian? We are ready now. It is for general headquarters to choose the opportune moment."

The intermittent combats on this front are made difficult for both sides by the extremely rough nature of the countryside. Between the heights lie chasms of great depth.

Correspondents Have Trouble

LONDON, Sept. 12—The Spanish insurgents are trying remote control over the British press. A Times photographer was expelled from Fascist headquarters at Burgos and is now at Hendaye, France. A special correspondent of the Morning Post was "offered

TRUST CONCERN TO TEST DEBT, INTEREST ACT

Legislature's Rights Will Be Questioned in Alberta Court

Whether powers of debt and interest reduction is within the legislative competence of the Alberta legislature will be tested in the courts on behalf of the Imperial Trust Co., it was stated Saturday morning by George B. O'Connor, K.C., solicitor for the company.

Notice of intention to test the validity of the act will be given Attorney General J. W. Hugill on Monday.

The action, which will form the test case, is for the foreclosure of farm lands now occupied by Louis J. Forcier, Falher farmer.

Under the Farmers' Creditors' Arrangement Act a proposal was formulated for this farmer in February, 1935, but the provisions of this proposal have not been met, and application for foreclosure is proceeding.

The hearing of the application will be in Supreme Court chambers, a date not yet being set.

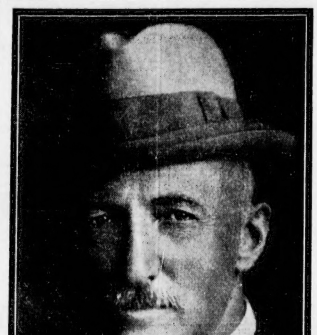

TROOPS LEAVE FOR PALESTINE

LONDON, Sept. 12.—Two detachments, totaling 1,135 men and 53 officers, of the Royal Northumberland Fusiliers and the Royal Irish Fusiliers were ready to board the cruiser Dorsetshire at Southampton today en route to Palestine.

Helen Jacobs Loses Her Tennis Crown

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 12.—Helen Jacobs' four-year reign as United States women's singles tennis champion came to an end today as she was beaten in the final of the tournament by Alice Marble of San Francisco, at 4-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Lieut. Col. P. C. H. Primrose, newly appointed Lieutenant-Governor of Alberta. His appointment is effective October 1.

New Lieut.-Gov. Has Diversified Career

Policing the plains of western Canada and the Klondike on horse, snowshoe and foot for 30 years and presiding in Edmonton's city police court for 21 years have marked the active career of Lt. Col. Philip C. H. Primrose who has been named to succeed Hon. William L. Walsh as Lieutenant-Governor of Alberta.

Member of a United Empire Loyalist family, Col. Primrose was born on October 23, 1864, in Halifax, N.S., the son of Alexander Primrose, a Halifax barrister, and Elizabeth Primrose. Upon the death of his father, he moved with his mother to Pictou, N.S., where he matriculated from Pictou Academy, following which he entered the Royal Military College at Kingston, Ont.

On his graduation in 1885 he had the choice of a commission in the British cavalry, infantry or Royal Artillery, but, preferring to remain in Canada, joined the then North West Mounted Police as inspector.

From Regina headquarters he was transferred to Fort Saskatchewan and for the next 13 years served there and at Wood Mountain, Calgary and Macleod.

He was sent to the Klondike in 1898 and spent over four years there in the hectic days of the gold rush. He returned to Macleod with the rank of superintendent and succeeded Major Joseph Howe as commanding officer of that subdivision, holding that post until 1913 when he was sent to Regina to organize the new criminal investigation branch.

In 1914 he resigned to accept the position of police magistrate in Edmonton and remained in that position until his retirement in July, 1935.

ITALY VOTES WAR MONEYS

ROME, Sept. 12.—Italy's cabinet, under the presiding eye of Mussolini, today voted extraordinary appropriations for land, sea and air forces "in proportion our military preparations to the necessities of the international situation."

The ministers also approved salary increases, averaging eight per cent, for 650,000 government employees and added to the wages of many thousands of provincial and municipal workers.

Perfection In Smallest Details Arouses Public Admiration Model Home

That perfection in small details which is often considered to be the secret for success may be the reason why the Bulletin Home of Tomorrow is enjoying the admiration of the many hundreds who have visited it since it was open for public inspection.

From the initial step in its building to the hanging of the last window shade, that care is evident which has made it a delight to behold and a joy to live in.

Fully modern, muses the visitor before he enters, and he feels somewhat skeptical about the advantages or the homelike atmosphere which could prevail in a modern home. Visions of cubist designs and unwelcoming over-stuffed chairs flit before his eyes, and the illusions are only to be dispelled by a glimpse of the perfect interior of the compactly built home.

Though the building combines the latest in modern devices for comfort, such as furnaces that can be regulated from the living-room by the touch of a button, yet no opportunity has been neglected to introduce that beauty and softness which is conducive to a homelike atmosphere.

The house itself, ideally planned

QUEBEC HAS RECORD POLL

QUEBEC, Sept. 12.—The Aug. 17 vote that unsaddled the Liberal party after 39 years of power in this province and elected the Union Nationale forces was the largest ever cast in a Quebec provincial election.

The landslide that elected 76 Union Nationale candidates, reduced Liberal representation to 14 and left all other parties nowhere reached a total of 563,528 votes. This compares with the four previous elections as follows: 1935, 536,361; 1931, 498,695; 1927, 317,963, and 1923, 290,638.

FEDERAL HOUSING PLAN GIVES AID TO MANY INDUSTRIES

By MEADE C. MONROE
Edmonton Bulletin Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12—More than a million families in the United States are living in new or modernized homes as a direct result of two years of operation by the Federal Housing Administration, officials estimated today.

Approximately $2,500,000,000 in private capital has surged through trade channels via the housing construction route since FHA began insuring construction and modernization loans.

Backed by the federal treasury — but loaning no government funds — the FHA has insured 154,118 home mortgages totalling $612,000,000; has insured 1,159,600 repair and modernization loans totalling $428,000,000, and has stimulated interest in better housing to a point where $1,500,000,000 has been loaned for home construction over and above that insured by FHA.

Incidental, but highly important achievements of the FHA program include: Confidence in the real estate market has been revived; interest rates are uniformly lower; unsound second mortgage practices and financing tricks have been reduced; so-called "jerry-building" has given way to better construction standards; home ownership has been brought within reach of families with small income.

TO MODERNIZE HOMES

The Federal Housing Administration was formed, not to loan government money, but to make it attractive for private banks, mortgage companies and building and loan institutions to loan money to individuals to build new homes or modernize their existing dwellings.

In effect, FHA said to owners of private capital: You have customers who would borrow money at low interest rates to build or improve homes. You have the money, but hesitate to loan it out. We will examine these prospective loans. If the borrower is a good risk and his proposed construction is sound, we will insure you against loss if you loan him the money at the interest rate and under conditions we prescribe.

That was two years ago when the National Housing Act was passed. Today the FHA handles and insures approximately one-third of the home mortgages in this country.

OBLIGATIONS MET

On modernization and repair loans, FHA originally insured the lender up to 20 per cent of the loan. Experience showed, however, that only 13 out of every 10,000 of such loans went into default, so congress reduced the insured percentage to 10 per cent, with no diminution in willingness of private institutions to lend the money. Modernization loans range up to $2,000, with five years to pay.

On new construction loans, FHA insures the mortgage up to 80 per cent of the appraised value, including house and lot. In other words, on a home and lot costing $5,000, the borrower would need 20 per cent ($5,000) in cash for a down payment. A bank would loan him the other 80 per cent ($4,000), and the government would insure the bank against loss for the full amount of the loan.

BOTH BENEFIT

Benefits accrue to both lender and borrower. The lender is sure of getting his money back, with interest. The borrower can finance a new home—or refinance his existing home—on a single-mortgage basis, with as long as 20 years to pay. There are no renewals, no recurring title searches, no bonuses or commissions.

Under the old system, home mortgages had to be renewed every three to five years. Each renewal

The Real Reason

An Editorial

MANY reasons have been given by loaning institutions why loans have not been made to responsible borrowers in Western Canada, who would like to modernize their present homes or to build new ones.

Not one of the reasons advanced, so far, has been the all-important and truthful one. The real reason is that the loaning institutions of Canada have been charging the exorbitant rates of 7, 8 and 9 per cent and now find themselves with hundreds of millions of dollars in outstanding loans, which would be immediately affected should they take advantage of the generous guarantees and funds offered by the Honourable Charles A. Dunning for their active and profitable co-operation in making loans at 5 per cent, with terms of repayment spread over a period of ten to twenty years.

The loaning institutions of Canada might as well make up their minds that they will not be permitted to collect usury at 7, 8 and 9 per cent, whether they like it or not.

Insofar as Alberta is concerned, 5 per cent is the limit collectable now and in the future. Other provinces will, undoubtedly, take similar action to protect their citizens.

The immediate, wise and proper course for the loaning institutions to take would be to publicly announce that, effective as from September 1st, 1936, all interest was reduced to 5 per cent and mortgage loan balances may be repaid in ten annual instalments. Also, that in the public interest they will actively co-operate with the Dominion government in making loans to worthy borrowers in all provinces of Canada, at a maximum rate of 5 per cent.

Nothing less will satisfy the people or prevent further drastic legislation by the provinces and the Dominion government.

Think it over!

Hold Me, Hannah! Chinese En Route Via Ocean Subway

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The United States coast and geodetic survey has rejected a theory that someone is digging a tunnel under the Pacific.

"Some time ago," said Captain G. T. Rude, chief of the hydrography and topography division, "our scientists encountered some strange under-sea noises while conducting electrical soundings off the California coast."

The commotion—a sort of click-click-thud-thud—occurred at regular intervals every day. When the sounders informed the public of the mysterious noises, a flood of unsolicited solutions of the puzzle began to arrive at the geodetic office here.

A GREAT HELP

"One of the longest and most earnestly written," said the captain, "was from a lady in California who said she had reason to believe a bunch of Chinese were digging their way over from the Orient."

The woman wrote that she married a world traveller—a man who had been everywhere and seen everything. He told her at the altar that his past life was behind him and asked her never to question him about it.

"One day," Captain Rude continued, "this lady heard her husband talking in his sleep and he was discussing the digging Chinese. But remembering her vow, she never brought up the subject."

TURNS HIM IN

Hearing about the mysterious sub-sea sounds she dispatched a letter to Washington suggesting while her hands were tied at the altar, the government might be able to quiz her mate.

"She said we had better hurry up, too," said the Captain, "because the atmospheric conditions under the woman had hastened the digging and when they reached the surface we wouldn't be able to tell them from the rest of the folks."

CALGARY NEEDS RELIEF CUT OR LOW INTEREST

City Cannot Meet Obligations Unless Help Given —Mayors Confer

Calgary must be relieved of either its enormous relief burden or given reduction in its annual interest bill if it is to continue to meet obligations without repudiation, stated Andrew Davison, mayor of the city, who arrived in Edmonton Saturday morning, for a conference with representatives of the Investment Dealers' Association and Judge A. A. Carpenter, chairman of the Alberta Public Utility Board.

Application has been made to the Utility Board for a reduction of interest rates to three per cent, he added, and it is his desire that this request be met by the bond holders. He pointed out that under the Municipal Debts Act, passed at the recent session, the limit of three per cent has been set. The government has not yet proclaimed this act, evidently waiting for municipalities to confer with bond-holders with a view to voluntary reduction in interest, and thus avoid litigation which inevitably will follow inter-

CITIZENS TO FIGHT MOOTED MILK PRICE INCREASE

UTILITIES GROUP TO HEAR PROTEST AT MEET TODAY

To make representations against any increase in the price of milk to the consumers, a meeting of representatives from citizens' associations appointed a committee to appear before His Honor Judge A. A. Carpenter, chairman of the board of public utilities commissioners, for a hearing at 10:30 a.m. Saturday.

At the meeting, held Friday night in the city council chamber, the feeling was voiced that if the board should grant the request of the Edmonton District Milk Producers' association for an increase of 40 cents per 100 pounds for milk, it should be absorbed by the distributors.

TO PROBE COSTS

The committee named to represent the gathering was instructed, following a motion of ex-Ald. J. W. Findlay, to ask that, if an increase in the price to producers be allowed, it should neither be borne by the consumers nor by employees of the distributors through wage decreases. From a motion by J. D. Williams, the board will be asked to investigate the cost of distribution in the city of Edmonton.

There were some 75 representatives of various organizations at the meeting and the committee named comprises W. C. Deane and J. D. Williams, Federation of Community Leagues; Jan Lakeman, Communist party; J. W. Findlay and W. H. Miller, Canadian Labor party; J. A. McPherson, Unemployed Married Men's Association; J. Metcalfe, Unemployed Ex-Servicemen's Association; Mrs. G. McKenzie and Mrs. Jean Mason, Edmonton Mothers' Council for the Protection of Youth; W. E. Davis and W. L. White, McCauley Social Credit group; H. D. Ainlay and M. Goldberg, C.C.F.; R. Koyich, Jugo-Slavian association; Mrs. D. P. Ramsay and Mrs. L. McIntosh, individual consumers.

MAYOR PRESENT

Harold Geary was chairman and Mayor J. A. Clarke, K.C., Aldermen Guy Patterson and Elisha East and City Solicitor T. E. Garside were in attendance.

Ald. Patterson put forward the suggestion that milk distribution eventually should be taken over by the city. Stating that the price to producers was 4.6 cents a quart and to consumers 10 cents, he felt that there was a waste in distribution.

"Milk is a uniform product and lends itself to public distribution," he said.

"Certain big firms would have to be brushed aside," he added. "They would have to go to the wall and their stock would become valueless."

W. R. Black said: "The distributors are the ones who get the sweet end of the job—they always have. It has been pointed out that the producers are trying to get into the distributing business, but the big companies don't want to milk cows."

Mr. Metcalfe voiced disapproval of Ald. Patterson's suggestion of distribution by the city, stating that it might become a form of state capitalism like the present city utilities, "Which would lend itself to lobbying and arguments about raising the rates make a surplus for the city coffers."

REVIEWS EVIDENCE

Mrs. Mason, who had attended the milk probe as member of a contact committee which was formed at an open forum held recently in the Scandinavian hall and which called Friday night's meeting and arranged the audience with Judge Carpenter, gave a review of evidence she had heard at the probe.

She stated that W. W. Prevey, general manager of the Edmonton City Dairy, had testified that his company had paid no dividend on common stock since 1930 but had paid 6½ per cent. on preferred stock out of earnings accumulated prior to 1936.

Mr. Garside said that the consumer pays $4 per 100 pounds for milk and that the producer gets $1.85 for his quota and about 91 cents for what is known as surplus, reducing his average price to about $1.50.

When producers stated that greenfeed and oat crops this year were only about 50 per cent. of normal, he had pointed out that the evidence was not complete as it did not show what was the production of this feed from outside the 15 mile radius of the city, within which all milk distributed in Edmonton is produced.

LOST AIRMEN SEARCH GOES ON

Weather reports from the Great Slave Lake area Saturday indicated that flying conditions were sufficiently good to allow planes to take the air in the search for the two missing R.C.A.F. men.

Flight Lieutenant S. W. Coleman and Leading Aircraftsman J. Forty have been unreported in the barren lands north of Fort Reliance for 28 days.

The search is still being pushed but no information is being received as to daily progress. Six air force planes and a Canadian Airways machine are being used in scouring the country.

French air line officials are discussing with United States operators the possibility of trans-Atlantic service between this country and France beginning next summer.

CALGARY NEEDS RELIEF CUT OR LOW INTEREST

est reduction action under the provisions of the act.

Calgary's annual interest bill is $1 000 000, stated Mayor Davison with an average interest rate of 6.83 per cent. A reduction to three per cent would mean a saving to the city of $350,000, he added. The average rate of interest on Edmonton's debt is 5.24 per cent, the reduction to three per cent being a saving of 18 mills here.

Mayor Davison did not see any reason why the bondholders should not take a cut. Every other branch of Canadian business activity has had to take a cut, so why should the bond holders be the only ones to escape the effects of the depression, he asked.

Municipal problems were discussed by Mayor Joseph A. Clarke and Mayor Davison at breakfast at the Macdonald hotel before the latter's arrival from Calgary.

UNITED STATES BUILDS OVER MILLION HOMES

necessitated a title search costing $50 to $75, in addition to the first mortgage, there usually was a second and sometimes even a third mortgage, each at a little higher interest rate. The average interest rate was between 8 and 11 per cent per year, not counting the periodic service charges and title searches.

KEEPS COSTS LOW

Under FHA, the entire amount owed is lumped on one sum. Interest is at 5 per cent, plus ½ per cent for service charge to the lending institution and ½ per cent to the FHA for an insurance premium. The total interest figures up to about 6.23 per cent.

Under the FHA system all costs are included in the monthly payments—interest, taxes, insurance and payment on principal. The borrower knows precisely how much he will be required to pay each month until his home is clear. He can spread payments over five, ten or twenty years. He can pay off the entire balance at any time.

A GOOD EXAMPLE

If an individual wants to build a $6,000 home, the $1,000 is the way his FHA loan would work. The appraised value of the property would be $7,000. The down payment would be $1,500 (20 per cent). He could obtain a loan for the $6,000 balance from a bank or mortgage company, which FHA would insure. His monthly payment to reduce principal and pay interest over a 20 year period would be $39.60. The monthly insurance premium cost on the mortgage would be $2.52, the service charge to the bank $1.50. His total monthly payment would be $43.62, plus a few dollars a month to take care of fire insurance and taxes.

The FHA is not satisfied, however, with providing a means for individuals to finance their homes. It also wants to make sure that the home will not be financing on the good condition, when the loan is paid off.

New homes, therefore, must conform to FHA construction standards. Approved materials must be used, construction methods must meet rigid requirements, and the home must contain specified sanitation and heating facilities. FHA agents make periodical inspections during construction.

Tumor Causes O'Donnell's Death

A tumor in the stomach was reported responsible for the death of Joseph O'Donnell, 54, 10038 113 street, at the post mortem held into his death at the General hospital Saturday morning. He had been ill for two weeks and died late Friday. According to hospital authorities the post mortem was held for medical purposes only.

O'Donnell was a well known citizen of the city where he had resided for the last nine years. He came to Edmonton from Nelson, B.C., where he lived for 24 years and has been a bookkeeper at Burns and Company here. He is survived by his wife who is seriously ill at home, and his niece, Mrs. Marian Houch, Chicago, who is at present in Edmonton. O'Donnell was an ardent church worker and was a member of St. Joseph's cathedral parish. The body will be sent to Nelson, B.C., for burial.

the R. T. Holman company, one of the largest mercantile establishments in the maritime provinces.

OBTAIN CONTROL

Mr. Magee is president and general manager of Fred Magee Ltd., and a leading industrialist of Port Elgin, N.B.

Appointment of these additional directors, coupled with acquisition of a majority of the capital stock shares, gives the government majority ownership and majority control on the board of directors.

The original share capital was $5,000,000 divided into 100,000 shares with a par value of $50. No one person could own more than 50 shares and at the last annual meeting there were some 1,100 shareholders.

Each of the two new directors will have two votes until such time as by gradual reduction of the private ownership directors have been reduced to three. Thereafter the ratio of representation on the board will be six representing government shares to three representing private holdings. The seven privately owned shares were appointed for five years, two for four years and two for three years and one for two years.

WONT BE TRADED

The class B shares will be held by the government and not traded in as in the case of privately owned stock. They will draw the same dividend as class A shares in the hands of the public, but this will be only a matter of book-keeping since the government receives all excess profits of the bank in any event.

Of today's appointees, Mr. McQueen and Mr. Holman serve until 1942, Mr. Picard and Mr. Magee until 1941, Mr. Coote and Col. Brown until 1940. All are eligible for reappointment.

The Bank of Canada was created by Act of Parliament early in 1934, following the recommendation of a royal commission on banking and currency headed by Right Hon. Lord Milliam, leading jurist and financial authority of England. Organization was completed early in February, 1935, and the bank opened its doors March 11, 1935.

PRESENT BOARD

Following are the officials and directors now at the head of Bank of Canada affairs:

Graham Ford Towers, former assistant general manager of the Royal Bank of Canada, governor; J. A. C. Osborne, former secretary the Bank of England, deputy governor, and L. P. Sabourin-Amos, formerly of the Banque Canadienne Nationale, assistant deputy governor.

Thomas Bradshaw, Toronto, executive director.

Directors: Robert A. Wright, Drinkwater, Sask.; William D. Black, Hamilton; W. K. McNaught, Halifax; Robert J. Magor, Montreal; Joseph Beaubien, Montreal, and W. C. Coote, Edmonton.

The deputy minister of finance is an ex-officio member of the board.

VAIN EFFORT

When the Bank of Canada measure was debated in the House of Commons during the 1934 session, the principle was adopted by all parties, but Liberals joined with the Progressive group on the opposition side in a vain effort to induce the government to make the bank a publicly owned institution.

The then Conservative government decided, however, that the set-up as proposed, private ownership with a large measure of government supervision, was the most efficient. The latter provided the governor and deputy governor be appointed only with approval of the governor-in-council and the policies of the bank were to a large measure to be subjected to government approval.

KEEPS HIS WORD

In the campaign of last fall, Mr. Mackenzie King made it quite plain in his party's platform that he would bring about a more complete form of public ownership as well as control of the Bank of Canada.

When at the last session of parliament the government introduced the measure which has now been carried into action, the Conservative and other factions in the opposition argued it was not going far enough and that the act should be either left unchanged or amended to such an extent as to give the government complete ownership and control.

STOP REDEMPTION OF CERTIFICATES

Period of redemption of provincial prosperity certificates terminated for this month at 1 p.m. on Saturday and officials stated that the amount presented was so small as to not warrant the offices being kept open after the regular time for government offices closing on Saturday at 1 o'clock.

Official stated that the number presented for redemption during the morning was small.

Most of the presentations were for small amounts.

Neither Hon. Ernest C. Manning, minister of trade and industry, or other ministers would comment on the certificate situation.

The next period for redemption will be on the Thursday, Friday and Saturday following the second Wednesday in October.

No estimate has been made yet as to the total amount presented.

PROTEST MILK PRICE ADVANCE

Protesting against proposed increase in the price of milk in this city, a strong delegation representing service clubs and other organizations appeared before the Board of Public Utilities Commissioners on Saturday.

A. A. Carpenter, chairman of the Board presided and sitting with him was C. A. Lyndon, milk supervisor in the province.

The interview was the result of an application by milk producers for an increase in price of milk to the producers of, presumably one cent a quart. It was contended by the delegation, would be passed on to the consumer, and it was urged that if implemented it should be absorbed by the distributors.

Included in the delegation were W. C. Dean, J. D. Williams of the Federation of Community Leagues; P. Giles and W. H. Miller of the Canadian Labor Party; James McPherson of the Unemployed Married Men's Association; D. J. Metcalf of the Ex-Servicemen's Association; Jan Lakeman of the Communist party; Mrs. G. Mackenzie and Mrs. J. Mason of the Edmonton Mothers Council; W. E. Davies and W. L. White of the McCauley Social Credit Group; H. D. Ainlay of the C.C.F. Group; Mrs. D. P. Goldberg of the Emerald C. C. F. Club; R. Koyich of the Yugoslav organization; A. M. Hall of the contact committee and Harold Gerry, chairman of the contact committee of ex-servicemen.

GRAIN SURPLUS WILL BE SOLD

OTTAWA, Sept. 12.—Grain experts here agreed with the forecasts from Chicago that Canada's wheat surplus will be disposed of by the end of the present crop year, July 31, 1937, it would not be necessary to sell as much as last year to accomplish this.

Icebreaker Finds Two New Islands

MOSCOW, Sept. 12.—A wireless message today from the Soviet ice breaker Sadko reported discovery of two islands in the Arctic waters east of Franz Josef land.

The ship's position was given as 81.12 north and 72.22 east, which would put it north and east of Northern Island, off the northern coast of Siberia. The report said the Sadko was trying to buck an eight-mile ice barrier in order to land a party.

Nut In Windpipe Gives Pneumonia

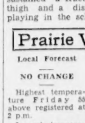

RIMBEY, Sept. 12.—Margaret, the two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Hostlund of Hoadley, who was taken to Edmonton early in August suffering from a portion of a peanut removed from the windpipe, is reported as having contracted pneumonia, as a result of the presence of the misplaced nut.

David, 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gamache of Bluffton, sustained a fracture of the right thigh and a dislocated hip while playing in the school grounds.

VETERAN PILOT SEARCHING FOR LOST AVIATORS

Aircraftsman Joe Forty took off 26 days ago on a 240-mile southbound flight to Fort Reliance from Hunger lake in the Back river country. Anxiety has been increasing daily as they had only enough rations for a week and had left their rifle on the ground. They carried fishing tackle. The possibility that they crashed and are hurt is increasing the intensity of the search.

Six air force machines are engaged in the search and Pilot Rudy Heuss of Canadian Airways has also been taking part. He will come to McMurray for a routine engine check and his place will be filled by Pilot Berry. Pilot Heuss may return as soon as his plane is ready.

One of the foremost of Canada's northern airmen, Pilot Berry has covered nearly every square mile of the barrens and the Arctic coast in many flights, some adventurous, some routine.

Cloudy weather over parts of Great Slave lake is believed to have again grounded the search planes at Reliance, but no definite information has been received. The ceiling at Yellowknife, on the north shore of the lake, near the western end, was high enough to permit flying.

The day after the air force men were reported missing, when they had been unreported for five days, Pilot Berry made a search while flying a trapper to the Barren lands east of Whitefish lake. He recently took a pair of pontoons to Reliance for Flying Officer Blanchard's plane, a new feat of transportation as the bulky floats would cut his flying speed 20 to 35 miles an hour.

With every day bringing the season closer to freeze-up, the searchers are losing no flying time in pushing the hunt.

LITTLE HAS 8 STROKES LEAD

ST. ANDREW'S GOLF CLUB TORONTO, Sept. 12.—Lawson Little of San Francisco withstood a terrific challenge by Jimmy Thomson today and led the Canadian open golf field at the 54-hole mark with a total of 209, lowest at this point in the history of the tournament.

Thomson, six under par at the 14th hole finished with 67 and Little sank a short putt on the 18th for a 69. It was Lawson's third consecutive sub-par round. He scored 67 Thursday and 66 yesterday.

This afternoon he set out on the final round with an eight-stroke lead over Thomson. It appeared impossible for the former British and United States amateur champion to lose.

Celebrates Natal Day By Digging

Celebrating his seventy-fifth birthday by helping his son-in-law dig out forty bushels of potatoes, Robert Middleton Tweddell, pioneer resident of Edmonton is today receiving many congratulations upon his vigorous health.

An intriguing feature of Mr. Tweddells' life is that he has family connections with the establishment of the first newspaper plant ever to operate in Canada. He is a grandson of Middleton, who began publishing the "Quebec Gazette" in 1850. Middleton's eldest son also succeeded to the printing newspaper development in the Dominion by founding the "Victoria Standard."

Mr. Tweddell is now residing with his son-in-law, W. C. Browning, at 11827 106 street. He is the father of sixteen children.

Missionary Dies

TORONTO, Sept. 12.—The Missionary Society of the Church of England in Canada received word yesterday of the death of Rev. Canon G. E. Simmons at Kaifeng, Honan, China. He died from appendicitis. Canon Simmons held the office of secretary of the Honan mission before he was appointed with Bishop W. C. White in the founding of the mission. He went out to China in 1910.

Wounded Girl Responding To Hospital Care

Favorable progress is being made by Miss Edith Watson, 22-year-old school teacher of the Ross school district, near Irma, who was seriously wounded by a .22 rifle bullet on Thursday, it was learned from the Wainwright hospital, where she is a patient, Saturday.

Miss Watson, from whose chest the bullet was removed in an operation by Dr. C. Greenberg of Irma, passed a restful night and her condition Saturday morning was said to be satisfactory.

Miss Watson was shot just after school on Thursday by Bernard Mundle, 26, harvester from Saltcoats, Sask., who then turned his gun upon himself and ended his life.

RAILWAYMAN IS KILLED, EDSON

Caught beneath the wheels of a train during switching operations on the Canadian National Railways at Edson Friday night, T. Nelson, 31, employed as a switchman on the railway, was instantly killed.

The accident happened at about 11 p.m. but full details are not available. Mr. Nelson was a resident of Edson. He is survived by his widow and one son, aged six. Investigation into the cause of the accident will be held Saturday by officials of the railway.

Ontario Leads In Inter-Provincial Women's Golf Play

ROYAL MONTREAL GOLF CLUB, MONTREAL, Sept. 12.—Ontario, led by Dot McIlwraight, and Mrs. F. J. Mulqueen, gained a six-stroke lead at the end of nine holes in defence of the women's inter-provincial golfing team title over Royal Montreal today.

The Ontario quartet had a nine-hole aggregate of 179 and had six strokes to the surprisingly strong foursomes from Manitoba and British Columbia, tied for second place with 185 each.

BAN REMOVAL WILL AFFECT COAL MARKET

Lifting Embargo on Russian Fuel Commented on By Mine Operators

Removal of the embargo on Russian coal entering this country, is bound to adversely affect the Alberta as well as the entire Canadian coal industry, according to opinion expressed here by leading coal operators.

C. A. Hyndman, of the Dawson mine said that, "I have not studied the question very deeply but it is certain the industry will be affected. Nova Scotia will be more concerned than the west as will the United States mines, as eastern Canada is mainly their market. But anything that affects the east is bound to affect the west."

W. J. Dick, general manager of the Cadomin Coal Company, one of the largest companies operating in this province, expressed sentiments which were echoed by several other leading operators.

Mr. Dick said that, "no doubt the removal of the barriers on Russian coal will affect the market for Nova Scotia coal in the east and for Alberta coal in the west.

LOW ASH PERCENTAGE

"When Russian coal was imported into this country several years ago, some came as far west as Three Rivers and Winnipeg. Russian anthracite coal has a very low percentage of ash and is therefore a fine grade of coal. It will probably have a very serious effect on the whole Canadian industry.

"Quite a tonnage of Alberta coal moves into British Columbia and this is bound to be affected.

"We do not mind fair competition, but in Russia, as in Japan, working conditions are different and a different situation prevails.

FEW PRIMARY INDUSTRIES

"Also, we have so few primary industries here—agriculture and coal—that we do not see why special advantages should be given others, without some compensating advantages to us. For instance, we cannot ship wheat to Russia as Russia is exporting wheat.

"The same holds good with British Columbia with its lumber. So why should we favor others in coal when we are not favored in disposing of our primary products?"

the choice of leaving the insurgent front or transmitting messages to the precise taste of the forces of the Right." The Morning Post man left and also went to Hendaye.

Writing from Hendaye, the Morning Post correspondent tells a curious story.

CURIOUS STORY

The Spanish captain who was liaison officer between the army and the British and American correspondents at Burgos was educated at Stonyhurst College, Lancashire. The Post correspondent described him as "tremendously efficient, almost impossibly brisk, a good man, one would imagine, in a tight place. I can see him a prefect at Stonyhurst, greatly respected but not very popular." In another dispatch the Post correspondent had also used the phrase "insurgent frightfulness."

The liaison officer objected that the reference to Stonyhurst did not show "a wholly respectful attitude." He further suggested that doubt was thrown on his popularity at school 20 years ago and that this was "damaging and actionable."

REPORTS CENSORED

"To remain in Burgos in this atmosphere of hostility," continued the Post correspondent, "even though the pill was gilded with the promise of a visit to the trenches, seemed profitless. My messages would be heavily censored and twisted to the insurgents' view."

Correspondents for the Daily Express had trouble on both sides. One was arrested by government militiamen at Malaga and threatened with hanging and being exhibited as a "specimen spy." Another was expelled from Burgos. A third who, after leaving Spain told a story of insurgent "Mopping-up squads," cannot return for fear of arrest.

The furnishings, expertly chosen with the help of T. Eaton Company, have color as the keynote. The living room walls are a soft ivory, forming a perfect background for the rose rust chesterfield, the rindbard red tiled fireplace and the hangings of natural line headed with horizontal bands of green.

The master bedroom which commands a view of the garden through windows, full length from floor to ceiling, has ivory walls and a turquoise blue ceiling. The curtains are ivory in an exquisitely fine net.

BED-TIME PLEASURE

In the children's bedroom, bunks are provided instead of beds to make climbing into bed a real pleasure, but these, in case the child had the habit of falling out of bed, could be lowered into beds which rest on the floor.

The bathroom skillfully makes use of daring color contrasts in a sea-green wash bowl, against a wall of black bakelite with an upper wall tiled in green.

Saskatchewan Lieut.-Gov. Glengarry Scotchman

REGINA, Sept. 12.—A. P. McNab, newly appointed Lieut.-Governor, was born in 1864 at Glengarry, Ont., of Scotch parentage. He was educated in that district, and at the age of 18 came west and homesteaded near Virden, Manitoba.

He bought grain at several points in Manitoba and ultimately came to Saskatchewan and started a grain business in Rosthern.

In 1906 he moved to Saskatoon, where he opened a flour mill.

In the general elections of 1908 he was elected a member of the legislature for Saskatoon, and in December of that year accepted the portfolio of municipal commissioner.

He was re-elected in the 1912 election, and in 1913 became minister of public works. This position he continued to hold until he retired from the provincial government on November 1, 1926, to become a member of the local government board. This position he occupied until the fall of 1930, when he resigned after the Anderson government took office, and was succeeded by Hon. J. R. Wilson of Saskatoon.

It was Mr. Wilson who contested the Saskatoon constituency at the general election of 1908 and was defeated by Mr. McNab.

Newspaper Greatest Value In World, Clubmen Told

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Sept. 12.—No commodity is sold so cheaply or gives such value as the news provided by the modern daily newspaper, said A. R. Alloway, managing director of the Oshawa Daily Times, addressing a service club here yesterday at a special luncheon in honor of the Woodstock Sentinal-Review's 50th anniversary as a daily.

"It is a wonderful thing," he said, "to think that in the newspaper office here today, through The Canadian Press leased wire, news comes in from all parts of the world, with an annual budget to The Canadian Press of three-quarters of a million dollars, and a further service not represented by any cash outlay, provided by the members themselves, that might easily represent another three-quarters of a million. In other words, the news service is worth in actual value $1,500,000 a year."

Canadian dailies generally, said Mr. Alloway, observe extremely high standards of integrity and enterprise. They respond to the call of public service and are useful partners in every worthwhile community enterprise.

Sentinel-Review executives and staff members were guests at the luncheon.

DOMINION WILL RESUME TRADE WITH RUSSIA

Embargoes Placed in 1931 Have All Been Removed

OTTAWA, Sept. 12—Canada and Russia have resumed friendly trade relations, it is announced by Premier Mackenzie King. Since early in 1931 when each country placed embargoes against imports from the other, trade between them has been negligible. These embargoes have now been removed.

Hon. W. D. Euler, minister of trade and commerce, recently returned from Russia and as an outcome of his negotiations there, he recommended the embargo against Russian goods be lifted and the cabinet has put this recommendation into effect. The Soviet government at the same time rescinded the embargo against Canadian goods.

The two countries evidently have gone further than simply ending the stalemate. Intimation steps to accelerate the inter-change of commodities between Canada and Russia was given when the Prime Minister added that Mr. Euler would have a statement in a few days on the subject.

Canada had been the last country of any importance to maintain an embargo against Russia, Mr. King said.

Hi, Big Boy! 17-¾ Pounds

Tipping the scales at 17 pounds and 12 ounces at birth, the infant son of Mrs. Isaac Finnemore, 35-year-old wife of an Andover, New Brunswick, farmer, took rank among the heaviest babies of modern times. Pictured beside his mother, the baby measures 24 inches long and 18 inches around the chest. Dr. Aden MacIntosh certified the birthweight. Although nearly three pounds less than the largest newborn baby so far recorded, it is nearly 10 pounds heavier than the average.

PREMIER BACK THIS EVENING

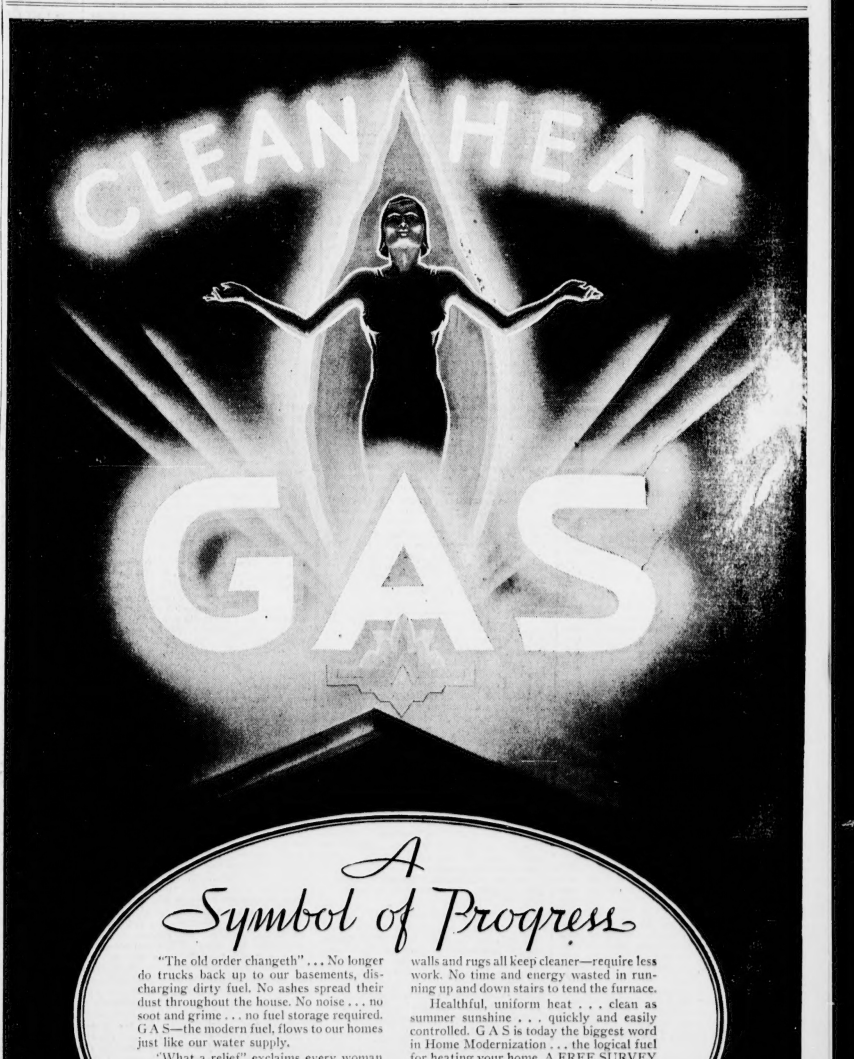

Following a week's visit to the Peace River territory—his first to the area north of Athabasca—Premier William Aberhart will return here by Northern Alberta Railways Saturday evening. His train is due at 8.55 p.m.

At 11.55 p.m. he will leave for Calgary, where on Sunday he will address the Prophetic Bible Institute.

On Monday he will leave for Banff and Vancouver. He plans to spend two weeks at the Pacific coast, mainly on a holiday, but also fulfilling some speaking dates. He will deal in some of his addresses at the coast, with the benefits of economic unity between Alberta and British Columbia.

THE "NATIONAL" DIRECTORS

That Mr. S. J. Hungerford would be chairman of the new board of directors of the Canadian National Railways was almost a matter of course. His appointment is in the nature of a deferred succession to Sir Henry Thornton, under whom he served as chief of staff, and whose policies it is to be supposed—and earnestly hoped—he will re-introduce.

Of the other five directors thus far named, two are lawyers, one a Montreal manufacturer, one a Nova Scotia mining engineer, and the other a Saskatchewan farmer.

The representatives of the legal profession thus hold a disproportionate number of seats on the board, an arrangement which the history of the National does not suggest to be either necessary or advisable. If the lawyer-members can be induced to entertain themselves otherwise and leave the running of the Railways to the business members, that will undoubtedly be greatly to the good of the enterprise and the satisfaction of the public.

THE RADIO BOARD

If Mr. L. W. Brockington can infuse something of his own brilliance into the programs of the Broadcasting Corporation they will be far more interesting and profitable than the offerings of the Commission have been, and these offerings have been a long way from bad in either respect. At least listeners may assume with confidence that the humorous contributions will be less distressing than some they have been afflicted with in the past.

The other members of the board of governors are well distributed geographically, and drawn from many walks of life. The board includes three barristers, one director of a trust company, one broker, one university professor, one director of a picture distributing company, one newspaperman and one author.

Barring a superfluity of lawyers, like the directors of the National Railways, this governing body represents a cross-section of several strata of the national life, and should be able to preserve balance in its programs while drawing on widely varied talent in all sections of the Dominion.

THE DAY OF OPPORTUNITY

If the money-lending institutions of Canada want to resume the business of lending money for construction purposes on the security of fixed assets, they are being offered strong inducement to do so.

As an extension of the housing scheme launched a year ago, the Dominion Government is now offering to guarantee such institutions against loss up to fifteen per cent of the amount of loans they advance to home-owners who want to repair, modernize and remodel their dwellings.

What this will amount to, rests with the investment companies. If they see fit to make such loans, they can find employment for $50,000,000 of capital at 5 per cent. If they do not choose to accept that rate, nothing will come of the scheme.

The lending companies are of course entitled to do as they please, and will do so. They are dealing with their own money and handling their own business in the way they think most profitable. But it is in order to point out that, having gone so far, the Dominion will be forced to go further should that be necessary to get construction going to Canada.

It can be taken as certain that the construction industry cannot continue to be held up indefinitely by the unwillingness of loan agencies to advance money at 5 per cent. That may seem to them to be a low rate. But it is as high a rate as the borrower should pay. The choice is to accept that or stay out of the business, as they have been doing for the past six years so far as Western Canada is concerned.

In any case the housing and house-conditioning project must go on, as one means of providing employment for men now being supported by the taxpayers. It cannot go on unless money is made actually available for loans. If the investment institutions do not supply the money, as sure as sunrise public opinion will force the Government to do so.

SILENCE WOULD BE GOLDEN

Edmonton street cars supply all the argument needed as to why they should be replaced by autobusses or trackless trolleys as fast as that is practicable—or why some friend to humanity should devise a way to equip them with rubber tires.

This is not to say street cars elsewhere are noiseless, or particularly less noisy. The noiseless breed has not yet been produced, and which community can boast the noisiest is more or less a matter of opinion. But it is the Edmonton street cars Edmonton people have to live with and are concerned about. If people in other cities like the racket that is their affair, and no reason why Edmonton people should not abate and abolish the nuisance if they can.

Short of an armoured car with machine guns blazing, it does not seem probable the streets could be infested by any transportation device more certain to wreck the nerves and distract the minds of the populace than these screeching, banging, clattering contraptions. They make day hideous and night a horror for those who have to use the streets and those who have to live or work alongside their tracks.

Whoever suggested Edmonton motorists stop honking their horns and make this a "quiet city," had a grim sense of humor. One street car roaring its way along Jasper avenue can drown any dozen motor horns ever made. When one of them takes a curve, a boiler factory is an academy of music in comparison.

Immediately, there probably isn't anything we can do about it. But surely in this age of invention, when human comfort and sanity are getting more attention than they ever did before, there is room to hope this nerve-wracking, dementia-producing affliction will not go on indefinitely.

This much is certain. We have come to the time when if the city council threatened to lay street car tracks on any hitherto peaceful thoroughfare the residents would get up in arms. For exactly the same reason, it should be made the settled policy to replace the cars with busses or trackless trolleys as rapidly as the replacement can be carried out with any regard to economy.

TECHNOCRACY

By C. B. KOE

Investigate—observe—record. To what end? What was the result obtained? What are the facts observed; the trends recorded?

The facts unearthed by the survey of the Technical Alliance proved largely contrary to the statements and opinions expressed by leaders of government and business in 1932. The valid conclusions from those facts were, likewise, contrary to the suggestions and opinions advocated both by those leaders in government and business, who desired to maintain the "status quo" and those of the radical or "left wing" parties.

Technocracy, therefore, enunciated its own program. Since all the programs of the various political parties contain elements of fundamental truths, one continually hears the statement that Technocracy is this party or that party "in disguise." This is as foolish as to say that because Technocracy observes and records that the sun is the source of terrestrial energy, it follows that technocrats are members of some cult of sun worship.

The melange of truths, half-truths, philosophic speculation, mysticism and magic, mingled with selfishness, greed and deception, that constitutes the average political racket of today from ultra-conservatism on the right to nihilistic anarchy on the left is such as to render the formation of a new organization necessary.

Technocracy Incorporated is that organization. Under the able leadership of Howard Scott, who proved his ability in the Technical Alliance, among some of the leaders of the world's technologists, it is developing rapidly. Its aim is to act in accordance with the known facts and to set up in the North American continent, as speedily as possible, that new order of society, which science designates as the most probable sequence to the present inadequate price system.

The valid conclusions of Technocracy render this necessary. What are those conclusions? They are two in number: the second supplementing the first.

The first conclusion is that we are living in a social paradox.

On the one hand, we have in the North American continent, a potential condition of plenty such as is to be found nowhere else in the known world. There is an abundance of raw materials. The necessary supply of productive machinery, capable of turning out vast quantities of goods. A body of trained technicians and skilled workers, capable of operating this productive machinery in the most efficient manner. In fact everything that will contribute to complete economic security.

On the other hand, we have a hungry, tattered, homeless people. In every city, town, village and hamlet are men, women and children suffering from semi-starvation and face to face with the fear of want. Countless thousands of educated and trained young men and women forced into mental and physical inactivity. A wearisome, crushing burden of debt, that has paralysed the productive machinery. A reckless, thoughtless, greedy waste, that has destroyed and is still destroying a grave portion of our incomparable natural resources. Our hospitals and institutions overflowing with a mentally and physically crippled people.

This social paradox is too obvious to require explanation.

The second conclusion is that the underlying cause that creates this social paradox is the failure of the Price System of social economics to, any longer, function adequately as a method of production and distribution of goods.

This is due, not to the mach'nations of demons or evil spirits; but to the natural sequence of events following the introduction of power machinery into the world governed by a philosophic economy.

Under the Price System, which evolved in a cultural age of hand labor, human labor applied to land produced all wealth. This wealth was distributed by means of money in the form of rent, interest and wages. Such wealth, as became fixed and immobile in buildings, tools, etc., being so small that it was negligible, practically all the money was used to purchase the produced wealth and so enable more wealth to be produced during the next cycle of production. So slowly did the creaking ex-cart of civilization move that the loss from friction in the mechanism could be safely neglected.

When Power Machinery came into use, the wealth that became immobile and fixed in buildings, machinery, power-plants, etc., grew ever larger in volume. Machinery displaces human labor. Inevitably, the distribution of wealth became more and more out of proportion as rent and interest received an even greater share in comparison to wages. So long as parts of the world remained, wholly, un-industrialized, this, though it developed the germs of the present paradoxical situation, did not increase the friction sufficiently to slow down the machine. Evidence of the heat produced by this friction showed in strikes and riots by those physically affected and by philosophical inquiries by those who mentally reacted.

Every group in Canada is prone to demand hand-outs for itself, and howl vigorously if similar favors are accorded to others. The same individuals will demand aid from the public treasury, and squeal about increased taxes. Hounding governments into unneeded expenditure means setting the dogs on the average citizen, who must pay the shot.—Calgary Albertan.

Breathe Deeply To Think Clearly

By DOCTOR FRANK McCOY

One may live weeks without food, days without water, but only a few minutes if the air supply is shut off. Everyone from the babe to the centenarian depends upon a steady supply of air for the maintenance of life. It has been determined by a series of scientific experiments that after a person has become asphyxiated the first tissues in the body to die are those of the brain and nervous system. Other parts of the body may exist for a comparatively long time without additional oxygen, but the brain, being a much delicate structure, must have a constantly renewed supply.

Dr. F. McCoy

Anyone who finds his brain becoming sluggish and dull will undoubtedly be able to increase his mental output merely by learning to breathe correctly. As long as life lasts, poisonous carbon dioxide is being constantly discharged through the lungs, and the vital oxygen of the atmosphere is taken into the body, thereby furnishing the system with this precious element to give vitality and assist in correcting metabolism.

A plentiful supply of oxygen in the blood is important, not only to supply the requirements of the tissues, but to act as a protective agent against many toxins which, unless oxidized, might cause serious illness or death. Most of us do not breathe deeply enough because our muscles of breathing have been insufficiently developed and it is a difficult task for us to breathe more deeply than we do unconsciously.

It does not take much breathing to sustain life, but if we want to be radiating examples of vitality we must learn to develop our breathing apparatus to an extraordinary degree. Learn diaphragmatic control, as taught to singers. Whether you ever intend to sing a note or not, this development of your breathing apparatus will be of service to you regardless of your station in life.

It is not as much value to you to practice deep breathing exercises every few days when you think about it, or when a lecture or an article reminds you of breathing deeply, as it is to build this into your system as a habit which you will do unconsciously every minute of the day and night. After you have developed your breathing muscles, you will find that your lungs are working in measured rhythm and the normal inhalation of eighteen per minute is furnishing you with twice as much oxygen as you had had previously been obtaining. And the increased exhalation will cleanse your system of twice the amount of poisonous gases.

While you are practicing your constitutional walks each day, practice breathing to the capacity of your lungs in and out every so many steps. It is not necessary to strain yourself. After you get the knack of inhaling you will find that it is very easy, and you will be rewarded with increased vitality and a virility which you have never before experienced.

The benefits to be derived from correct breathing exercises are often startling. Follow the exercises for building the muscles of your chest and diaphragm, and I am sure you will find them exceedingly helpful in the cultivation of more permanent health and happiness.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: Miss Janet C. asks: "Are there any fruits which do not contain acid? If all contain acid does cooking destroy it? I would like to eat fruits but cannot if they contain acid so I am very desirous of knowing which fruits do not contain acid, either cooked or uncooked."

ANSWER: Fruit acids are changed somewhat by cooking. Also, dried fruits have less acid than when fresh. Many people are afraid of using fruit because of the acid, but could do so if they understood how to use the fruits properly. It is better to use only the stewed fruits with meals and take fresh fruits by themselves, that is, one kind of fruit or one kind of fruit. Practically all fruits contain some acid, but, because the fruit acids are oxidized in the tissues, their final reaction in the body is alkaline.

QUESTION: Hobart asks: "What muscles of the body does canceing develop mostly? How does it affect the health?"

ANSWER: Canceing develops the muscles of the arms, chest and back. Canceing is a beneficial exercise to improve the circulation, breathing and endurance.

Poems That Live

THE ORACLE

I lay upon the summer grass,
A gold-haired, sunny child came by,
And looked at me, as loath to pass,
With questions in her lingering eye.

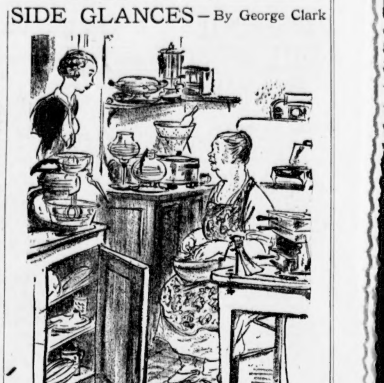

She stopped and wavered, then drew near,
(Ah! the pale gold around her head!)
And o'er my shoulder stopped to peer.
"Why do you read?" she said.

"I read a poet of old time,
A harp sang through all his living hours—
Beauty of earth—the streams, the flowers—
And stars, more lovely than his rhyme.

"And now I read him, since men go,
Forgetful of these sweetest things;
Since he and I love brooks that flow,
And dawns, and bees, and flash of wings!"

She stared at me with laughing look.
Then clasped her hands upon my knees:
"How strange to read it in a book!
I could have told you all of these!"

SIDE GLANCES—By George Clark

"I usually work much faster, ma'am, but I'm kinda slowed up with all these modern contraptions in my way."

On This Date

A Day in Canadian History —o— By FRED WILLIAMS

On this date in 1910 a detachment of officers and men of the Queen's Own Rifles of Toronto were received by King George at Balmoral Castle. Colonel H. M. Pellatt, afterwards Sir Henry, had taken the regiment, 670 strong, at his own expense, to participate in the army manoeuvres. It was the fiftieth anniversary of the foundation of the regiment and the colonel desired not only to make the celebration worth while, but also to give the world witness that the oversea Dominion, and Canada in particular, could be depended upon for assistance in the war with Germany which he saw was coming. The Queen's Own put in a strenuous time at Aldershot. They had left Toronto on August 11; they did not leave England until October 2. Meanwhile they did credit to the regiment and to Canada, participating in the army manoeuvres with such precision as to win the high commendation of the heads of the British army. So pleased were the authorities with the Canadians that His Majesty was sent a formal report and he showed his appreciation by asking Colonel Pellatt to visit him at Balmoral, bringing with him a detachment of the regiment. It was a picked body which travelled north, as the whole regiment could not be received, but those who went never forgot their cordial reception, and when they came back to Canada they told all about it. Colonel Pellatt promised the King that when the war came the Queen's Own would be ready. They were. In less than a month after the declaration of war they were at Valcartier, the advance guard of thousands of others recruited under the Q.O.R., and over 1,000 of them gave their lives for their king and empire.

Alberta's Credit Policy

The views expressed by Mr. E. S. Woodyard in this column are his own personal views, and are not necessarily those held by The Edmonton Bulletin.—EDITOR.

DIFFICULTIES AHEAD

There are three principles available to govern the payment of dividends.

1. They can be paid in such a manner as to be accurately adjusted to actual requirements as determined by increasing wealth production. In this case there would be no redundancy and no levies.

2. They can be paid in excess of actual requirements thereby permitting a condition of inflation within the social credit system.

3. They can be paid in excess of actual requirements accompanied by levies with which to withdraw the excess from circulation.

ADJUSTED TO REQUIREMENTS

In theory at least Major Douglas purports to issue basic dividends accurately adjusted to requirements. But his methods of ascertaining the amounts to be distributed—the manner described in a previous article—are so unscientific as to be practically worthless. The virtue available for distribution is not likely to exceed one per cent of the gallant major's expectations. On this point I shall publish in a future article the interesting calculations of Dr. J. H. Buchi, F.S.S., F.R. Econ. Soc. In theory the major stands for accuracy. In practice he stands for inflation.

Premier Aberhart has not issued any clear statement as to the method by which he proposes to calculate the amounts to be distributed in dividends. For electoral purposes he used $25.00 per capita per month for adults and lesser amounts for children as the probable amount AT THE COMMENCEMENT rising to larger amounts later.

But on the eve of the election he publicly stated that he had been revising his calculations and found THAT HE COULD PAY $75.00 PER CAPITA PER MONTH JUST AS EASILY AS $25.00 PER CAPITA PER MONTH. Perchance in making the increase and no levies.

Perchance in making the re-election statement the premier inadvertently expressed a profound truth.

More recently there has been talk of much smaller amounts. Several ministers—notably Dr. Cross—have mentioned the sum of $5.00 PER MONTH as the sum to be distributed at the commencement of operations. But everyone is in the dark as to the formula to be used in ascertaining the amounts to be scattered broadcast.

FIVE DOLLAR DIVIDENDS

I shall try to estimate the probable consequence of paying $5.00 per month dividends. All estimates are based on the following assumptions:

1. That everyone in the province is within the social credit system.

2. That everyone has surrendered to the credit house—in exchange for Alberta credit—50 per cent of their cash resources.

3. That the credit thus surrendered amounts to $25,000,000.00.

4. That the flow of national money outside the social credit sys-

NO HELP NEEDED

Editor, Bulletin: Peddlers and vendors of all sorts swarm the Peace River country seeking to share in its bounteous harvest.

Before the farmer has realized in his hands cash or advice as to how to spend his money.

Years of excessive privation in giving place this year to a harvest with a gratifying profit. Freedom of frost, earlier harvest, exceptional weather, bringing average yield and better grade of grain all combine with advanced prices to bring this relief.

From wide spread drought areas also come many looking for work in the harvest fields.

Peace River men supplied much help in previous years elsewhere and still left help enough to care for home harvesting; so with the present influx of labor many are disappointed, for there is much more help than is needed.

Sunshine Shafts

A judge's little daughter, who had attended her father's court for the first time, was very interested in the proceedings. After her return home she told a visitor:

"Daddy made a speech, and several other men made speeches to twelve men who sat all together, and then the twelve men were put in a dark room to be developed."

"Oh dear," sighed the pretty girl in the restaurant. "I must have forgotten my purse."

The man sitting opposite her jumped to his feet.

"Please allow me to pay," he said, with a polite bow.

She looked at him carefully—and then smiled pityingly.

"No," she remarked. "You paid for me yesterday. Let some other mutt do it today."

Alberta Credit And British Columbia Credit

By R. T. ELLIOTT, K.C.

The views expressed by Mr. R. T. Elliott, K.C., in this column are his own personal views and are not necessarily those held by The Edmonton Bulletin.—EDITOR.

FROM time to time political notables exchange left-handed compliments as to the credit or lack of credit of the Province of Alberta—and as to the credit or lack of credit of the Province of British Columbia.

The fact is, and it is by no means a discouraging and disquieting fact, that pioneering in development over a great area of territory is a very expensive and also a distinctly experimental undertaking. The money has to be spent before the districts can become adequately populated and sufficiently productive to pay off the cost of pioneering. Should anything happen to delay the bringing of an adequate population into the country there will be unemployment and a stoppage of construction. Should any policy be adopted which makes the amount of legal tender in circulation too small to permit of continuous development and improvement of the country there will be more unemployment and a tendency on the part of those who can get out of the country to do so. Should any policy be adopted which by tariffs arbitrarily increases the cost of living, while producers are left to sell in world competition, the result will be the destruction of real estate values, and the collapse of wage scales and salary standards.

All these misfortunes overtook Alberta and British Columbia. The conditions of temporary distress which have arisen tend to obscure the fact that the assets of Alberta and the assets of British Columbia exceed in value the combined amount of all the debts of these two provinces many thousands of times.

The tar sands of Alberta are "worth a billion" in real money; development and transportation on a basis of public utility costs will coin that billion into real money.

The anthracite in the Ground Hog Valley area of British Columbia is also "worth a billion" in real money. The building of a rail line to the nearest seaport at the cost of less than two million dollars will give scope to an anthracite trade which can spread around the world. An engineer who examined the Ground Hog anthracite field said that shipment of ten thousand tons a day for a thousand years, would give a basis on which to calculate the remaining anthracite in place.

The Alberta tar sand development is getting under way at long last. The British Columbia anthracite development is a possibility of the dim future, but the Provincial asset is there.

Some day soon Canada will have a political movement which will cause real action, and any reasonable percentage of real action will make Canada as a whole the richest country per head of population in the world, and the public debts of Alberta and British Columbia will be paid out of the Government's share in the values of new production. Our present policy of looking for new avenues of taxation will be abandoned—because it does not get results; all that happens is we pay more and owe more.

New Telephone Gadget Can Turn Soprano Into Baritone

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 12.—A new kind of telephone which mimics the human voice was demonstrated to the Harvard Tercentenary yesterday.

It does more than a human being can do. It can change a woman's voice into a man's or bass into soprano. It can convert a single voice into a duet, either of speech or song.

A bass singer could sound like two persons simultaneously, one bass, the other soprano, tenor or any desired tone.

Some of these stunts of the new electrical mimic were demonstrated by Dr. Frank Jewett, head of the Bell Telephone laboratories. The phone is a new instrument, never shown before, and Dr. Jewett said it was invented not for telephoning but to study the voice.

The one-man or one-woman duet is made possible by the fact the mimicking voice can be transmitted simultaneously with the original voice. It is exactly the same as two persons talking on one wire—except in this case one is a real electrical ghost.

After the electrical mimic has constructed the ghost voice, the turn of dials will change tones and pitches, so a masculine voice becomes feminine. The altered ghost voices have any discards of the original voice, but no more.

Victoria Church Is Now Dedicated

"Ye shall speak into the air" I. Cor. 14:9, was the text used by Dean Quainton at the dedication of the new bells recently installed for Christ's Church Cathedral, Victoria, B.C. It was a service touched with beauty, pathos and glory. They are splendid examples of the art, having recently been brought from England. Muffled peals were rung in memory of our late King and of the beloved bishop Charles de Veber Schofield, whose last act was to express his joy to a few visitors as they looked them over. Not only did the crowds within and around the cathedral feel the thrill of a magnificent program, but by means of the radio they were heard speaking "into the air," as the text declared.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

At all Christian Science churches next Sunday, the subject of the lesson-sermon will be "Substance." The following is one of the Scriptural quotations contained in the lesson-sermon: "I wisdom dwell with prudence, and find out knowledge of witty inventions . . . Counsel is mine, and sound wisdom: I am understanding; I have strength . . . Now therefore hearken unto me, O ye children: for blessed are they that keep my ways" (Proverbs 8:12, 14, 32). One of the correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, is as follows (page 283): "Mind is the same Life, Love, and wisdom yesterday, and today, and forever."

Finish Tindale's Task

On October 6th, 1536, one of England's great sons, William Tindale, suffered martyrdom because of his steadfastness in putting the New Testament into his own mother tongue for all the people of England. The work in which he was a pioneer has now become part of the normal work of the church. Many missionary translators and their native helpers are steadfastly laboring in the same spirit to reach all the tongues of mankind with the Gospel. As we approach the 400th Anniversary of Tindale's martyrdom, the Bible Society earnestly invites you to join in the enterprise of giving to mankind what Tindale and his successors gave to the English.

The Council At Jerusalem

Illustrated Sunday School Lesson

Scripture—Acts 15 and Galatians 2.

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell and Alfred J. Buescher

When Paul and Barnabas returned from their missionary journey the church at Antioch rejoiced at hearing of the conversion of Gentiles wherever they had gone. But certain trouble makers made it difficult to join the church.

To settle the dissension thus raised it was decided to refer the matter to the church at Jerusalem. So messengers set out with Paul and Barnabas for Jerusalem to get the advice of the apostles in the matter under dispute.

After hearing both sides James announced the council's decision approving the work of Paul and Barnabas in receiving Gentiles without the rites and ceremonies of the Old Testament, which had been a bone of contention.

The same question was raised later in Galatia. Paul wrote his Galatian epistle rebuking the objectors. He taught salvation through faith alone in Jesus Christ (GOLDEN TEXT—Gal. 5:1c).

EVANGELIST TO BE REMEMBERED

Dwight L. Moody, a name honored in the United States, is to be specially remembered. The 100th anniversary of his birth is approaching. A meeting has just been held at East Northfield, Mass., where several institutions have sprung up through the influence of the great evangelist. Dr. John McDowell, a recent Moderator of the Presbyterian Church, U.S.A., spoke on "Moody the Man and His Message." It is important to note that Dr. McDowell is a rare example of what personality and opportunity can effect. Mr. Moody was like a father to him. It was in the "eighties" of last century that a poor lad arrived at Mount Hermon School, founded by the evangelist. He had lost an arm at the age of fourteen while working in a mine, worked his way through the school, kept on at Princeton, graduating from the University and Seminary, and is now a national leader.

CHURCH KNOWN AROUND WORLD

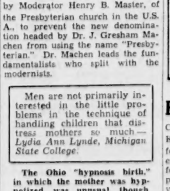

Beresford St. Congregational Church, Auckland, N.Z., is known around the globe. Like so many great institutions it began by a few people assembling for worship in a cottage, the site later being purchased for a church. The pioneer minister was Rev. Thomas Hemer. About seventy years ago the congregation secured a permanent lot on Beresford street and great success followed. The six massive columns at the entrance give it a classic appearance and from time to time the equipment has been greatly improved. The ministry of Rev. Lionel Fletcher, who conducted several missions in Canada a few years ago, brought success to its height, and his successor Rev. Arthur C. Nelson, B.A., is maintaining its fine position. Before going to Auckland he had held a successful pastorate in Adelaide, Australia.

Church Battle Goes to Court

Machen Master

PRESBYTERIANS of the nation have shifted to the courts the bitter fight which brought a split in the church. Suit has been filed by Moderator Henry B. Master, of the Presbyterian church in the U.S. A., to prevent the new denomination headed by J. Gresham Machen from using the name "Presbyterian." Dr. Machen leads the fundamentalists who split with the modernists.

Men are not primarily interested in the technique of handling children that distress mothers so much.—Lydia Ann Lynde, Michigan State College.

The Ohio "hypnosis birth," in which the mother was hypnotized, was unusual, though new fathers usually appear to be in that state.

The American penal system that operates to make fairly decent men bad, to make bad men worse, and then to turn them all loose to pixy upon society, is the most colossal stupidity.—JUDGE JOSEPH N. ULMAN, Baltimore.

Spanish Leaders Seek to End War

Romanones Santiago Alba

REPORTS that two of Spain's outstanding political figures, the Count of Romanones, aide of ex-King Alfonso, and Santiago Alba, former head of Parliament, seek to end the civil war by conciliation, followed release of Romanones from prison at San Sebastian. Though a very symbol of monarchism, the count is reported to have defended the Loyalist government.

Edmonton's Name Is 1143 Years Old

Writing a history of Edmonton, England, George W. Sturges, geography master at Montagu Senior Boys' School in the town made famous by John Gilpin's ride, has written City Clerk Alfred Russell here asking how Edmonton, Alberta, came to be named.

Mr. Russell will tell him that the Alberta Edmonton, as a name in Canadian history, dates from 1795. In that year the Hudson's Bay Company built a fur post on the North Saskatchewan about 25 miles below the site of the present Edmonton, and adjacent to old Fort Augustus, which was built the previous year by the Northwest Fur Company. It was named after Edmonton, England, by George Sutherland, the H.B.C. chief factor in charge. It is because that was the birthplace of his clerk, John Pruden.

ORIGIN OF NAME

Mr. Sturges writes that he has unearthed some interesting information about Edmonton, England, and the many homes to be found in the British museum. The name and place dates as far back as 793, A.D. And with the successive invasions of England the name Edmonton underwent several changes.

In the year mentioned—793, A.D., the place was known as Edelmentuna, which is believed to be the Latinized form of the Saxon word derived from Eadhelm, meaning "Happy Helmet." Since the year 1182 Edmonton, England, has seen the following variations in its name: Aedelmenton, Edelmeton, Edelmintone, Edelmenston, Edmenton, Edelmynton.

NAME IN 1589

Edmynton, Edmondton and Edmonton, the name now being word used for the town in 1589.

So Edmonton, Alberta, may well be proud of its name. As a namesake of that other Edmonton 6,000 miles away, it shines in a reflected glory which goes back 1143 years!

Fire Ravages For Week Show Increase

TORONTO, Sept. 12.—Fire losses in Canada for the week ending Sept. 9 are estimated at $128,000, according to the Monetary Times. Losses for the preceding week were $172,000 and for the corresponding week last year, $97,500. Total losses thus far this year are $9,298,900, as compared with $8,453,675 in the same period last year.

Duplessis Ends Agriculture Paper

QUEBEC, Sept. 12.—Abolition of Le Journal D'Agriculture at a saving of $10,000 per annum and cancellation of a contract between the former Liberal government and Signs of Canada, Limited, for manufacture of motor license plates, was announced today by Premier Duplessis.

During 1935 approximately $4,000,000 worth of automobiles and parts were exported from the United States to France.

Taylor, Stanwyck Form Screen's New Romantic Team In Capitol Show

Principal In Comedy Film

UNA MERKEL

who co-stars with Charles Butterworth, Walter Abel, Hugh Herbert and Edith Atwater in "We Went To College", the current attraction at the Strand.

Barbara Stanwyck and Robert Taylor form the screen's newest romantic team in "His Brother's Wife," which comes to the Capitol theatre Saturday for six days.

Taylor, regarded as the most sensational box-office draw since Clark Gable first leaped to fame, comes into his newest leading role following such hits as "Private Number," "Small Town Girl" and "Magnificent Obsession."

VAN DYKE DIRECTED

W. S. Van Dyke, the man who made such outstanding pictures as "San Francisco", "Rose Marie" and "Naughty Marietta," directed "His Brother's Wife."

The new picture, adapted to the screen by Leon Gordon and John Meehan, also features Jean Hersholt who has become tremendously popular as the result of starring roles in "The Country Doctor" and "Sins of Man."

"His Brother's Wife" tells of a young scientist about to embark on his first scientific expedition. On the eve of leaving New York for the tropical jungle, Taylor, the young scientist, goes on his final fling and meets Miss Stanwyck in a gay gambling casino.

ACCOMPANIES HERSHOLT

For ten days their romance progresses and Taylor decided to forsake the expedition, remain in New York and marry Miss Stanwyck. He is dissuaded from doing so by his brother, and he accompanies Hersholt into the jungle to trace the cause and find a cure for fatal spotted fever.

Meanwhile, to avenge herself, Miss Stanwyck marries Taylor's brother and forthwith deserts him. The young scientist's love for the girl lures him back to New York—to find her married to his own brother.

To solve the marital puzzle, Taylor takes the girl back to the jungle so that the brother can divorce her. When the divorce is granted, Taylor renounces the girl and orders her to return to New York. The spotted fever campaign is successful and Taylor and Hersholt believe they have reached a solution to their scientific problem.

LOVE IS REBORN

The two scientists need a volunteer willing to be infected with the disease. The girl suddenly intimates herself and the young scientist fights desperately to save her life—and their love is reborn.

The story has been plotted in two extremely interesting yet contrasting settings—the gay, happy night life of New York and the torrid and suffocating heat of a dense South American jungle.

The settings were designed by Cedric Gibbons. Lawrence Weingarten was the producer.

Form Newest Love Team

ROBERT TAYLOR

BARBARA STANWYCK

Robert Taylor and Barbara Stanwyck form Hollywood's newest romantic team in "His Brother's Wife", which opens at the Capitol today for a three-day run. Jean Hersholt is also in the cast.

Gay Lampoon Of Grad On Home-Coming Day Comic Hit For Strand Theatre

"We Went To College", the current screen attraction at the Strand theatre, must have been expressly designed to make people forget their troubles for here is a picture which keeps its audiences laughing from its opening shot to its final fadeout.

Charles Butterworth, Walter Abel, Hugh Herbert, Una Merkel and Edith Atwater are the principals in an outstanding all-comedy cast. Individually these players have provided the comedy highlight of many a film production; collectively they supply a barrage of laughter and good humor impossible to resist.

Lampooning the gay old grad who returns to his college reunion and attempts to recapture the irresponsibility and madcap antics of his undergraduate days, the story presents the predicament of a staid business man attending the reunion with his wife and who finds himself embarrassed by the advances of a former campus "crush" who is now a professor's wife.

LARGE CASTS BEING PUT IN LATEST FILMS

With Business Better Producers Feeling They Can Now Go Limit

With business conditions picking up in all parts of the United States, producers are beginning to feel that they can go the limit in giving the world-wide audience motion pictures with large casts and elaborate backgrounds.

Gone are the days of the one-hour pictures, lengthy and more colorful productions taking their places. Shakespeare is coming into his own with "Midsummer Night's Dream" and "Romeo and Juliet," the old classics are being dusted off, colorful periods of history are being raked for material, as witness such vast productions as "The Plainsman" and "The Maid of Salem", the former having the sweep of pioneer days and the latter telling the story behind New England witchcraft.

BIG WAR FILM

The 1936-37 season finds producers grouping to every field of human endeavor, circling the globe in search of worth-while material around which to build their stories. On top of this, producers are using all of their valuable talent in presenting them properly.

"Beyond the Sound of the Machine Gun," one of the great war novels, will be given a huge cast, and it may rank with such pictures as "The Big Parade" and "All Quiet on the Western Front." "Maid of Salem", now in production, deals with seventeenth century witchcraft, calls for the construction of two entire villages, and boasts of a cast which includes Claudette Colbert, Fred MacMurray, Gale Sondergaard, Bonita Granville, Edward Ellis, Louise Dresser, and Bennie Bartlett.

ELABORATE TREATMENT

"Champagne Waltz" takes audiences to Vienna, gives them music which includes waltzes and modern numbers, and a cast composed of Gladys Swarthout, Fred MacMurray, Jack Oakie, Veloz and Yolanda, Vivienne Osborne, Frank Forest, Lionel Cossart, Benny Baker and Herman Bing.

"The Plainsman," dealing in detail with the period from 1865 to 1875, produced by Cecil B. DeMille has the customary fidelity and sweep of his work, and numbers powerful names in its cast, including Gary Cooper, Jean Arthur, James Ellison, Dorothy Burgess, Porter Hall, Charles Bickford, Johnny Downs, Purnell Pratt and John Miljan.

JIMMY DUNN, who never has less than 75 suits in his wardrobe, arrived in Hollywood a few years ago with a single suit.

Barbara Stanwyck wears virtually no make-up for her role of "Norah" in "The Plough and the Stars," drama of the Irish revolution.

MOVIE STUDIO GATE CRASHING IS REAL TRICK

You Must be Someone of Importance to Secure Requisite Pass

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 12. — If you're thinking of invading the sacrosanct precincts of a film studio, take heed of these means to avoid being accosted—and ousted —by the strict gendarmerie of the studio police forces.

It may be possible, even, for you to be unchallenged as you stand within the refrigerated confines of a sound stage and peer avidly at an intimate affair d'amour involving Gary Cooper and Jean Arthur, or perhaps Fred MacMurray and Gladys Swarthout.

STAND ON CARPET

You may stand with impunity on the carpets of pine needles that lends realism, and a woodsy fragrance, to the indoor forest primeval where Cecil B. De Mille's redskins and white varmints carry on their contraband traffic in "thunder-sticks" (rifles).

None will question your presence as you take your post athwart the 30-yard line and thrill to Noisemaker Tom Brown as he tucks the football under his arm and fends off many tacklers to run goalward for the glory of Old Siwash—while a camera high on a boom overhead records the deathless scene.

ALL MAY BE PREY

All may be your prey—Crawford, Gable, Cagney, Muni, Lombard, Colman, Gaynor, Sullavan, Arnold Blondell, Weismuller, Stanwyck, Keeler, Powell, Temple, Pitts, Oberon, Montgomery and Chatterton—all, that is, save Garbo, Hepburn and a precious few more who similarly insist that their sets remain closed to any and all visitors.

The formula is so simple it's funny. All you must do once you're inside the studio gateway is to shed hat and coat and any air of wonderment. Assume an air of complete assurance, or even of indifference. Don't gape. Don't ask questions. Walk briskly past whistle men and workmen, telephones, studio cops and assistant directors. Be unobtrusively silent when a scene is being rehearsed or taken. Stop dead in your tracks when red lights glow and bells ring at the outer doors of sound stages.

METHOD INFALLIBLE

The method is well-nigh infallible, even if you can't distinguish a camera boom from a mixer's panel.

But—just TRY to get inside the studio gate in the first place!

To obtain the requisite pass you must be at least the seventh son of the seventh son of a long line of illustrious mahabajahs — that, or have eminently legitimate business within the studio, and even then you'll be allotted a guide who'll dog your every footstep.

Scores New Screen Hit

RUTH CHATTERTON

who will be seen in "Lady of Secrets" at the Rialto theatre starting Monday. Otto Kruger and Marian Marsh form part of the strong supporting cast.

SHIRLEY SETS NEW STANDARD ENTERTAINMENT

Talented Juvenile Actress Comes to Empress in Latest Picture

Surrounded by a cast of Hollywood favorites and introducing five new hit songs, Shirley Temple set a new high standard in entertainment in "The Poor Little Rich Girl," which opens at the Empress theatre Monday for a three day run.

Alice Faye, Gloria Stuart, Jack Haley and Michael Whalen all have featured parts in the film and Mack Gordon and Harry Revel, Hollywood's most famous songwriters, have authored a quintet of new numbers especially for the dimpled little star including "When I'm With You," "But Definitely", "You've Gotta Eat Your Spinach," "Oh, My Goodness" and "Military Man."

Becomes Actress; Learns Real Name

Marsha Hunt, now working in "The Accusing Finger," became an actress before she discovered her real name.

She was christened "Marsha," but because her great grandmother objected, her parents changed her name to Betty and it was not until she had decided on a career in the films that Miss Hunt, searching for a higher sounding name than Betty when she became a player, was told that in reality she was at her birth named Marsha.

So, after all, she did not have to adopt a screen name.

'Show Business' Will Have All-Star Cast

With an all-star cast planned, Paramount today purchased and placed in work a story titled "Show Business," written by Lew Lipton and Bartlett Cormack.

Tentatively in mind for the five stellar parts are Gladys Swarthout, Jack Benny, Fred MacMurray, Cary Grant and Akim Tamiroff.

The story, which will be given musical treatment, is a romantic drama involving five childhood friends who in adult years individually become famous in various branches of the show business.

Gene Fowler's new contract to write for Twentieth Century-Fox calls for a steady wage increase of one dollar per week. Just what the reason is no one seems to know.

Lady Of Secrets, Vibrant Drama Calls For Another Bow To Ruth Chatterton

"Lady of Secrets," Columbia's new romantic drama starring Ruth Chatterton, is scheduled to open Monday at the Rialto theatre. A glance at the list of persons involved in the making of this film, gives one the feeling that its potentialities are many.

HIGH RATING

First, of course, there is Miss Chatterton, whose return to the screen in "Lady of Secrets" immediately gives it a higher-than-ordinary rating. Otto Kruger, naturally, needs no sendoff either. His capable acting since 1933, when he first invaded Hollywood, has made him a popular figure. Lionel Atwill has been royally entertaining audiences since his days on the English stage, whence he came. Lately, he has been seen in such films as "Captain Blood", "Rendezvous" and "The Devil Is a Woman."

Marian Marsh attracted wide attention several weeks ago with her performance in "Crime and Punishment," and before that in "The Black Room" and other films. Lloyd Nolan, a recent recruit from the stage, has been in "G-Men", "She Couldn't Take It" and "Cross-Way Ticket", among others. Robert Allen was Grace Moore's leading man in "Love Me Forever", and he has appeared in many other pictures.

ADDED FEATURE

Gene Autry, singing star, becomes involved in a new and exciting story treatment in his latest starring picture for Republic—"Oh, Susanna" which is an added feature on the Rialto's bill.

Instead of rescuing fair heroines and galloping to the aid of others, Autry spends most of the film footage trying to prove that he is not a killer and robber with a "Dead or Alive" price on his head.

Nevertheless his talents for song and music have full sway when he arrives incognito at an old friend's dude ranch. He ask his friend's daughter in entertaining cash customers while ferreting out the killer.

Lady patrons of the Rialto theatre who have been saving the Bread O' Spring dinnerware are reminded that next week is the last week of the give-away of this dinnerware. As there are only a limited number of pieces on hand the order will be "first come first served". Those who are short a number of pieces may buy as many tickets as they desire and these tickets can be used for subsequent shows.

Poor Little Rich Girl

SHIRLEY TEMPLE

Holly wood's favorite juvenile star, who will be seen at the Empress Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in her latest triumph, "Poor Little Rich Girl."

'Love And Laughter' Production Starts

Richard A. Rowland, producing for Paramount, today set leading players and director for his next production, "Love and Laughter."

Chief feminine role goes to Irene Hervey, with Charles Starrett opposite. Bert Lytell, famous silent star, will direct.

The story is the first screen original from the pen of Austin Strong, who first earned screen fame for his story "Th Heaven," in which Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell rose to stardom.

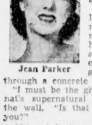

Evelyn Brent Cast In 'Hopalong' Film

Evelyn Brent, star of the silent screen, has been signed for an important role in "Hopalong Cassidy Returns," first of the new series which Harry Sherman is producing and which features William Boyd.

Others in the cast in important roles include George Hayes, Gail Sheridan, Irving Bacon, Grant Richards and John Beck.

PARKER, DONAT IN GHOST FILM

Jean Parker approaches Robert Donat at Alexander Korda's London Films Studios between scenes of "The Ghost Goes West," the gay romantic comedy showing Monday at the Princess theatre.

Jean Parker

"Are you the man I love? Or are you the ghost of his ancestor?" asked Jean.

"I don't really know—at the moment," Donat replied, as he took a few steps and peered within the greatest of ease through a concrete wall.

"I must be the ghost," came Donat's supernatural voice through the wall. "Is that all right with you?"

Although he is a ghost in the best tradition of ghosts, Donat must have sufficient substance accordingly to eat, for Miss Parker to mistake him for the live descendant of the errant spirit. It was left to Ned Mann, chief of Korda's special effects department, to effect the phenomenon. He finally got it after three months of experiment, but neither Robert Donat nor Jean Parker quite knew where they stood.

TITLE GIVEN NEW MUSICAL

G.B. announced this week that "Head Over Heels" is the definite title of the new Jessie Matthews starring vehicle which is in production now at Shepherd's Bush. Sonnie Hale, the star's husband, is directing. The featured supporting cast includes Whitney Bourne, Romney Brent, Robert Flemying, and Louis Borrell.

Dwight Taylor, who collaborated on the Astaire-Rogers successes, "Top Hat" and "Follow the Fleet," adapted "Head Over Heels" for the screen from an original story by Francois de Croisset. Music and lyrics were composed by Gordon and Revel, internationally known song-writing team.

Use Set Telephones For Quiet In Picture

Again a "first" in motion pictures.

An elaborate "interest" telephone system is being used to insure quiet on one single set.

Necessary because of the intensely dramatic scenes in "Valiant is the Word for Carrie," the "interest" system is used by laborers and electricians in transmitting soft-spoken messages near scenes in which Gladys George, Arline Judge and John Howard are appearing.

Hurries From One Film Into Another

Marsha Hunt was stepped into the leading feminine role of Paramount's tentatively titled story, "Right In Your Lap," half an hour after having completed title lead with Paul Kelly and Robert Cummings in "The Accusing Finger."

In "Right In Your Lap," Miss Hunt will be featured with John Howard and Eugene Pallette, under the direction of Glenn Tryon.

Native Diet Causes Grief On Location

A near strike on the part of Malay players in the cast of "The Jungle Princess," which features Dorothy Lamour and Ray Milland, was averted today by Director Wm. Thiele through promising the native extras a change in diet.

Box lunches, the sort that studios furnish cast and company alike when on remote location, caused the trouble.

The studio commissary department has been requested to furnish quantities of rice, fish, cocoanuts, bananas and whatever tropical fruits are available, to mollify the Malays.

George Arliss insists no man can act entirely natural on the stage or screen playing opposite a lady who is merely his stage wife.

RADIO PRIEST CARRIES WAR INTO NEW YORK

Father Coughlin Declares Production Problem Solved

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Father Charles Coughlin carried his election campaigning into the east last night with an appeal to a throng at Ebbets Field not to "sit idly by and be satisfied by a handout of the New Deal given you as an insult."

The Detroit priest asserted problems of production had been solved, and there remained the problem of distribution. The modern workman with the aid of modern machinery, he said, "produces 100 times" what his ancestors did.

"Yet you are told by this stupid pagan system of economics that you must be paid by the hour and not by what you produce," he said. "This system must pass and until it does pass, let no man, let no candidate for the presidency, tell you that there is a new deal."

The mass production industries must turn, he asserted, "To a living annual wage" and this he defined as an $1,800 minimum for a father who has a wife and three children at home.

KING PROLONGS AUSTRIAN VISIT

VIENNA, Sept. 12.—King Edward VIII and Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg conversed at the British embassy Friday for nearly an hour.

The King is believed planning to spend several additional days in Austria. Preparations for his departure on Monday have been cancelled.

His Majesty shot a number of partridges while hunting with friends near Trumau, southern Austria, Thursday. Returning to the capital, he again saw Dr. Henrich Neumann for treatment of his slight ear malady.

Duchess Digs Spuds

Rex Beach Discovers Canadian Fish Suffer From Pyorrhea Germs

VANCOUVER, Sept. 12.—Fish with pyorrhea and mountains that exude leather—just two discoveries in the active life of Rex Beach, noted writer, who arrived here Thursday by Canadian Pacific and in the afternoon proceeded to Seattle.

"I stopped off on my way west in Western Ontario near Hudson," said Beach, "to do a bit of muskilonge fishing, also to pick up a story about it. I don't suppose you know much about that sort of fish out here.

"Well, do you know something? They have pyorrhea. Yes, sir, at certain times of the year their teeth start to loosen up and they certainly have a mouthful of them.

"They are supposed to be all right by September 1, but this year the muskallonge hadn't seen their dentist, or something."

GOING TO ALASKA

On Saturday Beach sails for Alaska from Seattle.

"I am going up near Juneau to investigate a deposit of mountain leather.

"Yes, mountain leather. No wonder you open your eyes. Everybody does when they hear about it.

"It's also called mountain cork and it's a sort of insulation material like asbestos. They haven't found it in commercial quantities before now, but I heard about the deposit and interested some eastern capital in it. So the principals and I are going to look it over."

"Will any stories come out of your trip?" he was asked.

ONE OR TWO

"Oh, I generally manage to pick up one or two," he said.

A huge man, with craggy features and a broad, winning smile, Beach is looking fit.

Beach, on his trip to Vancouver, made a second stop at Wilcox, Saskatchewan, near Regina. He went there to meet Father Alfred Murray, head of the far-famed Notre Dame College for boys.

"He's a great character," said Beach, "and it's a great place."

Beach is doing a story on Father Murray for a well-known magazine. The priest has patterned his college on the Notre Dame University at South Bend, Indiana.

The last time Beach was in Vancouver he met Mayor G. G. McGeer and the pair of them got along splendidly. Gerry told Beach all about his monetary reform policies.

"I'm sorry, but I don't think I'll have time to see Gerry on this visit," he said. 'My goodness, if I let him talk to me I'd never get to Seattle."

DOGS

by P. Hamilton Goodsell

A man wrote me, asking whether or not a native amateur could compete against professionals in a dog show. If he means is this allowable under the rules the answer is, certainly. Anyone may enter and show a dog at any show, excepting those connected with that particular show in such official capacity as judge, superintendent, or veterinarian.

If my correspondent by his question, would an amateur have a chance to win anything against a competing professional, the answer must be qualified. He would have a chance by all means, provided he could show his dog in first-class condition, and provided also that his dog was on a par as to quality and ring manners with that of his professional competitor.

CONDITION CONSIDERED

A dog is judged not only upon how nearly it approaches the standard of perfection of its breed, but also on the condition in which it is shown and how it shows. Much depends upon "ring manners" and the ability to show, on the part of the dog itself and on the part of the person handling it at the time it is being judged. It is in those matters that the professional often has the advantage over the amateur.

To properly condition and prepare a dog for a show and then successfully handle it there, especially one of the wire-haired varieties, which require trimming and plucking in order to present the desired appearance, calls for considerable practice and knowledge. Most professionals "put their dogs down," as it is termed, in perfect shape, which an amateur cannot hope to equal except to give the matter serious attention. Many a dog has suffered defeat because it was brought into the ring in poor condition, or because it had not been trained to show properly. It is difficult to judge a dog, if the animal will not stand quietly or refuses to move around the ring in such a manner as to permit its gait to be judged and its soundness of movement determined.

A dog that is to be shown should first be taught to stand correctly and quietly when placed upon the judging block, or called to the centre of the ring for the judge to examine it. It should be trained to submit without objection to a stranger's running his hands over it, as a judge will have to do. It must be trained to move around the ring at the end of its lead without bother or fuss. It is manifestly impossible to compare a dog's gait with that of others if it is jumping and whirling about, or pulling and straining at its leash in excitement, or perhaps refusing to budge at all due to fear or nervousness.

It takes time and patience to teach a dog all these points and essentials of the educated show dog. If anyone wants to show his dog, he should first get an unbiased, honest opinion from someone qualified to give it, as to whether or not his dog has the requisite quality to warrant its being shown. Having determined this to his satisfaction, he should proceed with its training along the lines I have laid down, namely, to quietly and as posed and to follow one around naturally and freely at the end of a light leash attached to a light, strong collar, both of which should be as unobtrusive as possible.

Most rings are provided with judging blocks, or platforms about four feet square and raised above the ground about three or four inches, on which the dogs must stand while the judge goes over them. In training your dog for the show ring, therefore, knock a judging block together and use it in the instruction of the animal. It will be of great assistance if you can get a friend who owns a dog to help you by bringing over his dog to aid in getting your own to stand while other dogs are alongside it.

HOLDING DOG'S INTEREST

In these lessons one will find it advantageous to have some dried cooked liver in small pieces to give the pupil as a reward. Dogs are very fond of this and the knowledge that you have some and that they will get some for good work, keeps their interest. Most experienced showers of dogs have a piece or two of this handy when actually showing their dogs in the ring. Of course, in showing a dog one should make sure that it is properly groomed and quite clean, especially with those whose coats are all white or in which the color predominates. For this purpose chalk, either in the form of powder or in blocks may be used. Some dog remedy companies put out a specially prepared cleaning powder for the purpose. It should be well brushed out before the dog goes into the ring as its presence to too great an extent in the animal's coat may lead to disqualification.

WORK TO START ON GOLDFIELDS ROAD SHORTLY

Minister Declares He's Only Waiting For the Freeze-Up

Construction of a highway from Fort McMurray to Goldfields, on Lake Athabasca will commence as soon as freeze-up arrives, if present plans mature, Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works announces.

At the same time he announced he had advised the Dominion governments of his acceptance of the offer of $25,000 as Dominion assistance in the construction of such a road.

SEVEN MILE LINK

The first link in the 200-mile highway will be the seven mile stretch from McMurray to the Athabasca rapids.

As soon as freeze-up arrives, camps will be opened along the proposed route and clearing will commence.

Hon. Mr. Fallow stated that it was his intention to obtain the services of Col. James K. Cornwall, well-known old timer and who is familiar with every foot of the area.

"Col. Cornwall has offered us his assistance," said the minister. "Probably he will be asked to act as a general supervisor of the work."

PREPARES WORK

"I want to fly low over this area and with my colleague Hon. C. C. Ross and arrangements are under way for this trip now," said Hon. Mr. Fallow. "We propose to leave McMurray by plane and fly low to Goldfields. Then we will inspect the 16-mile portage between Smith and Resolution."

The minister is already preparing preliminary details for the opening of camps.

JAPAN SEEKS NAVAL PARITY

TOKYO, Sept. 12.—Japanese desire for new naval treaties, based on parity with Great Britain and the United States, was hinted today by Admiral Osami Nagano, minister of the navy.

Admiral Nagano, in an exclusive interview, expressed confidence peace will continue in the Pacific with expiration of the London and Washington pacts next January.

He disclaimed Japanese intent to inaugurate a naval building race with the United States and Great Britain after termination of the treaties.

Leper Isle Modern

HONOLULU, Sept. 12.—Molokai, the leper colony island of the Pacific, has gone modern. It hereafter will boast of an up-to-date ambulance instead of using whatever vehicle happened to be convenient when it was necessary to rush a patient to the hospital.

Crescent To Fete Salesday

L. PODERSKY

President of Crescent Furniture Co.

Saturday marks the opening of the 24th Anniversary Sale of the Crescent Furniture company now located on 101st Street just north of the Rialto theatre.

Although Mr. Poderasky has been serving the people of Edmonton and district for 20 years, this is the second anniversary of their entrance to business on 101st Street.

It was in the year 1912 that Mr. Louis Poderasky entered business as a furniture auctioneer, but in two years he had established himself as a keen dealer of good used furniture. Shortly after this he purchased the business then owned by Mr. Greenfield on the corner of 98 Street and Jasper Avenue. The name was changed to the Poderasky Furniture Exchange.

Operating under this name the firm became very popular and it was not very long before Mr. Poderasky was forced to enter the new furniture business in connection with the store. It was then changed to the name of the Crescent Furniture Company. It was at this time that the present partnership of Mr. Baltzan and Mr. L. Poderasky was entered into and business was extended, to a very great extent, with the entry into the credit field.

Two years ago it was found necessary to again extend the business and for this purpose the purchase was made of the present store. It immediately proved to be a very fortuitous move and today the Crescent Furniture office four big floors of furniture at long easy terms, always keeping up to the minute with new styles and new ideas.

Visitors from eastern cities and from the big centres in the United States are always greatly impressed with the appearance of the store, and often remark that nowhere can be found a more complete stock or a stock better displayed.

COBB MAKES NEW RECORDS

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah, Sept. 12.—John Cobb, rapt loving London fur broker, set a new world 24-hour motor car speed record today—and shattered a half a dozen minor marks along the way.

His unofficial average speed for the gruelling run, aided by three relief drivers, was 150.1621 miles per hour as contrasted with the former record of his countryman, Capt George E. T. Eyston, 140.09 M.P.H.

Australia Budgets For Heavy Surplus

CANBERRA, Australia, Sept. 12.—Australia's budget, introduced in parliament today, provided for a slight surplus in 1936-37 along with considerable remission of taxation and included the largest defence estimates in the Commonwealth's history.

R. G. Casey, treasurer, announced estimate revenue of (£1,550,000 (about $407,750,000), and estimated expenditure of (£1,505,000 (about $407,525,000). Tax remissions will amount to £5,275,000 (about $26,375,000).

"The defence estimates reach the highest figure yet," said Casey. "They total £8,809,000 (about $44,045,000), an increase over last year of £1,792,000 (about $8,960,000),

FUMES EXPOSE CRIME SECRETS

United Press

PASADENA, Cal., Sept. 12.—The discovery by Dr. John McNorris, local chemist, of a new method for developing fingerprints is declared by police authorities to be the greatest contribution to crime detection since the original Bertillon experiments.

McNorris is one of a group of scientists who have placed their service and laboratories at the service of police for scientific detecting of criminals. They constitute a "brain trust" of scientific consultants who give their services free, but whose identity for the most part is concealed.

Under the new method it is possible to bring out latent fingerprints left on cloth, human flesh and greasy surfaces, all of which previously were impervious to fingerprinting attempts.

The new method, it is believed by the Pasadena police, will be valuable in detecting men who assault women and leave fingerprints on clothing and throats of their victims. Its secret is the use of iodine fumes, which are blown through what is known as a "Sherlock Holmes" pipe against the object on which the fingerprints are believed to exist.

The iodine fumes bring out prints which originally were formed by the oil from finger pores, instead of by pressure of the finger ridges against a hard surface.

A silver mirror then is placed against these prints. When it is later removed and held to the sunlight, the transposed fingerprints appear in full detail. They then can be photographed and reproduced in whatever quantity desired.

Dr. McNorris says the discovery was really due to the fact that police officers first explained to him in detail the precise problem that existed in fingerprinting and this fact spurred him on to find the solution.

Safe Is Problem

KEMMERER, Wyo., Sept. 12.—Police were unable to discover how thieves removed a 1,000-pound safe from a garage here and took it into the country where it was rifled.

Six years ago Italian commercial aviation lines employed 55 airplanes; today, they use 85.

Set For Speedy Action

This was a scene "somewhere near Camp Custer, Mich." as the zero hour in U.S. war games brought a squadron of nearly 80 "enemy" war planes roaring down in power dives on a concentration of regular army troops and national guardsmen. Men above are swinging an electrically controlled anti-aircraft gun into action. Small groups to right and left are range-finding and communications details. Foreign military attaches are observing the manoeuvres, which involve all branches of the army service.

Making Plans For Celebrity Concert Series

secretary of the Women's Musical Club, who is arranging the season of Celebrity Concerts sponsored by the Club, who this year will bring three internationally known artists to the concert platform in Edmonton, and the world famous "Six English Singers", Elizabeth Rethberg, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, will sing here on Monday, October 19.

Women's Sport World Offers Movie Talent

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 12. — The women's world of sports may become the happy hunting ground of movie talent scouts in their search for modern film types and the beauteous Ethel Catherwood, who won the Olympic high-jump title for Canada in 1928 has been singled out as a screen prospect.

Miss Catherwood, who will get a screen test at Hollywood, was born at Scott, Sask., but received her education in Saskatoon. Her jumping prowess, which finally took her to an Olympic title at Amsterdam in 1928, soon gained recognition at Bedford Road Collegiate here and she won the provincial championship in 1926 and then Dominion honors at pre-Olympic trials.

Following her Amsterdam success Miss Catherwood was the subject of a civic reception when she was granted $4,000 by the city of Saskatoon to continue her musical studies at Toronto. In the Ontario capital she participated in sports under the wing of Teddy Oke.

She was married in Toronto but got a divorce and is now the wife of Byron Mitchell, San Francisco sportsman.

Her parents still reside in Saskatoon.

Today's pictures, Director George Cukor said, demand "forth-right, direct, matter-of-fact types." The place to find them, he believes, is in the ranks of divers and swimmers, golfers and tennis players, track and skating stars.

The tall Miss Catherwood, who came to be known as the "Saskatoon Lily," was one of a number Cukor named as promising prospects. The graceful Canadian miss was ranked the prettiest girl at the Amsterdam Olympics when she captured the gold medal in her specialty.

Kay Stammers, the English tennis star, now at Forest Hills, N. Y., is said to be under the eyes of movie talent scouts and undoubtedly she will be offered screen tests when she comes here later this month to participate in the Pacific southwest tournament.

One studio is grooming the skater, Sonja Henie, for stardom. Her first picture went into production this week.

"Femininity has been thoroughly debunked," says Cukor, currently directing Greta Garbo. "Women today don't use the obvious or feminine wiles they were so wont to exercise in the past to get what they want. They have guile, of course, but they are more direct, more forthright—like the athletes."

Cukor believes he might find a new leading lady in Amelia Earhart, whom he believes resembles Katharine Hepburn.

About 39 per cent of the tobacco and 44 per cent of the cotton grown in the United States is exported.

Clever Pianist To Play Before Musical Club

Opportunity to hear Miss Doris Maclean of Calgary and California, brilliant pianist, is offered Edmonton music lovers, for Miss Maclean will give the opening recital of the Women's Musical club at their initial meeting of the season arranged for Saturday afternoon, October 3. Miss Maclean has had an exceptional career, and critics abroad and in the United States have acclaimed her gifts. Introducing the musical club season her recital will be an outstanding event.

Miss Maclean, at the age of 13 won a silver medal from the Royal Academy of Music in London, in competition with pianists from all the British possessions. At 16, as a student in Los Angeles she won an open piano competition for the best piano student of the Pacific southwest. She continued her studies at the Leipzig Conservatory of Music in Germany, and made her debut in Berlin and Leipzig. She has been heard frequently in recital on the Pacific coast and in Canada since her return, and was guest artist with the Pasadena Civic Orchestra in January recently.

Miss Maclean has been spending the summer months at her home in Calgary, and her recital in Edmonton in October is greatly anticipated by music lovers.

PLANS MADE FOR CELEBRITY CONCERTS

Preparation for the Celebrity Concert series, to open on Monday, October 19—when the famed Metropolitan opera star Elizabeth Rethberg, will be heard here—is underway. Tickets will be available for the series of four concerts this season, commencing next week. Mrs. Ernest Meaden, secretary of the Women's Musical club will be in charge, and the selection of seats may be made upon opening on Tuesday until October 19. During the first week the ticket sale will be conducted between the hours of ten o'clock in the morning and three in the afternoon.

Officers of the Women's Musical club are: Honorary president, Mrs. W. Watts Worster; past, Mrs. Vernon Barford; first vice-president, Miss K. H. Candy; second vice-president, Mrs. F. D. Sutcliffe; secretary, Mrs. Ernest Meaden; assistant secretary, Mrs. R. Molloy; treasurer, Miss Roxyna Philipps; programme convener, Mrs. Jean S. Kirkpatrick; philanthropic, convener, Mrs. Hicks-Worster; arts, convener, Mrs. Robert Malloy; membership convener, Mrs. T. Winslow Hamilton.

The executive committee are: Mrs. Vernon Barford, Miss K. H. Candy, Mrs. F. D. Sutcliffe, Mrs. Ernest Meaden, Miss Roxyna Philipps, Mrs. Jean S. Kirkpatrick, Miss Helen Porter, Mrs. Robert Malloy, Mrs. T. Winslow Hamilton, Mrs. C. B. Jacox, Mrs. Hicks-Worster.

Madame J. J. Duggan is conductor of the Musical Club chorus and Mr. C. Carmichael is conductor of the orchestra.

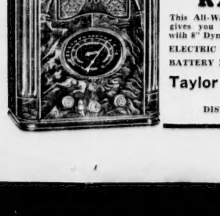

WISHING WELL HOLDS PRETTY SHOWER GIFTS

BEVERLY, Sept. 2—All the prettiness of a wishing well was true for Miss Janet Thomson, a bride-elect of this week when at a linen shower arranged in her honor at the Ladies' Club Rooms on Thursday evening, her friends and her receipient received the pretty gifts placed in a miniature "wishing well."

Miss Lammie, Miss Peggie Lammie and Miss Mayme Lammie were hostesses for the party, at which the following were guests: Mrs. J. I. Thomson, Mrs. W. Barner, Miss E. Thomson, Mrs. A. Campbell, Mrs. W. To Be Chatelaine for many years known to the women of Edmonton and of the province generally, as a gracious hostess and sincere club worker, who on the occasion of the appointment of her husband, Lieutenant Colonel Primrose, to the position of Lieutenant-Governor of Alberta, will assume a new role as chatelaine of Government House.

MRS. PHILIP C. H. PRIMROSE.

the social round . . . . .

YOU have to leave it to Vancouver for enterprise. Recently when we were at the Pacific coast we were strongly tempted to put a dime in a slot, our arm in a black band, and have our blood pressure taken at the apparatus on a street corner. The blood pressure machine is situated at quite a busy corner—whether or not atmosphere has anything to do with the ups and downs we are not professionally interested in. It seems like a stroke of business genius. If your blood pressure happened to register right you would be quite satisfied and the operator only would make a dime. But—and full explanation of blood pressure is inscribed on the machine—imagine the influx of patients to downtown doctor's offices if you happened to be high or low!

Some visitors from across the line seemed quite a little annoyed with Vancouver for having a blood pressure apparatus on the street before one had yet happened in their fair part of the country.

NOVEMBER SKIES

Than these November skies
Is no sky lovelier. The clouds are deep,
Into their grey the subtle spies
Of color creep,
Changing that high austerity to delight;
Till e'en the leaden interfolds are bright,
And, where the cloud breaks, faint far azure peers
Ere a thin flushing cloud again
Shuts up that loveliness, or shares
The huge great clouds move slowly, gently, as Reluctant. Be quick sun should shine in vain,
Holding in bright caprice their rain.

And when of colors none,
Nor rose, nor amber, nor the scarce late green
Is truly seen—
It's all the myriad grey.
In silver height and dusky deep, remain
The loveliest.
Faint purple flushes of the unvanquished sun.

—John Freeman.

MRS. SALVERSON WILL SPEAK AT LUNCHEON

"Women I'Would Like to Remember," is the interesting subject of a much anticipated address which Mrs. Laura Goodman Salverson has been invited to give at a

Mrs. Primrose Will Become "First Lady"

"Alberta is my home—Alberta people have been my friends and neighbors for the past 35 years . . . Such is the simply sincere spirit in which Mrs. Philip C. H. Primrose, wife of Lieutenant Colonel Primrose, newly appointed Lieutenant Governor of Alberta, takes her place by her husband's side in public life. Such will be the basis for her meeting and association with the women of the province during the next few years.

Of her husband's new position, she says feelingly, "It is a beautiful tribute to pay an ex-mounted policeman and an old timer." She has made her own contribution to the life of the province, for she has watched its growth from the early days, lending her support to many movements, for its social betterment, especially where the interests of home, women and children have been concerned.

Mrs. Primrose looks forward to making Government House, one of which she will be a most gracious chatelaine, the home centre of the province.

Born at Royal Marines, Chatham, England, Mrs. Primrose came to Canada as a small child, when her family settled in the east. They were in Regina at the time of the Riel Rebellion, taking up residence in Lethbridge in 1887. It was there in 1892, that Colonel and Mrs. Primrose were married and just 13 years later that they came to Edmonton.

Here Mrs. Primrose took part in activities of Christ Church, the Old Timers' Association, the Women's Canadian Club and Mayfair Golf and Country Club.

Mrs. Primrose's daughters, Miss Phyllis and Miss Sybil Primrose, both well known Edmonton sports women, are frankly "delighted" at news of their father's appointment.

Both golfers, they are frequently to be seen on the links of the Edmonton Golf and Country Club.

Miss Sybil Primrose has always taken a prominent part in the activities of the Junior Hospital League of which she is a past president, and is intensely interested in handicraft work. Miss Phyllis Primrose, on the other hand, enjoys a more political game, is interested in the Tweedsmuir Country Club.

Col. and Mrs. Primrose's only son, Mr. Neil Primrose, is practising law in Vegreville.

BAPTIST CHURCH ANNUAL MEETING IS ENCOURAGING

"Out of the depths" might be the theme for the financial progress of the Macdonald Baptist church, a report of the financial status of the church disclosing a marked advance at the annual business meeting, for with only a small sum owing, the church was free to proceed with its various organizations that it would be made free of debt before the end of 1936.

The church now finds itself without mortgage or other form of liabilities to halt the onward march of its activities. The mission budget has been almost entirely raised, though in five months yet remain of the term covered by the year's budget as agreed upon, so it is expected that the budget will exceed the allotted subscription by $100.

From every department of the church came encouraging reports, showing that there is a substantial increase in membership.

During the business meeting the first three evangelical services delivered by the pastor, Rev. C. Silbkrade, and his faithful wife, among the community.

Officers elected for the coming year were as follows: Mrs. G. Dixon, church clerk; Mr. J. B. Wilson, church treasurer; Mrs. Ivy Yule, assistant treasurer; Miss G. Hunter, financial secretary; Miss Evelyn Allen, missionary bands; Mrs. W. Hanna, Miss Kuhl, Miss Yule, Miss Hunter, Miss McCallum, Mr. Scott Shade, Mr. A. Davies, Mr. J. B. Wilson, Mr. S. Grimwood and Mr. H. Stibbards, deacons; Mrs. Hanna, Mrs. Yule, Mr. Allen, superintendent of the primary class of the Sunday school; Mr. S. Shade, junior superintendent; Mr. Hopkins, was made chairman of the ushers, and Mr. D. McIntyre and Mr. S. Shade were appointed auditors.

Mr. J. B. Wilson and Mr. S. Grimwood, the pastor's assistants, were re-elected by acclamation.

MURIEL WHITTON IS PRESIDENT OF CHI DELTA CLUB

Miss Muriel Whitton was chosen the directorate of the Chi Delta Club during the coming season when members gathered at her home recently for their initial meeting of the season. Miss Janet Simpson was elected treasurer, and Miss Betty O'Brien, secretary. Other club members present were Miss Alice Sutton, Miss Helen Sutton, Miss Lillian Brent, Miss Elsie Clouston, and Miss Irene Smith.

Luncheon planned by members of the Women's Association of Highlands United Church to take place in the church basement on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. George Hudson will sing delightfully during the progress. Mrs. R. Hyde and Mrs. J. W. Smith will receive the guests. Decorations, which will be in the colors and motif of fall are under the supervision of Mrs. Stanley Emmett and Mrs. C. A. Anderson is in charge of table arrangements. The general committee consists of Mrs. R. E. Hyde, Mrs. W. H. Foster, Mrs. William Hanna, Mrs. Fred Tappenden, Mrs. J. W. Cunningham, and Mrs. Malcolm Macleod.

Miss Mary Leask, new gymnasium director at the Y.W.C.A., and Miss Florence Wilcox, swimming instructor, will be at the "Y" offices every afternoon and evening next week to receive registrations for the fall swimming and gymnasium classes which commence in October.

Who's Who

MISS MILDRED McCORMACK

A former Grad and immediate past president of the Lady Aberdeen League, Mildred McCormack is one of Edmonton's keenest young sports enthusiasts and club workers.

As her name has gone down indelibly in the annals of basketball history, her six years' association with Percy Page's wonder team is stamped indelibly in her memory.

Following each step of the Grads' triumphant sweep of Europe this year, Miss McCormack recalled other tours, when she accompanied the girls to the Olympic Games at Amsterdam, across Europe, the British Isles, Canada and the United States. Of all the places she has seen in her travels, incidentally, Miss McCormack selects London, England, and Switzerland as the most fascinating.

Remembering her own anxious graduation from the Commercial School twelve years ago, and now finally to the Grads, Miss McCormack is sympathetic to any young girl who, though supremely interested in basketball, have not been fortunate enough to be included on any definite team, and during the winter months coaches groups of them at the Y.W.C.A.

Though interested in basketball in particular, Miss McCormack is interested in sports in general, swimming, bowling, tennis and golf, and is very anxious for the establishment of a central stadium and track field in Edmonton, where young people could indulge in indoor sports during the cold weather.

Miss McCormack never misses a basketball game. She also enjoys bridge and music. Her membership in the Rose of Nome Girls' Club signifies her interest in reading.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. G. McCormack, Miss McCormack was born in Buffalo, New York, but received her education at the Highlands public school, at Victoria high school and McDougall Commercial high school in Edmonton, where her parents came to make their home in 1912.

She resides with them now at 11340 62 street.

BABY SHOW IS ARRANGED BY I. O. D. E. UNIT

Not for two years since the threatened epidemic of infantile paralysis last fall forced plans to be curtailed have proud mothers of Edmonton had an opportunity to enter their babies in a Baby Show. Now, however, the opportunity will be presented by the Colonel French Chapter of the I.O.D.E. are sponsoring a baby show to be held in the All Saints' Parish Hall on Thursday and Friday, October 15 and 16.

Lovely prizes will be offered for the three groups into which the babies will be divided for purposes of judging—babies from six months to one year, from one year to two, and from two to three.

A free medical examination will be offered as well, and no baby will be admitted to the contest unless in good health.

Tickets may be obtained at the Hudson's Bay Store or Woodwards Limited, and interested mothers may secure further information from Mrs. J. E. Knott, convener, and Mrs. L. P. Corbett.

Fall Season Restores Pork Dishes to Favor

By MARY E. DAGUE

Pork will be coming into its own again with autumn on the way.

Here's a way to prepare ordinary pork chops with a vegetable in a baking dish, all in one gesture.

The sauce that covers the meat is delicious—not just a white sauce but made with egg yolks that add color and flavor to the dish.

Sister Mary

Four pork chops, 3 pounds fresh or 1 large can of spinach, 2 cups medium white sauce, 2 egg yolks, salt, pepper, flour, grated cheese.

This recipe allows one chop per person.

Dredge the chops with a little flour (dredge means dust), salt and pepper and then fry until nicely browned.

Reduce the heat, cover the pan and cook the chops slowly for 30 minutes until they are tender. This by the way, is the proper way to cook pork chops so that they are easily digested. Many people just fry them grown and then wonder the next day why they don't feel well.

Meanwhile, prepare the spinach. If you use fresh spinach, wash it thoroughly in several waters and then cook it with the water that adheres to the leaves, adding no more. Add salt and pepper to the chopped, cooked spinach. If you use canned spinach, drain it very thoroughly, chop it fine and add salt and pepper. Next, prepare the white sauce—a medium white sauce of 2 tablespoons of butter, 2 tablespoons of flour blended with the melted butter, then add 2 cups of milk, salt and pepper.

Add the beaten egg yolks to the white sauce.

Now, all your ingredients for the Pork Florentine are ready—the cooked chops, the spinach and the hot white sauce.

Ten minutes before you are ready to serve dinner, grease a large shallow baking dish, spread the spinach on the bottom of it. On top of this lay the chops and pour the white sauce over the top. Sprinkle with grated cheese and put the dish in the oven to melt the cheese or place the dish under broiler until the cheese is nicely browned—but not burned.

You have no idea how delicious spinach can taste until you've eaten it covered with this sauce.

Sweet potatoes are good with this meal and a light fruit dessert.

Monday's Menu

BREAKFAST: Pineapple juice, uncooked cereal, French toast with maple syrup, coffee.

LUNCHEON: Asparagus with cheese sauce, broiled bacon, bran muffins, cocoanut custard, tea, milk.

What New York Is Wearing

By HELEN WILLIAMS

3280

Here's an apron that little daughter will love to wear when she helps mummy dry dishes. It's also nice for working in the garden.

It's a "lifesaver" to protect her frock.

No one would ever suspect she is wearing an apron. The dress and apron materials are identical. The apron is designed along the same lines as the frock. She'll welcome the two useful pockets.

She'll like to sew this ensemble because it won't take ages to finish it. The dress cuts in one piece. Only two major parts to join and stitch the flared sleeves to the main dress. The one-piece apron is quite as simple to put together.

Make an ensemble or use the pattern for a separate dress and separate aprons.

Cotton prints, as dimity, lawn, batiste, percale, chambray, linen like weaver, etc., are a nice choice for this cute ensemble.

Style No. 3280 is designed for sizes 10, 12, 14 and 16 years. Size 12 requires 2¾ yards of 35-inch material with ¼ yard of 35-inch contrasting for dress apron requires ¾ yards of 39-inch material with ½ yard of 35-inch contrasting.

Be sure to write plainly your NAME ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE wanted.

Debunker

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph.D.

The laughing hyena is a small wolf-like animal which gives rise to something very much like the laughter of human beings. Many people believe that this animal is actually "laughing" at something when it makes this sound, but the facts are that this animal is one of the saddest and most neurotic-minded of all animals and it has not the slightest trace of a sense of humor.

The Mother Who Can Discover a Plan To Keep Children From Quarreling and Fighting Will Go Down In History As a Benefactor Of Human Relations

DEAR MISS DIX—You tell us how husbands and wives can live peacefully and happily together. What about the children of these happy couples? Please tell us how brothers and sisters can live in peace and harmony with each other. M.E.L.

Dorothy Dix

Answer:

Harmony in the family circle is like harmony between nations. Everybody believes in it and is for it, and nobody knows how to bring it about. Why brothers and sisters do not imitate the little birds "that in their nests agree," as the nursery rhyme says, nobody knows. It just seems instinctive for them to differ on every subject in the world and to get into each other's hair, as you will observe if you will notice two little angels at play. Five minutes is as long as a peace pact reigns between them. They mix it. The thing that turns mothers gray is refereeing fights between their children.

Perhaps the reason that brothers and sisters do not get along amicably together is because they are too much alike. They have too many of the same characteristics. Oliver Wendell Holmes once said that the reason that families broke up and scattered to the four corners of the earth was Nature's remedy for keeping the Joneses from being Jonesed to death and the Smiths from being Smithed out of existence.

Or perhaps the reason that brothers and sisters squabble when they are children is because they are children and hence little savages with all of a savage's selfishness and greediness and lack of consideration for others. Johnny and Tommy both want the last slice of pie and fight over it. Mary and Sally both hate to do the dishes and they quarrel over it. Sam and Lou each have a date and each is determined to monopolize the family car, and bitter are the accusations they lay against each other.

Certainly most households in which there are children are places of turmoil and warfare but, curiously enough, the brothers and sisters who fight like cats and dogs among themselves will turn on any outsider in a united attack and rend him limb from limb. Nor do these inter-family feuds that sometimes last from the cradle to man and womanhood often leave any bitterness. Sometimes they engender a hatred that lasts as long as life does, but generally the brothers and sisters who kicked and scratched each other all through their childhood are devoted to each other in spite of the knocks they have given and received.

However, it is noticeable that most brothers and sisters never appreciate each other's good points and are never really fond of each other until after they are grown and separated.

It would be easy enough to give a formula for promoting peace and harmony between brothers and sisters. They would only have to follow Mother's oft-repeated advice: "You must love your little brother." "You must be good to your little sister." "You must divide your apple with Charlie." "You must let Jenny play with your new doll."

But it would take divine power to make the youngsters follow the rules. As long as children are children they will follow their instincts, which are belligerent rather than pacific. DOROTHY DIX.

Your Children -

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Mother Goose knew her children. Sometimes she rhymed about little girls, but most of her protagonists are boys. In nearly all the rhymes, however, one characteristic trait stands out.

Take Jack Horner, for instance. He sat in a corner with his back to the world, eating pie with his thumb. Then he sang over his shoulder "What a good boy am I!" Because he was quiet and not bothering anyone, the famous little prig thought he was to be admired.

We can read any number of lessons into O. R. Barton Jack's actions, but let's not go too deep. All we know of the little rascal was doing what he wanted in the way he wanted, but, because he was out of everyone's way, he thought he was being good.

PARENTS FAIL TO SEE FAULTS

And I know his parents thought him grand, this mousy lad who cleaned off to work his mischief and never got underfoot, even on Christmas day.

Many parents, for some reason or other, want their children to give an impression of being good, without troubling to discover what many lie beneath. A thousand things boil and roil in every child. He is going to be himself, be sure, under some conditions, somewhere.

If he cannot be natural under his mother's nose for any length of time, he is going to be doubly natural in school or in his playmate's yard.

The secret of good behavior, and good manners, is to make decency natural. It cannot be done successfully by precept or hammered rules into him like butter into beaten biscuit, but by the whole home environment and the example of the family. Culture becomes second nature to the child in teh cultured family. But undoubtedly he is a perfectly genuine fineness of character and kindness.

QUIETNESS IS NOT GOODNESS

I wonder if Jack's parents were with him very much. Whether they really knew him well. I'll bet the lad was anti-social, and vulgar from being left to the wrong kind of a nurse, or governess who answered an "ad", and could keep a kid quiet.

Keep the child home enough to know what he is. Keep an eye on him to know what he is thinking or doing. Don't take it for granted that quietness is goodness. See that he does not develop craft. And, above all, don't let him turn into a Pharisee crying his holiness from a corner, or a Jack Horner, either. The genuine child is artless. Sometimes difficult and sometimes not. Give him to me, either way. I like him. I don't want any veneer, or I pose or reettitude. Gold, silver, copper or tin. I want his label. Alloys are all right, but no parading under false trade-marks. Maybe Jack even stole his pie from Tiny Tim next door. eYt, because he was quiet, he made the world think he was "good."

I am sure Mother Goose was less fond of Jack than any of her children.

Manners Of The Moment

By JEAN LYON

MANNERS OF THE MOMENT

When she starts quoting "Mr. Smith" to you, it leaves you baffled.

When a woman you meet at a tea starts quoting "Mr. Smith" to you, it's confusing. At least it is to us. We never know whether she's talking about Al, or Mr. Smith the grocer, or Mr. Smith the deacon, or Mr. Smith the invariably discover that she means Mr. Smith, her husband. Of course, we should have thought of that in the first place. But we never do.

We know how she falls into this habit of quoting the man of the house as "Mr." It derives from the days when she was a bride, and the words "my husband" used to stick in her throat. But nevertheless, it's a bad habit. It sounds queer to about her husband. And it sounds about her husband. And itsounds completely inane to the people who don't know.

If you simply can't get over the first habit of feeling shy about using the words "my husband," then give up quoting him altogether. Quoting of husbands would be a very good thing for tea parties, anyhow. Or else say, "Jean, my brother-in-law tells me . . ."—JEAN.

What To Do

My friends are always amused because I persist in shaking hands when introduced. They say I'm old-fashioned and that hand-shaking went out of fashion with all of the other early Victorian customs. Are they right? PUZZLED.

Answer—No, indeed, it is never old-fashioned to extend a cordial greeting, and one can express much personality in a hand shake. Men always shake hands with a bow introduced. Whether a woman shakes hands with a man is purely a personal matter with her, though she generally shakes hands with another woman and always if the other woman has already extended her hand. Old friends usually shake hands on meeting. It is always a nice courtesy for a young man or woman to shake hands with an older man or woman, and for an "ad", and could keep a kid quiet. woman to offer her hand to a younger person who might be a bit shy about taking the initiative.

"Dear Miss Glad: I've always had fairly presentable feet, and although they'd never win any beauty prizes, they have at least always been comfortable. Lately, however, I've acquired an ingrown toenail that is decidedly not comfortable. Can you tell me the cause of this, and how to correct it? ANXIOUS."

Ingrown toenails generally result from improperly fitting shoes. To fit properly, shoes should be roomy over the toes and fit snugly over the heels and over the instep. The best method of treating an ingrown toenail is to cut the nail into a V shape, with the point of the V pointing in toward the root of the nail. While thus training the toenail to grow narrower at the top, you should also keep a little lamb's wool tucked around the sensitive edge of the nail, where it has grown into the flesh. If, however, there is any sign of infection, do not try to treat an ingrown toenail yourself, but consult a chiropodist.

Don't Use Too Stiff A Brush on the Hair

By GLADYS GLAD

"Dear Miss Glad: I have just started giving my hair the nightly brush-brushings that you advocated, and can already see an improvement in my tresses. However, right after I brush my hair, my scalp always feels a bit sore and irritated. I use a stiff wire brush, and was wondering whether this could be the cause of the soreness. If so, what sort of a brush should one use? GLENDA."

The brush you are using may really have something to do with the scalp soreness that you experience after each brushing. Extremely stiff, wire brushes are, I feel, too harsh for use on the tender scalp. Brushes with sharp-tipped bristles are also inadvisable, as the sharp ends are likely to scratch the scalp. Properly made brushes have blunt-topped ends on the bristles. Of course, the bristles of your brush must be fairly stiff, for if they are too soft, your hair and scalp will not derive much benefit from the brushings. The best brush is one with bristles that are blunt-tipped, flexible and long enough to penetrate to the scalp when the implement is used.

"Dear Miss Glad: This letter is both a thank-you note and a request. The thank-you part comes in because I want to tell you how much you have helped me through your 'New Figure' booklet, and how much I appreciate it. I've been on the reducing course in that booklet of yours, you see, lost 36 pounds, and regained my self-respect. No wonder I feel grateful to you! The request is advice on that bluing rinse for dull black hair. Is it the ordinary laundry bluing that is used? And can you tell me exactly how to apply this rinse?

"ARLINE"

The bluing used in the bluing rinse for brightening dull black hair is not the same preparation that is used for laundering. What is a special hair bluing that is designed for just this purpose. This hair bluing is carried in most of the better class of beauty shops. The hair should first be thoroughly shampooed before this rinse is used, and every trace of soapy lather rinsed off with clear, tepid water. Enough hair bluing should be mixed with a quart of water to give it a rather deep blue color, and the solution used as the final rinse. After this final bluing rinse the excess moisture should be removed with a lintless towel, and then, if possible, the hair should be dried naturally.

HEART-TO-HEART TALKS - - - By Kathleen Norris

DEAR Mrs. Norris: We live in a town of 3000 persons, and I may truthfully say that among them there is hardly an eligible man. I mean of course a man a girl could honestly want to marry. If this town does produce a smart and nice looking fellow who knows how to dance, he goes away to some large city for just long enough to get himself engaged to a girl and bring her back here as his wife.

"You can imagine what we girls of this town go through trying to find nice boys to go on river parties and to dances and movies with us, and as for getting engaged—well, the girl who does is either envied as being a rare exception or pitied because she has had to take the sort of boy she has!

"We are, or were, rather, four unmarried sisters, aged twenty-one, nineteen, and two of seventeen. I am one of the twins. My eldest sister married suddenly six weeks ago; in a way that almost broke my mother's and father's hearts. She married a man who, after studying three years to be a doctor met with financial reverses, or rather his family did, and who has been working in a garage. They are living in two rooms behind the garage, and Madeleine is going on with her job in a store. She is too happy to mind!

A DISCOURAGING SITUATION

"The three of us who remain at home haven't even such prospects as this. If any girl gives a party in our town she has seventeen girls and six boys at it. Naturally there is sharp competition among the girls to get beaus, and it makes for a very uncomfortable state of feeling. Down in the factory district there are plenty of men, for we have two foundries and several other big enterprises on the river, but we do not know them; they are not our type, and in speech, ideas, dress, everything would not make satisfactory friends.

"What we want to ask you is, what do girls do under these circumstances to secure what every girl in her heart really wants, a few men friends and a chance to marry happily? Do you think it is wrong to say that one would like to marry? Do you think we ought to go away from home? We have a lovely home here and are devoted to mother and dad; we have books, a garden; a few fruit trees and many advantages that we really do appreciate, even while worrying a good deal about our lives in the future.

"Do you believe in matrimonial agencies, and if so will you send us the names of a few good ones? Margaret, Miranda and I are not so countrified or inexperienced that we could not tell a gentleman from an impostor, even through correspondence. Please don't laugh at us, or blame us for considering this a problem in these days when the world is so full of real suffering and need. And if you can think of anything that might help, please advise us.

"Affectionately yours,

"Martha B."

IT'S AN OLD, OLD STORY

There are so many questions in this delightful letter from Martha B., that I hardly know where to begin on them. I made me smile as I read it, for the anxieties of seventeen not to be left dangling on the family row, are a new symptom; girls were worrying about that in the Nineties, when I was seventeen, and a hundred years before that, and a thousand years earlier still.

But the fact that we older persons smile doesn't mean that the trouble isn't a very real one, and although it has not an immediate solution I hope Martha will believe me when I say that the difficulty here lies not in the lack of eligible boys in her town, but in the youth and impatience of these little sisters who are so eager to live, so afraid that life will pass them by, and who yet can't think of any way to hurry up the process of getting settled into happy matrimony.

The condition you describe isn't peculiar to your town, or any town, Martha. That's youth. That's one of the reasons I think the late teens and early twenties are about the hardest years women have to live through. Girls in this country are just the victims of fears; they complain that in the enormous impersonal machinery of our life they don't have time to meet men as the small town girls do.

And yet, as time goes by, the small-town girls and the city girls alike find THE man, and settle into wedded bliss with the happiness that married love creates, and are presently advising a new generation of impatient girls not to wait, to be happy and cheerful and busy, and trust to the inevitable tides.

BEWARE THE AGENCIES!

Meaning, of this young quartette, has found her mate. If this boy who is working in a garage is clever and ambitious and steady, Madeleine needn't worry; this humble start will only season a later success in life. Some of the richest, finest, happiest and most useful people we have known began like that. In a few years he will go back to his medical work, and he and Madeleine will never be sorry to remember that they waited for each other and life.

For the other girls. You are somewhat in the position of the English girls of a hundred years ago, when clergymen and country doctors would have a dozen daughters apiece, and mammas were harassed for years to find husbands for the girls. All the old books and diaries are filled with them. They garbed in their best finery and trembled and blushed and grew faint and murmured their shy hopes to each other, and presently for each one some man came along, and presently the group of complacent matrons were boasting of the number of beaus they had refused.

But just a hint to you. Sometimes among those factory hands—especially today, when so many college men and men of really fine calibre have had to turn to manual labor,—there are worthwhile friends, if you can find them. There are lovely boys, driven to solitary walks and the reading of books, and there are ways of discovering such ones as these are. From just such factory towns America has a way of picking important and successful men in all the trades and sciences; and if the leader has a country girl for a wife, who has visions of some day finding a home with him, she is usually a beloved and happy woman.

And once and for all, don't take any chances with matrimonial agencies! Don't risk the embarrassments and complications that might start. That isn't the way out!

INDISCRETION AND TEARS

Here is a second letter with no laugh in it at all; a letter hard to answer.

"Dear Mrs. Norris: I have been brooding and fretting over my own situation for so long that I have almost lost my mind. If you use this letter will you be very careful to give no hint of my real name or of my city. The happiness of my life may hang upon what you advise me, but to have me and dearly beloved might easily wreck not only my life, but that of the three dearest to me.

"I am thirty-two, married to the finest man in the world, and mother of two lovely children. When I was quite a young girl, before I ever met my husband, I was engaged to a man who had a tremendous power over me. I worshipped him. He ended our friendship abruptly, married another woman, and left town.

"Last fall, unexpectedly, and after ten years without seeing each other, he walked into my dining-room. My husband was away for several days; the fascination my old sweetheart had had for me was as strong as ever. A kind of madness came over me. I seemed not to know what I was doing or saying. The hours went by in a kind of intoxication, and on the second night I dined with him at his hotel, and stayed there. Two nights later we repeated this experience, after which he went back to his own distant town and to his wife.

SHE DESPISES HERSELF

"I'm going to spare you the details of my shame and misery I've suffered since. You can't despise me as I despise myself. I've thought of suicide, of divorce, of running away. But my children are babies, and my husband, whom I love with every fibre of my being, because of family and business complications, has needed me as he never did before. What can I do to save myself lifelong disgust and self-contempt? How can I begin to rebuild the house of life that I have destroyed? I loathe myself only a little less than I loathe the man who hurt me when I was young, and has proved to me now how weak and contemptible I am."

The answer is the same that I have written for a thousand women in the years that their letters have been coming to me. Accept this humiliation. Be sorry. Be strongly sorry next time, if ever should be one. And keep your mouth shut.

Don't hurt a good man with the realization that the woman he loves could be so weak. Go on being as perfect a wife as perfect a mother as you can. Make the four persons you love happy, and forget everything else.

There is something healing and beautiful in being crushed, shamed, shocked at one's stupidity and weakness, and in saying "I was wrong. I am sorry." The woman who wrote this letter can find renewal of courage and self-confidence in kneeling, morning and night, to say the prayer that includes "lead us not into temptation."

THE ETERNAL FEMININE IN QUEST OF A HUSBAND ADVISED TO AVOID MATRIMONIAL AGENCIES — AN INDISCREET WIFE'S CONFESSION

Unexpectedly, and after 10 years, he walked into my dining-room. My husband was away. The fascination my old sweetheart had had for me was as strong as ever. A kind of madness came over me. I seemed not to know what I was doing or saying.

Continuing A Series of Six Timely Discussions of Modern Women's Difficulties, By Helen Welshimer--- "LADIES IN DISTRESS"

Spain's Amazon's Fight Against Plight Worse Than Dictatorship

Tramp, tramp, tramp the girls are marching—in Europe. The regimented millions present such a disturbing paradox to the freedom-loving women of America that it makes Helen Welshimer wonder whether freedom is what women want after all. She discusses the subject brilliantly in this fourth of the series of articles on LADIES IN DISTRESS, prepared for NEA Service and The Edmonton Bulletin exclusively.

By HELEN WELSHIMER

WHETHER or not a woman is in distress may depend on her own view. Maybe that individual freedom for which the American woman so long has strived, is not the boon her cousins by the Rhine and Tiber, up the steppes of Russia, and down the streets of Spain, are seeking. Certainly the manner in which the women of Madrid have seized arms ad followed their leader, La Passionata, a former laundress named Dolores Ybarruri, is evidence that they seek, not avoid, regimentation.

It must be remembered that the Soviets, the Nazis, the Fascists and the Communistic forces in Spain alike remove women from any chance of having a lonely, stellar tragedy. Whatever happens to me will happen to tens of thousands of others like her, according to their platforms.

REGIMENTATION INEVITABLE

Do women want this? Is it for this the Spanish women fight? Are the German women happy in their enforced roles as housekeepers? Do the Italian women welcome the mass marriages which Mussolini favors at stated times? Do Russian women ejoy being cogs in an impersonal industrial wheel that hands them jobs and commands that they work where ordered?

If women are unuhappy in regimentation, they why do Spanish workers hail a modern Joan of Arc and fight hand to hand with men in street clashes in order to have their privileges as free-thinking individuals taken from them?

In the theory of the countries where there are dictatorships is that women should work in the home. Both Hitler and Mussolini have been asserting that it is woman's duty to make butter, bake bread, wash dishes and bear children whom she will bring up to make good soldiers, or mothers of soldiers. Is this what women want? Is it for this the Spanish women seize weapons, hide behind barricades, and fire at the enemy? Is woman in distress because she does not know her own mind?

MUS BE DOMESTIC IN GERMANY

There arae labor camps in Germany, for instance, where every girl who desires to attend college must spend six months, somewhere between the ages of 18 and 25. After she has passed her college entrance examinations. Th law says that unless she meets this requirement her education can not go on. Other women need not take this training. However, if a woman of the certified age does not comply with the request, she cannot find a job in Germany.

During the first month of their training the girls learn the mechanics of housework. They study child care, baking, cooking, sweeping, laundry—all the domestic literary. Then they work, for five months, in the homes of the farmers near the camps. All crops are in rural communities. When the work inside the house is completed, the girls assist in the fields. Their hours number from 12 to 14 hours a day.

Regimentation of women! Hired girls on a gigantic scale! That is what is happening in Germany. Ladies in distress, undoubtedly! Why, then, are the Spanish women braving death to achieve a similar fate?

REBELLION AGAINST FREEDOM!

Perhaps they do it because women at heart do not want this brave, new independence which is theirs. Another song, and there are using clumsy weapons—weapons that may turn on them—in a stumbling attempt to get what they want. Perhaps, in Russia, they wanted to work as they please, at living wages, and are surprised to know they must toil where they are assigned. Maybe in Italy, they thought that marriage could be an institution entered without the assertion of individuality. Maybe in Germany, they expected jobs without compulsory training. Whatever they wanted, they found regimentation which has made them automatons, puppets, marionettes, who move when the government pulls the strings.

Now Spanish women fight for the condition which led them to this. Therefore we believe that take up arms must cast a darker shadow over their lives than the regimentation that threatens if they win their war.

Coronation Is Inspiration of Fashion Pages

BY ADELAIDE KERR

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Fashions Inspired by front-page news, from the coming coronation of King Edward VIII to the Spanish rebellion were shown here tonight in America's largest style pageant Fashion Futures.

Clothes worth more than $100,000 shimmering jewels and luxurious furs passed in the glamorous display presented in a hotel ballroom by the fashion group, whose membership includes the leading women fashion authorities of the United States.

The clothes display, culled from thousands of models by the Fashion Futures jury, were chosen for their quality, wearability, fashion significance and correctness for winter wear. They stressed the importance of suits, dressy afternoon frocks, imperial evening gowns, bordered trims, a swinging, slim, full-skirted, broad-shouldered silhouette and the dominance of black, followed by beiges, rusts, blues and "danger red."

REGAL EVENING GOWNS

High-lighted in the display were regal evening costumes inspired by the next year's coronation. A glamorous royal purple velvet gown, molding the figures in front and sweeping in graceful folds in the back and a shimmering white satin frock with a low deep decollete and wide skirt recalling the belle of the early days of George V reign were outstanding. Flashing jeweled stars and flowers accented coiffures.

NOTE OF REBELLION

Among styles inspired by the rebellion in Spain was a full-skirted white moire evening gown worn with a black lace mantilla, while the "red" tinge of European politics as reflected in red evening gowns and wraps.

A "perfect wardrobe" included a brown and beige checked wool country suit with a culotte skirt, a black broadcloth Schiaparelli skirt with black fringe trim worn over a silm black dress; a silver lame street length cocktail dress accompanied by a short swagger mink coat and toque, and a white moire evening gown.

Forest Scheme To Employ 3,000 Men

TORONTO, Sept. 12.—The Ontario government Friday announced a plan to salvage 50,000,000 feet of burned-over timber in Northern Ontario, employing nearly 3,000 men on the project, which probably will last all winter.

The timber area east of Fort Frances, said to have been most seriously affected by this summer's forest fires, will be cleaned out.

China-Japanese Situation Crucial

SHANGHAI, Sept. 12.—With one Japanese destroyer off Pakhoi and five other war vessels driving toward that port, the Sino-Japanese dispute entered near a crisis today. Martial law was proclaimed in Pakhoi, where a Japanese resident recently was killed by a mob.

Pictorial Visit to New Home of Gary Cooper

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — Suppose you were invited to Gary Cooper's for tea—

It's ten to one that you (and a million others if they were lucky enough) would be waiting, dressed in your best bib and tucker and with your hair in a curl, all before the hour to go. Ten to one, you'd be excited, too.

And why not? Aside from interest in the handsome screen star—between the ages of 18 and 25 after she has passed her college entrance examinations. Th law says that unless she meets this requirement her education can not go on. Other women need not take this training. his New York debutante bride have known.

Mrs. Cooper, you may remember, gave up society to enter the films as Sandra Shaw, gave up films later to marry Gary.

Outside, the Cooper's new home is now, rambling, gleaming white in the sunlight. The gracefully landscaped lawn, at the rear stretches away to the swimming pool. Inside, where Elsie de Wolfe designed the decorations, the aim was "to marry the surrounding landscape to the interior."

To achieve this effect, the three most important rooms—the central living room, dining room and library—were laid out on one long axis, on the old French chateau plan.

The result is light and spacious and, very largely, "it's all done with the aid of mirrors."

There are mirrors everywhere in the house—a fireplace made entirely of black mirror with a mirror mantle and hearth; mirrors outlining doors and windows; mirror screens; mirror furniture; mirrors hanging on the walls. There is glass, too, that is not mirrored—ribbed glass for balusters of the stairway in the living room and a large bowed window made entirely of glass from floor to ceiling.

SHARP COLOR CONTRAST

The color scheme of the living room is white, "poison green" and black. Off-white walls contrast sharply with the black, highly waxed floor, covered with a white shag rug. The black mirror fireplace is very large—approximately 80 inches wide. Sofas of green damask, a bench of green leather and zebra rugs are high points of color. Other furniture is white wool, grayish green satin or made of mirror.

The dining room is Oriental in tone with walls and ceiling of Japanese wood paper, colorful Japanese prints (matted in mirror) and a fireplace faced from floor to ceiling with bamboo. The floor is black, as in the living room, and the rug is yellow. Lighting is supplied by vases on the mantle shelf and by hand-wrought wall fixtures in the form of flowering trees with cut crystal blossoms.

The master bedroom is a symphony in one color—warm salmon pink with sharply defined mirror accent and a cool, chocolate brown colored floor. The door and window frames are entirely of beveled mirror, and a tall mirror screen, in five sections, fills one wall of the room. The furniture is a combination of natural and painted woods. The twin beds are covered entirely with heavy ball fringe. Brown satin with white crushed velvet, finished chairs have contrasting beige binding. Here, too, there is a fireplace.

The living room of the Gary Cooper home at Brentwood, Cal., which has been decorated by Elsie de Wolfe, is simply but dramatically finished with off-white walls, a clear black floor, white rug and touches of brilliant green in the furniture . The fireplace is made entirely of mirror. Through the open doorway there is a glimpse of the dining room.

LEFT:

Door and window frames of mirror and a tall mirror screen are unusual features of the bedroom where the color scheme is salmon pink, chocolate brown and beige. The allfabric bed is white crushed velvet. Indirect lighting comes from wall fixtures and large mirror in inverted pyramid design.

First Aid TO THE Ailing House

LIVING IN A GARAGE

By Roger B. Whitman

Not long ago I ran across a situation that greatly bothered me. A young couple wanted to build a house, but had not enough money for the kind of house they had had in mind. Their affairs were in such shape that they knew that they would eventually have the money, so they started by buying a desirable piece of property, 50 feet wide, and 100 feet deep. They made their plans as to where the house should go, as well as the location for the garage and the garden. Plans for the building were made, and as soon as they could they built the garage. This was of good size and with two stories. Their idea in putting it up was to occupy it themselves until such time as they could build the house.

The upper storey downstairs was divided by light partitions into a living room, a kitchen, and space for a heating plant. Upstairs, they had two bedrooms and a bathroom. The concrete floor downstairs was covered with its temporary floor of wood. The walls all over were plasterboard, finished with colored calcimine. Heating was by hot air with a circulating heater, and registers in the upstairs floors kept the bedrooms amply warm. Their car was kept in a rough board shed alongside.

Of course, there was much more equipment than is usually found in a garage; especially plumbing and electrical work. The upstairs floor was so planned that it could be used as an overflow for guests in later years when the house was built. The whole arrangement was intended to be only temporary, but was very home-like, and the young couple lived in the garage for three years. As a matter of fact, the novelty of living in a garage proved very attractive to their friends, and there were many jolly evenings in the car space downstairs.

Question—Three times in the last five years my sewer has been clogged by the roots of a poplar tree, and I have had to get a plumber to clear it out. Can this clogging be prevented?

Answer—The only sure method is to replay the pipe with tight joints; and in addition, with each joint wrapped in heavy tar paper, held with copper wire. Poplar roots seek water, and will go through any crevices in order to get it.

Question—My oak floors were recently refinished by scraping, two coats of varnish, and then waxed. How can I keep them looking as well as they do now?

Answer—For one thing, do not use water on them. Take up dust with cloths or with a hair broom. Do not use an oil mop. In places where the wax becomes badly soiled, clean with liquid wax. Once a week go over the floors with a polisher. There is less work with an electric polishing machine than with a heavy block. Wlth frequent polishings your floors should remain in excellent condition. Rewax when wear begins to show.

"Over the Teacups"— Twenty Years Ago

From the Files of the Edmonton Bulletin

THE Women's Musical Club of Edmonton will give the first recital of the season on Tuesday evening, September 19, at half past eight o'clock in First Presbyterian church. It will be an open meeting to give music lovers an opportunity of hearing the gifted young violinist, Miss Eunice Prosser before she returns to New York.

MONDAY the opening of the Selkirk tea room and luncheon under the auspices of the ladies of the St. John Ambulance Association was a marked success. One hundred and fifty were served at the luncheon hour, sat at the charmingly decorated tables and enjoyed a tempitingly delicious meal.

At the tea hour the Selkirk was an extremely popular rendezvous, and several gathered there for the dance in the evening—you see, gentle reader it is all to send smokes to the boys in the trenches—"our own boys" too.

All concerned are delighted with the marked success which crowned the ladies' efforts the first day. Certainly it is evident that the Edmonton public intend that the boys will soon be safe at all possible.

This action was taken at a meeting of the executive held Thursday afternoon.

WOMEN ARE MOBILIZED TO FIGHT CANCER

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 12. — A "women's field army" soon will be mustered from all parts of the United States for a thorough fight against cancer according to Dr. C. C. Little of the American Society for the Control of Cancer.

He announced last night at the International Cancer Institute here that the society was enlisting the aid of more than 2,000,000 members of the General Federation of Women's Clubs in America as an integral part of its cancer control program. They will be enrolled in an organization to be known officially as the "Women's Field Army Against Cancer."

Dr. Little said objectives of the army would be to provide opportunities for lectures and exhibits by medical men before lay groups; distribution of information concerning early signs and symptoms of cancer; establishment of personnel and individual contacts with a limited number of families for the purpose of following up such educational work continuously; and the raising of funds to carry on the work.

Aklavik Family Will Live In City For Winter

Tuning in on English radio stations on an ordinary radio at any time of the day, you will find a commonplace to Mrs. John A. Parsons, of Aklavik, who arrived in Edmonton this week to take up residence in the city for the winter while her son and daughter attend school here.

Mrs. Parsons is the daughter of one of the north country's earliest pioneers, her father being John Firth, who for more than fifty years was a factor for the Hudson's Bay Co. at Fort McPherson.

Mrs. Parsons says that in spite of the few white residents of Aklavik, life there is not without its pleasures, and the amenities of civilization. Life there is very regular and much appreciated and bridge is a popular pastime. Schools and missions are conducted regularly by religious organizations and there is adequate hospitalization for cases of the extreme emergencies. Other divisions of the post include an R.C.M.P. attachment, good for both recreation and trading posts and stores.

Mrs. Parsons, who spent the summer months holidaying at Brownlow's Landing has arrived in Edmonton to take up residence in order that her children, John, and her daughter, Georgia, aged fourteen, may attend schools in the city during the winter.

John, who has completed part of his public school course in previous sojourns in Edmonton and Vancouver, would much rather be at home in Aklavik, where, he insists, the winters are no colder than in Edmonton and where he has the added pleasure of driving a dog-sled. He is a sturdily built lad whose main ambition is to become a member of the Mounted, and that as soon as possible.

In contrast to her brother, however, Miss Georgina, a vivacious brunette, much prefers the more exciting life of the town and city and thinks Brownlow's Landing one of the nicest places she has visited. She is quite looking forward to the winter months in the city, when she will be able to mingle with girls of her own age, and take part in such social sports as skating and hockey, while she is a student at Elmanthney School.

Mrs. Parsons makes her home while sojourning in the city with Mrs. P. C. Engle, Stony Plain Road. She is a soft spoken woman who bears with dignity the great heritage of freedom and courage which she has inherited on her from her pioneering forebears.

Will Women Of Canada Consent To War?

By Nellie McClung

Mrs. Nellie McClung, author, stateswoman, lecturer, prairie school teacher, former member of the Alberta legislature, and friend and comforter of many a woman pioneer who braved the hardships of western homesteads and distant farms, is now on the staff of The Bulletin. Wise weekly articles from the gifted pen of Nellie McClung will appear in The Bulletin. They will deal with those things which appeal to women of the west; homely things, in a chatty personal style. Watch for them.—EDITOR.

The women of Canada may be called upon to decide whether or not Canada shall take a part in the war which is threatening Europe, and this thought lies like a bad dream on us, night and day. What are we going to do if and when we hold that ballot in our hands?

It is well to discuss it now before the hysteria of war breaks like a cyclone, twisting and tearing and uprooting the foundations of all sane thinking.

WOMEN NOT FIGHTERS

Women are not fighters. A battalion of women soldiers is an anomaly. Women give life, protect life, sustain life, but are "out of character" when they take life.

I am not trying to prove that only women are opposed to war. The last war is too recent for that. No normal person wants war, and yet it is closing in on us, and we feel as helpless as the settlers in the bush, hemmed in by fire.

There are two questions I would have to be able to answer in the affirmative before I could say, "Let us fight!" I will mention the first one only, and here it is.

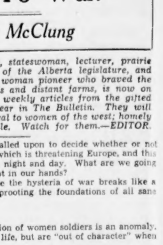

Has every effort been made by us to avert war?

COULD NOT BE DONE

Sir Edward Grey said of the last war, that if the representatives of the countries involved could have been gathered around a table, even the night of August 3, the war could have been averted, but it could not be done. "There was not enough good-will." Now what has been done along the line of fostering good-will?

It has been suggested and urged by a group of generous souls in England, of whom Lady Astor is one, that Germany should be treated as an equal, and that no longer the settlement imposed on her by the Treaty of Versailles should be perpetuated, and that a new deal be dealt, and no good can come of it.

This seem suggested in several quarters that Germany be given back her colonies, as an expression of good-will, and a means to peace, but Premier Baldwin has flatly said this will not be done. I do not believe the giving back of the colonies would change the fiery heart of Adolf Hitler, but I do believe it would remove one of the grievances of the German people against us; and take away from Hitler one of his best talking points in lashing the people into a fury of hatred. God knows method of treating Germany has created a sense of injustice and hatred. The placatory plan might fail, too, but again it might not.

NELLIE McCLUNG

PLENTY OF GROUNDS

Germany has plenty of grounds for but feeling against us. Beverley Nichols is my authority for this statement. "If anyone will dig back into the dusty files of the Versailles Treaty, he will find that the Allies demanded from Germany more gold than there is in the whole world. . . . And this grotesque demand was made by the very people whose minds of the world, in the name of Justice."

Now, I submit it is well for us to think about these things in these quiet times, while we may yet think and ask questions, are we willing to pledge ourselves and our sons to fight for this?

AFRAID OF HYSTERIA

I spoke of the hysteria of war, and I confess I am afraid of it. Mass hatred is a terrible thing and we had our share of it. When as a child a man as the Bishop of London could say as he did, at the end of 1915, in Westminster Abbey, that "we were banded together in a great Crusade to kill Germans, to kill the young and the old, the good Germans as well as the bad, agid to kill even those who have shown kindness to our prisoners"—we need not wonder at the blind devouring hatred that dictated the Treaty of Versailles.

But now we are clear headed enough to see that the iron ring which that treaty put around Germany was poor statesmanship, and bad ethics, and it was this which produced Adolf Hitler and his poisonous doctrine of "Germany against the world."

NOTHING SACRED

There is nothing sacred about a bad treaty, made in hate. It was not intended for a punishment, and that end has been accomplished, though the punishment fell most heavily on the innocent, as that sort of punishment always does. It was the common people of Germany who suffered, the clean, hard working, decent people; the same kind of people that we have here in Canada, our good German neighbors—not the Kaiser or the War Lords. They continued to eat regularly.

The people of Canada know these things. And if we fight Germany again it will be with a bad conscience. Wouldn't it be better to back down right now and be generous about it? It may not be amiss to remind ourselves that our religion is very clear on this point.

VERY SIMPLE PLAY

Henry G. Bancroft, New Haven, Conn., states that the following distumped members of a nearby country club, to make a grand slam at diamonds. The total trad was this 10 of diamonds. He asks if 7-odd can be made by a squeeze.

Have West's 7 of diamonds win the first trick. Lead the 8 of clubs for dummy to win. Lead the Ace of hearts, followed by the 3 of hearts. Win with declarer's K. At the fifth trick lead declarer's 4 of hearts. Ruff with dummy's lowest remaining diamond. Lead the Q of diamonds. Lead dummy's last trump. It will pick up South's last trump. Discard declarer's K of clubs. Discard North's lowest spade. Lead declarer's Ace of diamonds. Have North discard his lowest club. Discard a low spade from dummy. Have South discard his lowest spade. Lead two winning clubs from West's hand. North and South will follow suit. Dummy must let go two spades. At the end of the tenth trick each player will hold the three cards shown below.

Lead declarer's last club and let go dummy's losing spade. North is squeezed, no matter whether he lets go a spade or his last heart, and declarer will make his grand slam.

The squeeze is a very simple process, but even more simple play will yield a grand slam. Win the first trick with declarer's Ace of clubs as was done in making the squeeze. Win the second trick with dummy's Ace of hearts, and the third trick with declarer's K of hearts. Lead another heart. Have dummy ruff with its lowest diamond. Lead the 8 of diamonds. Win with declarer's K. Lead declarer's last heart. North's last heart will fall. Ruff with dummy's Q of diamonds. Declarer has won six straight tricks.

Lead dummy's only club. Lead the Ace of spades. Lead a low spade. Declarer will ruff with his low diamond. Lead declarer's Ace of diamonds, picking up South's last trump. That takes four through the tenth trick, all of which declarer has won. Declarer holds only the A-Q-J of clubs, all of which are cash. That this unusual variety of play wins a grand slam as readily as the more simple squeeze about which inquiry was received.

PEPITA'S MIRACLE - - - By Ann Bridge

A Bulletin Short Story Complete On This Page Every Saturday

THE road which goes out of Moruzzo on the south leaves the town at the bridge over the canal. The trams stop there, as if fearing to trust themselves to the old structure; the houses stop there too, leaning crookedly over the green stagnant water which reflects their high, irregular damp stained walls and the lines of brightly colored washing which flutter on strings between the windows. But in the evening the bridge becomes a social center—the young men from the silk factory gather there, with wide-peaked caps rakishly aslant over dark hawk-like faces, to lounge on the wide parapet, pit into the still water below, compare notes on their chances in the next lottery, and embarrass any passing girls with loud and lively comments.

Beyond the bridge the road stretches on, straight and flat across the flat country, where nothing varies the monotony of the endless levels but the changes of color which the seasons bring—green in spring and a dead gray in summer, golden in autumn, muddy brown in winter. Rice or "gran turco" grows in the fields, and the road is bordered with straight rows of mulberry trees. Here and there a small white house, low roofed, crooked walls, crouches with open door beside the highway; in the autumn the walls are patterned richly with the turning leaves of the vine and the roofs are brilliant with the ears of Indian corn spread out to dry. And at all times of year, morning and evening, the metallic note of the siren at the silk factory travels out across the level country, alien, insistent, harsh, a fine web of sound cast wide to draw in human labor to assist and minister to the soulless labor of the machines.

In one of the small white houses, four or five kilometres out of the town, Giacomo Gaddi lived with the family. He walked the distance in and out every day to his work in the silk factory—you might see him, at morning or evening, plodding steadily along, his sturdy figure a little bent, his hair grizzled under his shabby hat, his coat sleeves dangling at his left side. He walked alone, for his two big sons were in America, his wife had her hands full at home with the younger children, and Pepita, his daughter, had not begun to work; she was only eleven, too young yet. Pepita sometimes came a little way to meet him on his return, a small dark eyed creature scudding along on bare feet in the whitish dust; when they met she would cry "Babbo!" and the big man would stoop to catch the little figure that ran at him with outstretched arms, kiss her and tease her before he set her down again to walk home beside him, holding his hand.

Pepita was the only daughter of Gaddi and his wife. She had the big eyes and something of the wild coltish grace that her mother had had when she married, before hard work and the bearing and rearing of children had bent and wrinkled her into the premature old age of the Italian peasant woman. Giacomo sometimes, looking at the child, felt dimly that she was a closer link with that far away young bride than the gray haired woman for whom he still cared with an unquestioning, placid, inexpressive affection. And Maria Gaddi, busy and preoccupied, still found time, as mothers will, to look almost with wonder at her daughter—to think: So then was I, was I?—and to find in that fresh spring beside her a compensation for her own autumn. In winter Pepita went to school and in her spare time helped her mother with the work of the house and the care of her two small brothers; in summer she sat out in the fields under the mulberry trees or shaded by the tall maize making coarse pillow lace, minding the flock of turkeys that helped to eke out Giacomo's earnings and keeping an eye on Umberto and Agostino, who tumbled and sprawled like two Donatello's putti, half naked, on the grass at her side.

When trouble falls on a working class family it falls with crushing weight. It was so with the Gaddis. Their quiet, normal, contented life of hard work and monotonous performance of daily tasks was suddenly broken up—the precariously maintained balance between earnings and spending frugality and sufficiency was upset. There was an accident at the factory. Giacomo was caught in the machinery and was taken out seriously injured. They carried him to the hospital and the local doctors did their best for him; but there was some injury to the hip that they could not cure, and at the end of three months they sent him home a helpless cripple, unable to walk.

Hard days followed in the little white house. Giacomo lay on the bed in the inner room, or was pushed and carried out onto a mattress in front of the door, where he could see the sun and sky and exchange a word with the teamsters passing up and down the road with their yokes of sleepy eyed oxen. There he would lie all day, fiddling with his big capable hands, so pitifully idle now, listening—his wife could see him—for the brazen notes of the siren whose summons he could no longer obey, and occasionally scolding Maria as he had never done in his life. Poverty, real sharp poverty, replaced the frugality which had so contented them and seemed like riches now by contrast; the small compensation from the factory, the fowls and the turkeys and Pepita's lace were still not enough to keep the family, though she and her mother worked early and late and the bobbins clattered till far into the night. Things had to be sold - even in an Italian peasant household there are one or two things to sell. The beautiful cassone with the carved front in which Maria had brought home her trousseau when she married had to go: it brought in many lire, which eased matters for a time. But it had been her mother's, and only those whose beautiful possessions are limited to one or two know how much they symbolize, how profound and personal is the loss when they are gone.

Pepita, working her hardest, struggling to help in every way she could, looked on with bewildered eyes at this all consuming misery that had engulfed them. It seemed so confusing and extraordinary after the quiet and stable years. She did not know, poor lamb, how close to the abyss of acute poverty that stable seeming happy life had always stood—all she realized was that it was her Babbo's illness which not only made him so miserable and caused him that dreadful pain, but which had somehow plunged the whole family into the discomfort, anxiety and distress. If Babbo could only be cured all would be well with them once more.

Now Pepita had a little friend called Bianchina, a girl a year or two older than herself; they both went to school in winter and in summer often sat together over their lacemaking under the mulberry trees. One day Bianchina related with great vivacity a wonderful thing which had happened to her. She had a canary, and this canary had long troubled her by singing very loudly early in the morning; it waked her up, and do what she would she could not keep it quiet. At last it became so troublesome that she could really bear it no longer, and on the day when she chanced to be in the town she went into the church of San Filippo and offered a candle to the saint with a prayer that he would make the canario be silent in the morning. And lo and behold the very next morning she slept quite late and when she woke up there was the canary dead in its cage! That, of course, was rather unfortunate; but did it not show how powerful San Filippo was to answer prayers?

This story excited Pepita very much. She regarded the death of the canary as an undoubted miracle. San Filippo must be a very powerful saint as well as a prompt and active one. And if he could help Bianchina in her small trouble why should he not help them in their great one? The more she thought about it the more important it seemed to her that she should apply to him herself—of course in due form, and offering a candle. She asked Bianchina a dozen questions about the church and where she got her taper, for she seldom went into the town—Giacomo and his family always attended mass in a little white church among the fields close by. The candle was the great difficulty. Of course the saint could kill Bianchina's canary for quite a small candle, but to make her dear Babbo well again was a much more difficult and important thing and for that a very big one would surely be necessary and would certainly cost a great deal of money. How could she possibly buy it? For she had no money of her own and she could not ask her poor mother, worried as she was, for any. Besides a sure instinct told her that it would be better if this plan were kept a secret between her and San Filippo until it was accomplished. Then when the miracle came to pass how splendid a surprise for her parents!

Now Pepita had a great silver brooch that her mother had given her on the occasion of her first communion, a year before. She valued it more than anything else in the world; it was the one beautiful thing she possessed, the one thing that was all her own. An admiring neighbor had exclaimed once in her hearing that it must be worth a lot of money. Remembering this now, in her need, with the easy and ready self-sacrifice of a child, Pepita at once decided that her silver brooch should go the same way as the cassone, and purchase the candle that was to make her father well and put an end to all their troubles. So one morning, not long after Bianchina's recital of the miracle of the canary, Pepita slipped the brooch into the front of her dress, and watching her opportunity to steal away unobserved, set out along the road to the town. In her pocket she had put her rosary and a neatly folded slip of paper threaded on a piece of white riband (also a relic of her first communion) on which she had written in big letters the following message:

"Signor San Filippo, questa candela e per Lei. La prego di guarire il Babbo, she e stato ferito nella fattoria sei mesi fa. Non puo piu lavorare, e siamo in miseria. PEPITA GADDI.

(Sir Saint Philip, this candle is for you. Please to heal my father, who was injured in the factory six months ago. He cannot work any more and we are in poverty.)

For Pepita thought to herself, I do not pray very well and the saint might not understand what I want; but if I write it out for him he cannot make any mistake. And if he understands then surely, if the candle is big enough he will perform so good a miracle. And with a child's stubborn faith and hope, her heart beating high with anxious excitement, the pious little truant pattered along the road across the old bridge and into that strange and intimidating place the town.

The church of San Filippo stands in a small piazza. It still has its Gothic facades, of a warm pink tone, but the interior was altered at the renaissance. There are pillars and pilasters of reddish marble, shallow arches and shell vaulting. Houses have been built up around the old church, making it very dark; in front of the altar St. Philip tapers of all sizes burn and gutter in the gloom on a many spiked iron frame—there pools and mounds of fallen wax on the pavement below it. Few people come there in the daytime, but at morning and evening old women with shawls over their heads slip in, kneel in the age blackened pews, and tell their beads with knotted fingers or add a candle to the forest on the frame.

Hither Pepita found her way about midday. With the money that they had given her at the Monte di Pieta in exchange for the brooch she had bought a candle so big that she was carrying it in both arms. She slipped in rather shyly, peering about with eyes unaccustomed to the gloom after the hot noonday glare outside. There was the shrine of San Filippo, with the stand of tapers. Pepita stood for a long time, clasping her large candle, looking up at the big picture of the saint above the altar. Some nameless and forgotten artist of the early renaissance had succeeded in putting something of his spirit into the painting. Time and the smoke of countless candles have so blackened and dimmed the tones that in the uncertain light nothing of the background or subsidiary personages can any longer be seen; but the figure of the saint stands out all the more wonderfully in the gloom. Pepita noticed his reddish beard and curly reddish hair under the thin gold nimbus; but most of all she studied the face, with arched dark brows, which looks down with extraordinary tenderness on some object invisible now. She was encouraged. Doubtless so kind looking a saint would listen, hear her, and help. Especially as her candle was so enormous! With a small sigh of relief she turned to the stand of tapers and after many struggles managed to place the candle in position. It dwarfed all the others there. She pulled out her little note, tied it on carefully, and kneeling down in front of the shrine she murmured her short prayer to the saint, her small dark head devoutly bent, her hot brown hands tightly clasped.

When she had done this, she rose to leave, but bethought her that being in church, she might as well say a few Aves for her parents, and the brothers in America. She slipped into one of the big pews, got out her beads and knelt down again. But the walk into the town had been long and hot, the visit to the Monte di Pieta most alarming, and between fatigue and excitement Pepita was nearly worn out. Her thoughts wandered, her brown head drooped, the beads slipped from her slackened fingers, and she fell fast asleep, huddled in the corner of the dark pew.

She was awakened by the sound of voices close to her; still drowsy she was startled to hear her own name. She peeped cautiously out of the end of the pew; a man and a woman were standing by the taper frame, talking a language she could not understand—the man was examining her little note, tied to the giant candle. "I wonder who Pepita Gaddi is?" he had said. He was a big man with brown beard and thick hair, rather like the saint's, Pepita thought, only not quite so golden red. His face was not unlike the saint's either: he had rather the same kind eyes, under arched brows, and the same pitying look. The lady, who was young and very pretty, now stooped and read the slip of paper; when she looked up again her eyes, Pepita saw, were full of tears. She said something in an imploring voice to the gentleman. He nodded, and untying Pepita's little note from the candle, he folded it carefully and put it in his pocket. Pepita watched with horrified eyes. He was taking it away, her precious note! What could he want with it? Fear kept her silent in her place until the strangers had left the church, but then she broke into a flood of tears. He had taken her note away, and now San Filippo might never know what the candle was for! A busy saint would be almost certain to forget a little prayer like hers, and there was nothing to remind him any more. There wouldn't be a miracle after all. It was all for nothing that she had sold her brooch, and La Mamma would be so hurt when she found out. With her head down on the glossy pew back Pepita sobbed as if her heart would break.

It was late that afternoon when she came trotting home along the road, where the mulberry trees were throwing heavy blue shadows across the white dust. Giacomo had been in a fret about her since midday, and was peevish with anxiety; Maria had also been worried by her long absence, and was moreover tired with all the work she had had to do alone, without that willing extra pair of hands and feet which saved her so many small tasks. They scolded her thoroughly, the pair of them; and when she refused, with unexampled stubbornness, to say exactly where she had been and what she had done, the harassed mother lost her temper, gave the child a good shaking and sent her supperless to bed.

One morning two or three days after, when Pepita was out with the turkeys in the fields, Maria, doing her washing as usual at the tub outside the house, was surprised to see a large rich looking car draw up at her door. A man with a brown beard got out, and coming up to Maria, asked her if one Giacomo Gaddi lived there. "Sissignore," said Maria, in a flutter of excitement. There was another man in the car, whom she now recognized as one of the foremen at the factory. The stranger asked to see her husband alone, and Maria, greatly wondering, led him into the inner room where Giacomo still lay on the bed—she had been too busy to get him out that morning. "Eccolo," she said, and left them. Outside, she asked the foreman who the strange visitor was. He told her what he knew—it was a foreigner, English or American, he did not know!—who had somehow heard about Giacomo's accident, and had come asking at the factory about him, who he was and where he lived; he himself had been sent with the gentleman to show him the way to the house, as he wanted to see Gaddi. One of the boys from the office had started some talk about the bearded man being a great doctor, but, as to that, he couldn't say, himself. That was all the foreman could tell her, while she went on with her washing, and he leaned against the wall, smoking a cheap cheroot and occasionally lending a hand with the wringing. "He's long enough, in there," the foreman said at intervals, and spat.

It was indeed nearly an hour before the visitor reappeared. All that time a murmur of voices went steadily on in the inner room, broken sometimes by a stifled gasp of pain, which terrified Maria. At length the stranger came out, smiling very pleasantly, and said cheerfully "Go in and help to get your good husband ready. I think perhaps I can make a sound man of him again." Maria hurried in to Giacomo. He was trembling with hope and excitement. "He is a great man, a doctor," the workman stuttered out. "He has looked at my legs and my loins, and pulled them and poked them—eh, Dio mio, but he hurt me!—and he believes he can make me well again! Quickly now, Maria! My Sunday coat." And very soon the car moved off once more, carrying Giacomo, the stranger, and the foreman back to the town. When Pepita came in a little later, driving the turkeys before her and trailing her little brothers after her, she found her mother half crying for joy. Maria told her what had happened. "If he succeeds it will be a miracle," she wound up. "Every doctor has said that he could not be cured."

Pepita's heart sang with joy and secret pride as she listened. "So San Filippo did hear after all," she said to herself. But she said not a word to her mother of what she had done.

It was full two months before Gaddi came back, and during all that time Pepita sever saw her father. The stranger operated the same night, and Maria went in once or twice to see her husband afterward, but the poor have little time to sit by sick beds, and she never took Pepita, and told her very little about it—such things were not for children. The stranger, after a week, went off in his car to continue his tour in the south; he gave orders that Giacomo was on no account to leave the hospital till he came back, and left very precise instructions about massage and treatment. Pepita, wondering and kept in the dark, nevertheless went about her tasks in a sweet contentment—San Filippo had heard, the candle had not been wasted. She could wait.

On the evening when Gaddi returned, Pepita was just coming home from the fields with the turkeys when the car once more drew up at the little house. Gaddi and the stranger got out. Gaddi limped slightly and used a stick, but he walked quite strongly as he went to the door to call his wife. When Pepita saw her father actually walking without assistance, her Babbo come back to them well and strong again, she ran toward him, flew into his arms, and clung round his neck as if she would never let him go. "Eh, piccolina," Giacomo said at length, setting her down, "go and thank that gentleman, for it is he who has cured me."

Pepita turned round. The man whom she had seen in the church was standing in the full glow of the evening sunshine—the low light gave a reddish tinge to his beard, and turned the outline of his hair almost to gold round his head; the expression on his face, at that moment made him look more than ever like San Filippo in the picture. Astonished, Pepita stared at him, hesitating. "Com si cham?" she asked her father softly. The stranger heard her. "I am called Philip," he said, smiling.

Pepita gasped. "E il Santo!" she said—and before any one could stop her, she dropped to her knees in the dust at the stranger's feet.

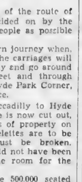

The Englishman put a gentle hand on the child's bent head. "It is your miracle, little one," he said.

Pepita still believes that it was the saint.

OUR OLD COUNTRY LETTER—By J. Edward Norcross

LONDON, England, Sept. 1.—(By Mail)—Fortunately for the continued preservation of beautiful and historic places in this country, wealthy people seem almost always ready to find money to buy them for the nation when necessary to prevent their ruin or destruction.

Chalfont St. Giles has thus been saved twice. Chalfont St. Giles is the pretty Buckinghamshire village to which Milton retreated when the Great Plague swept over London in 1665. There for some time he lived in a cottage where he wrote a large part of "Paradise Lost," most, if not all, of "Paradise Regained," and also "Samson Agonistes."

J. E. Norcross

The cottage still stands among the trees and looks very much what it must have looked when Milton lived in it. It is on the side of the main street, one of a little group of red-tilled houses which cluster around the old Norman church, with its low, square tower—as typical a bit of unspoiled English scenery as one may find anywhere.

Until the eighties of last century the cottage was owned and occupied by a private family which had had possession of it for more than a hundred years.

England, in those days, was a little careless about its literary shrines but it was roused to action when it became known that an American proposed to buy Milton's cottage, the only remaining house of those the poet had been known to occupy, take it down stone by stone, and set it up again on his own side of the Atlantic.

This was in 1887, the year of Queen Victoria's golden jubilee. So a Jubilee Fund was opened, to which Her Majesty gave $100, and the cottage was bought and handed over to a board of trustees.

IT is understood that the lengthening of the route of the Coronation procession was decided on by the King himself in order that as many people as possible might see it.

The principal change is on the return journey when, after emerging from St. James Street, the carriages will turn east instead of west along Piccadilly and go around the block—Regent Street, Oxford Street and through Hyde Park from the Marble Arch to Hyde Park Corner, and so by Constitution Hill to the Palace.

King George drove west along Piccadilly to Hyde Park Corner. That portion of the route is now cut out, to the great dissatisfaction of occupiers of property on that part of the thoroughfare. If omelettes are to be made, however, somebody's eggs must be broken. From a public standpoint the route could not have been better chosen. There should be ample room for the millions who will turn out.

It is calculated that there will be 500,000 seated spectators along the route and that they will pay $25,000,000 for their places, the prices ranging from $10.50 to $105.00. Applications to the number of 25,000 have come in already, one of those making them offering $157.50 for a seat.

Speculation in windows along the route is already rife. Thousands of dollars are being offered for leases of flats and offices.

Bookings are pouring in at the luxury hotels, phone calls, telegrams and cablegrams tumbling over one another as soon as the route was announced.

THE King is expected to follow the precedents set by Edward VII and King George and wear his Coronation robes and Crown on the return drive. The Crown of England, however, is very heavy. It weighs about seven pounds. The Imperial State Crown, weighing three pounds, will be substituted for the journey from the Abbey.

Like other peers, the King's brothers will wear their coronets, and, although peeresses in general will not do so, the royal princesses and Queen Mary will wear theirs.

A spot of bother for the heralds and the ceremonial authorities might be created were the 22 ladies who are peeresses in their own right to claim the right to do homage at the Coronation. The vow would have to be re-written. "I, ——, do become your liege man of life and limb" would hardly do.

ONE imagines that members of the Royal Family may occasionally get a little tired of hearing the National Anthem. Perhaps, however, it becomes a matter of such use and wont that it affects them no more than the performance of other routine acts incidental to their position.

The Bishop of Chelmsford, however, admits that he gets very tired of certain hymns. In a letter to his diocese he suggests that it might be a very good thing to ban nine for a year. The hymns are:

"All people that on earth do dwell."
"We love the place, O God."
"City of God."
"Ye watchers and ye holy ones."
"Now thank we all our God."
"Praise, my soul, the King of Heaven."
"O God, our help in ages past."
"The Church's one foundation."
"Lead us, Heavenly Father."

"Why, for instance," asks the bishop, "should such a hymn as 'O God our help in ages past' be worked to death as is the case today? Whenever there is a service of national or civic importance, when the mayor comes to church and we want to be a little religious, but not too much so, this hymn seems to be regarded as quite essential."

The good bishop, apparently, overlooks the fact that while, moving from one special service to another he hears the same hymns again and again, the individual congregations do not, and, also, that certain hymns are used by custom on certain occasions and would be sadly missed were they dropped.

Moreover, as a leader in a church that uses a liturgy, he is on dangerous ground. Somebody may ask him if he does not tire of hearing the Te Deum every Sunday morning.

DEAN INGE is another ecclesiastical dignitary who has been stirring things up a little.

Addressing the Modern Churchmen's Conference in Oxford he compared prayers for fine weather and for rain with the incantations of medicine men in savage Africa.

The prayers for these in the Prayer Book, he said, were seldom used and were disliked by educated congregations.

"The more we know about causes of climatic phenomena the less likely we are to dream of changing them by prayer in order to save our hay crops or to secure a fine day for our garden party.

"But can we consistently give up praying for rain and continue to pray for the recovery of a relation or friend in sickness?

"Knowledge has been enlarged in this field during our lifetime. We know something about microbes. How can they be affected by our prayer.

"Is the husband of a loving and prayerful wife a 'better life' from the point of view of life insurance than a man who has no Christian relatives anxious for the prolongation of his existence?

Dr. Inge added: "I once had a letter from a good lady who said, 'I am praying for your death. I have been very successful in two other cases'."

Father Woodlock, of Farm-street Roman Catholic Church, Berkeley Square, replies to the Dean.

"God," he declares, "is not an intellectual snob who is only interested in and values communion with the university don or the profound philosopher. Erudition is not necessary preliminary to the acceptance of Christ's teaching."

Thousands of people he says, have seen the beneficial results of prayer offered for the sick.

Another cleric caustically affirms his belief that God is more powerful than microbes.

STIFF collars and cuffs, bonnets and multitudinous tacks and pleats are to be banished from the Liverpool hospitals and the nurses are to have new uniforms with soft turn-down collars.

The change has been brought about by a prominent Labor member of the Liverpool City Council, Mrs. E. M. Braddock.

"I first raised the matter after a tour of the hospitals because so many nurses reminded me of museum pieces," she said. "We have a duty to our nursing staffs and I decided to make an effort to get them a more reasonable type of uniform."

MENTION was made some time ago in this correspondence of the "Transatlantic Bulletin" which, broadcast from the United States by Raymond Swing, is transmitted to British listeners by the British Broadcasting Corporation.

I observed at that time it was unfortunate that a service of such great value in enabling the British public to follow and understand public affairs in the United States had not been instituted for Canada also.

This is now to be remedied, and not only in the case of Canada but of the other Dominions as well. Mr. Swing talks every week on issues of which the knowledge over here is very imperfect. The same method is to be followed in respect of Canada where the first of the proposed Dominion series will be begun during the coming fall.

The British Broadcasting Corporation is already projecting Britain to the Empire by means of the Daventry short wave transmissions; it will now reverse the process and project the Empire to Britain.

The arrangements for Canada are in the hands of Felix Greene, the B.B.C.'s North American representative, who is at present in London on leave.

FOR many years the museums committee of Blackburn has guarded carefully a 7¼ ounce nugget of what purported to be "Australian gold." How it originally acquired it has been forgotten but, tempted by the high price of gold, the committee obtained the approval of the town council for the sale of its treasure.

The nugget was sent to London. The assayers there, however, found that it was composed of brazier's metal and lead and that there was not a particle of gold in it.

The Blackburn people might have made the discovery for themselves by performing the experiment by which Archimedes convicted a goldsmith of substituting inferior metal for the gold supplied him to make Hiero's crown.

The difficulty was to establish this without destroying the crown. The philosopher was puzzled until taking a bath he noticed that, the bath being full, some of the water ran over.

He there and then discovered the principle of specific gravity.

Jumping out of the water, he ran out into the street naked, crying "Eureka." ("I have found it.") thus, incidentally, providing a name for any number of gold claims on the North American continent, about 25 centuries later.

ALWAYS ENCLOSE A STAMPED ADDRESSED ENVELOPE.

Address all correspondence to: The Director, Stamp Collectors' Club, The Bulletin, Edmonton, Alberta.

For some years The Bulletin has made possible guidance in the hobby of an internationally known philatelic expert, who is at your service to advise regarding your problems.

YOU are welcome in membership. State your age, size of collection and what stamps are of special interest to you. Enclose postage for reply always. You will receive a membership card and some stamps for your collection.

EXCHANGE: Send 50 different stamps to the Club Director and you will help our new members in starting a collection. Send no "junk." Used stamps must be soaked free of all gum and paper and all must be good sound specimens. Used copies of Canadian stamps, excepting current, ordinary type 1, 2 and 3c denominations may be sent. Remember to enclose a stamped envelope for reply.

POSTAL HISTORY OF ASCENSION

The rugged island of Ascension, with an area of about 35 square miles, lies in the South Atlantic ocean about 2,000 miles due west from the capital of Angola, on the south-west of Africa. It is assigned to the African continent and was at one time an Admiralty depot, commissioned as "H.M.S. Ascension."

As far back as 1673 it had an embryo "post office" and masters of passing ships would leave word of their progress by leaving messages in bottles where they would be subsequently discovered by other visitors to the island. At this time it was entirely uninhabited. This "bottle post" was probably in use until Great Britain took possession of the island, in 1815.

There was no regular mail service for many years and any letters had to wait the casual ship that called, if they were obliging enough to act as packet boat. Letters from England to the few inhabitants were generally carried by government vessels employed in taking stores to the island.

Between 1860 and 1863 the Resident Chaplain, the officer acting as Postmaster (the Assistant-Paymaster), and the Commandant made several efforts to induce the British Postmaster-General to fix postal rates and provide stamps for use of "the crew" and other inhabitants, but in vain. They were informed that all letters were to be sent to Europe unpaid, the postage to be collected from the addressee. Again in 1866 the island Postmaster appealed for postal establishment, and pointed out the inconvenience to those on the island, and also to those on board merchant vessels and ships of war who called at the island and were wishful to write home. The P.M.G., in response to this appeal, send £20 worth of 1d., 6d. and 1/-stamps of Great Britain, which were received "on board" "H.M.S. Ascension" 3.3.67, and were immediately put into use. The earliest date which has been discovered up to now is a 1/-plate 7, postmarked 29.9.73. Rates set to and from Great Britain were: Seamen, per ½ ounce, 1d.; officers, midshipmen or master mates, per ½ ounce, 6d.; to other countries via Great Britain, ½ ounce, 1/-.

In 1922 Ascension was attached to the British Colony of St. Helena and a special set of stamps were issued, being the regular issue for St. Helena, overprinted "Ascension," at top. A regular issue, inscribed "Ascension" appeared in 1924, on which the seal of the colony is shown. Another regular issue (pictorials) was made in 1934 and the Silver Jubilee issue in 1935. Postal rates are now the same as St. Helena.

Pre-stamp covers are very rare. One is known (from a Marine) dated 1845 and addressed to Colne in Lancashire. 1d. was paid on it, but it was surcharged 2d.

Today's Markets

Toronto—Mines

TORONTO, Sept. 12.—Trading volume picked up a little and prices firmed moderately on Toronto mining share market today.

Perron gained about 15 cents to around 1.83. McLeod-Cockshutt was strong at 4.90, up 10, and Kirkland-Hudson Bay advanced 10 to 1.20.

Noranda sold at 64, up a half, and Sherritt, Ventures and Base Metals Corporation were steady to higher. Eldorado weakened a few cents.

McKenzie and San Antonio weakened a few each and Sullivan was up 9.

Toronto—Industrials

TORONTO, Sept. 12.—The final session of the week on Toronto Industrial share market was dull on a slightly heavy price picture.

Western Grocers sold at a new high up a point at 56. Canada Packers, Consolidated Bakeries, Lake of the Woods and Westons were higher against minor losses for Dominion Stores and Canada Vinegars.

Consolidated Smelters eased off slightly and Ford A, Distillers-Seagrams and British American Oil closed behind minus signs. Brewing Corporation pfd. added a point and International Petroleum, Imperial Oil and McColl common lost a little.

At Montreal

MONTREAL, Sept. 12.—Stocks failed to establish a definite trend during today's brief session of the Montreal Stock Exchange.

Smelters moved up to 58⅜, best level of the present issue, but eased to 58¼, off ⅛. Nickel held about even while Noranda picked up around ½ at 64.

Gain of a point was shown by Lake of Woods at 31 while Montreal Power and Brazilian declined narrowly. Building Products firmed ⅛ to 43⅞, new peak.

Revival of demand for Canadian Car common and preferred brought gains of ¼ and ½ respectively. Gypsum and Canada Cement slipped about ½ each.

At New York

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—The stock market swung in a restricted orbit today as traders found little inspiration to step out very far on either the buying or selling sides.

Many of the leaders were virtually unchanged and a few were substantially lower at the close. Transfers were around 500,000 shares.

In the Canadian section of the list, prices were virtually unchanged on shares of McIntyre, Hiram Walker, International Nickel and Canadian Pacific.

Atlantic Gulf and West Indies was a star performer, getting up more than 2 points.

EDMONTON STOCKYARDS, Sept. 12—Report for week ending Sept. 12:—

Receipts:	Cattle	Calves	Hogs	Sheep
Saturday	74	3	81	60
Week	1419	524	463	266

During this past week the demand improved very materially. As a result trading was generally brisk and the market developed a keener tone. Salesmen were able to make a good daily clean up of all their offerings, except the very common undesirable kinds. Prices at the close of the week were showing a generally firmer tone all round on good kinds, and steers, particularly choice, were a full 25c per cwt. higher, with buyers if anything easier in their grading. The following were the quotations at the close of the week:—

Good to choice fed calves $4 to $5, others from $3.75 down; good to choice steers $4 to $5, mediums $3.25 to $3.75 and common to fair $2 to $3; good to choice heifers $3.50 to $4, mediums $2.75 to $3.25, and common to fair $1.50 to $2.50; good to choice cows $1.75 to $2.25, common to medium $1 to $1.50; canners and cutters 75c to $1; bulls, $1.50 to $2.

An improved demand is noticeable for all classes of stockers, but particularly the better grades, and these were moving readily. The general run of good stockers selling at $2.25 to $2.75, other kinds from $2 down.

Calf market fully steady. Good to choice $3.50 to $4. Common to medium $2 to $3.

Hog market showed signs of firmness. At the close trucked-in bacons were selling at $8.35, selects bringing a premium of 50c per cwt., and butchers discounted 50c per cwt.

Lamb prices generally are showing a firmer tone with no choice ones on offer. Bulk of lambs selling from $5.75 down, yearlings from $3 down and ewes from $2.25 down.

AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Sept. 12—Hogs 2,000, including 1,600 direct. Quotable top, $11.25; good 325-380 lb. sows, $9-$9.50.

Cattle 1,500, calves 100. Largely $8.50-$9.90 fat steers market; prime heifers up to $10, new high on crop.

Sheep 8,000, including 7,500 directs, closing bulk natives and westerns $9.25-$9.50.

U.K. BUTTER PRICES

OTTAWA, Sept. 12.—Butter was steady on United Kingdom markets, according to cable advice received today by the department of agriculture. New Zealand and Australian sold at 110 shillings per cwt. (24.85 cents per lb.).

GRAIN INSPECTIONS

WINNIPEG, Sept. 12.—Grain inspections (Friday): Wheat, this year 1,374 cars, 1,193 last year; contract grades 1,239; oats 93-21; Barley 146-119; Flax 3-0; rye 7-8.

Forest Fire Curbed

NAKINA, Ont., Sept. 12.—Residents here buried their furniture and other belongings underground and fled when forest fires threatened the village.

A rotating prrojectile travels farther and straighter, and its path is a flatter curve; hence the grooving, or "rifling," of a rifle barrel.

A.P. GRAIN'S POSITION GOOD

WINNIPEG, Sept. 12.—Despite adverse conditions and high taxation the Alberta Pacific Grain Company, Limited, improved its working capital position during the year ending June 30, 1936, the annual report of the company issued on behalf of the board of directors by President H. E. Sellers, indicates.

In his report Mr. Sellers says in part:

FURTHER IMPROVEMENT

"Further improvement of $284,253.47 in working capital position was effected during the year. The arrangement made with the First Mortgage Bondholders in 1934 for the suspension of sinking fund payments for a period of three years, expired on June 1st last. The result of operations during the current year will be the deciding factor on whether application for an extension of suspension of sinking fund payments will be made to the bondholders.

"Drought conditions returned to the prairie provinces again this year for the seventh time in the past eight years, and indications are that the 1936 crop will be the smallest harvested since 1919.

"Company's properties have been maintained in good repair. Taxation continues to be a heavy burden in the operations of the company. During the year under review an amount of $92,070.80 was contributed to Dominion, provincial and municipal governmental bodies in the form of direct taxes."

LARGE COMPANY

The Alberta Pacific is one of the large elevator companies operating in Canada. The company operates 371 country elevators located throughout Saskatchewan and Alberta, and terminal elevators at Vancouver.

Directors and officers of the company are: H. E. Sellers, president; K. C. Allen, general manager; Cecil Lamont, secretary; C. J. Bingley, treasurer; A. F. Culver, Montreal; C. W. Band, Toronto; H. W. Webster, Winnipeg; L. Killam, Vancouver, and R. W. Ward, Calgary, directors.

The annual general meeting of shareholders will be held in Calgary, October 27th.

BROOMHALL

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—The large Black Sea weekly shipments of wheat are attracting considerable attention, especially in Canada, which country is almost the sole competitor. The Liverpool market yesterday closed steady ⅛ to 1 higher, on investment buying due to the small estimates of the Canadian and French wheat crops.

World shipments of wheat and flour this week, excluding N. A., total 6,376,000 more than half of which was furnished by the Balkans and compares with 4,167,000 a week ago. With N. A. included, this week's world total will probably be the largest so far this season, as present indications point to fairly good clearances from Canada.

Catches Hair In Washer Wringer; Badly Injured

BASHAW, Sept. 12.—Mrs. T. M. Pederson, of the Imperial hotel at Mirror, suffered painful injuries to her scalp when her hair caught in the wringer of an electric washing machine while she was doing the family washing. Nearly all the hair on top of Mrs. Pederson's head was pulled out at the roots.

Five Arabs, British Sergeant Killed

JERUSALEM, Sept. 12.—Sergeant Sweeny, of the Lancashire Regiment and five Arabs were killed yesterday in a three-hour skirmish between troops and Arabs.

The casualty list for the past 24 hours was raised to eight with these new deaths. It was reported earlier in the day that two Jewish laborers had been killed from ambush.

FALL .... FASHION Opening

To Display the New Styles

Monday, 3:15 p.m.

In Our Main Dining Rooms

Everything is new about the 1936 Fall styles, and never have Fashions been more dramatically exciting.

We invite you to see them portrayed by our Mannequins at a Fashion Show, Monday at 3:15 p.m.

Afternoon Tea will be served during the show.

Here's the News!

FIVE NEW IMPORTANT SILHOUETTES HERALD THE NEW FALL STYLES ...
- THE SWING
- THE PRINCESS
- THE TUNIC
- THE PEPLUM
- THE TRIANGLE.

THE NEW FABRICS ARE ROUGHER AND SMARTER ...
New surface interests have been intriguingly developed, including:
- THE ELEPHANT SKIN
- THE TRICOLIDO
- THE SHADOWLANE
- THE CRUSHED CIRE
- THE ROUGH WOOLENS
- AND VELVETS, OF COURSE

BLACK AND SUBTLE FALL SHADES ...
- BLACK stands very much in the Fashion forecast, followed by:
- GREEN
- BROWN
- FALLING LEAF TONES.

NEW STYLE INTERESTS ...
Necklines are higher and lower — sleeves are wider and slimmer — shoulders are accentuated — hemlines are definitely interesting — while the skirts have new swing fullness or triangle slimness.

SUITS, COATS and SPORTSWEAR ... are all in the Fashion Picture and equally important for their outstanding smartness and style interest.

YOU CAN SEE THEM ALL AT THE HBC FASHION SHOW!

FOR BUSINESS GIRLS

A Special Show for Business Women and Girls, Monday Evening, from 8 to 9 p.m.

We know that many business girls find it difficult to attend our Afternoon Show, so we have planned a special showing for the evening. There will be no admission charge. Use the Third Street entrance.

Gleaned From The News

Sittings of the Board appointed under the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act will open at the court house Monday morning under the chairmanship of Mr. Justice C. B. Mitchell.

Property committee of the Edmonton Public School Board will meet Monday at 8 p.m. in the Board room, 310 Civic block.

George H. Van Allen, K.C., will be speaker at Lions Club luncheon next week. His subject will be, "Certain Aspects of Public Affairs."

The Veterans' Assistance Committee is calling a meeting of the registration sub-committee for 5:30 p.m. Monday at the Memorial hall.

A tool box, blanket, woman's coat and scarf, were reported stolen from a car owned by J. Lake, Leduc, while it was parked in front of the University hospital Friday evening.

Canadian Airways on Saturday reported Pilot Art Hankin southbound from Yellowknife. Con Farrell was northbound from Goldfields Friday.

Ramifications of recent debt legislation passed by the Alberta government will be the subject of an address by G. B. O'Connor, K.C., to the Edmonton Life Underwriters' Association at a luncheon at the Hudsonia Monday afternoon.

Mrs. A. H. D. Woodman and her two sons, Dick and Desmond, returned to their home at Fort Chipewyan in a Canadian Airways plane piloted by Con Farrell, which left McMurray Tuesday. Other passengers were Mrs. Alex. Hamdon and daughter, M. Hamdon, returning to Chipewyan after a holiday in Edmonton.

OPTIMIST RAFFLE CASE COMING UP

Appeal to have the conviction registered against the Optimist club for operating a lottery will be heard in the Appellate division on Monday.

The club, as a corporation body, was sentenced to pay a fine of $5 and costs when found guilty of operating a lottery in connection with its mid-summer frolic. Appeal against the sentence was immediately launched.

Quashing of the conviction and permission of the court to dispose of the prizes offered at that time, or to return moneys collected will be sought.

Thirteen other cases are set for hearing during this sitting of the court.

Declaring that the failure of this continent to accept Technocracy's challenge to go forward with science to prosperity would mean the disintegration of the existing economic life, Jonathon F. Glendon, visiting technocrat lecturer, addressed a meeting in the Empire theatre Friday night under auspices of the local unit of his society.

"Under the laws which will govern the operation of the technological state, purchasing power will be distributed absolutely equally to all members of society, from the most responsible official to a laborer performing humble toil," the speaker stated.

NOT ALL EQUAL

He explained that this did not mean that technocracy believed that all men were equal. He was an attempt, however, to prevent economic inequality resulting in that pervasive political corruption which he charged was instrumental in preventing the world's partial recovery from the depression.

"In the new state," Glendon added, "the people will determine what shall be produced. Technocracy will merely determine how it will be done. For the first time in history, a citizen will be exercising an effective franchise by displaying his purchasing certificate and making the state satisfy his economic needs. That will really mean voting for what he or she and not for the enrichment of some political demagogue."

The lecturer said that his organization was now ready to assume control of the major functional operations of society. For 16 years it had been conducting an intensive inquiry into the nature of our industrial processes and has now drafted a program of constructive action.

FUSED EFFORTS

This new control design is known as "Technocracy's Blueprint" and is the result, he declared, of the fused efforts of sustained research on the part of this continent's best social engineers. He claimed that the institute he represents is in constant communication with 25,000 men and women placed in positions of economic responsibility, in order to prepare conditions which will avoid bloodshed or anarchy in the transition to the new society.

"Such preparation is imperative as the present price system has collapsed. It is now having its existence prolonged by synthetic purchasing power furnished by governments to people in the form of relief and extended credit granted the result of this policy will be a thorough and annihilating catastrophe."

Glendon described the attempt to alleviate the depression by a Back-to-Work movement as being "absolutely nutty." Nothing but the adoption of Technocracy, he said, would shield this continent from the threat of recurrent crisis.

COLD BLOODED

"We Technocrats", the lecturer said, "are a hard-boiled, cold-blooded bunch of people. We do not plead or coax people to join our organization. We know that the irreversable pressure of events will steadily compel an increasing number of people on this continent to accept the policies enunciated by the accredited representatives of Technocracy."

G. D. Kee, field organizer of the local Technocracy society, was chairman of the meeting. Glendon's final lecture will be delivered tonight under the auspices of the Edmonton unit of the Technocracy society.

Have You Seen?

The whereabouts of three men, believed to be residing in northern Alberta are being sought by relatives, and police have been asked to locate them.

John Moran, Duluth, Minn., is seeking his brother, Michael Moran, whom he has not seen for several years. He is believed to be working near Edmonton.

Andrew Johnson, is being sought by his brother, J. E. Albert-son, of Hibbing, Minnesota. He is reported to have been living here in 1912 and still believed to be residing somewhere in the district.

The whereabouts of Conrad Carl Bitzer, is being sought by George C. Wenger, of Rock Island, Ill. He was reported living in Edmonton in 1928 when last heard from.

Mother, Sister Seek R. E. Vaughan In This District

Dropping entirely out of sight and not communicating with his family for over a year although he had previously kept in frequent touch with them, Reece Ernest Vaughan, 25, formerly of Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan, is being sought by his mother and sister, Myrtle Vaughan, both living at 1226 High street west, Moose Jaw. The mother is greatly alarmed over the failure of her son to write and is ill as a consequence.

Vaughan was last heard of a year ago from Wetaskiwin where he was working for a farmer during the harvesting. At that time it was his intention to go to Mirror, Alberta.

His description is as follows: Reece Ernest Vaughan, 25, height 5' 11½", weight 160 pounds. Dark complexion, brown eyes; speaks with Canadian accent. Has scar on back of hand near third finger. In all probability would be carrying a violin in a case. Anyone knowing his whereabouts is requested to communicate with his family at the above address.

Because of its fertile soil and almost inexhaustible mineral and other natural resources, Mexico is known as the "Storehouse of the World."

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

Considerable difference of opinion has been noticed concerning the condition of Alberta highways. Some people believe that the roads are satisfactory; others are convinced that they are a disgrace to the province. Your Inquiring Reporter resolved to gain a consensus of opinion on this subject by asking several Edmonton motorists the following question: "What do you think of travelling conditions on Alberta highways at the present time?"

A. L. SMITH: I do not share the rather common prejudice against Alberta roads. I toured the southern part of the province and was agreeably surprised by the travelling conditions I encountered. Apart from dust, I noticed nothing that merited condemnation.

NORMAN M. LEE: Alberta's roads, I believe, are a scandal and public nuisance, particularly the one between Edmonton and Calgary. That highway is one of the most important in our provincial road system and yet there are constant complaints concerning its intolerable condition. With all the resources of tar-sands we have in the province, we should have the finest roads in Canada.

BELL DUNN: Tourists complain that the chief weakness of our roads is their spotty surface. A good stretch will suddenly, and without warning, be followed by a bit of ragged road that makes comfort on the highway an unthinkable impossibility. The Jasper road was peculiarly open to this charge in the summer months, but it is evidently improving now.

GEORGE BROWN: The fundamental weakness of Alberta roads is their lack of gravel. They haven't been graded since they were runs. It's time road authorities inaugurate an extensive program of levelling and gravelling our main highways.

CHRIS SAKS: Do you call these things roads? They are mere two by fours. I am surprised that there are not more accidents than there are on our highways, seeing that they are in such wretched shape.

WILLIAM TEGLIN: There will be no expansion of tourist trade in Alberta until the roads are put into better condition. So long as they remain unsatisfactory, travellers will be reluctant to undertake the hazards of motoring in this province. We have no right to complain of a dearth of tourists because we are doing so little to make highway travel in Alberta agreeable to them.

A post-mortem will be conducted at Foster and McGarvey's funeral parlors Saturday afternoon into the death of Jeanne Koshina, 21, of room 17, 10656 96 street, who dropped dead in the bath-room of the residence after taking a bath Saturday morning. Heart failure is believed to have been the cause. Coroner Dr. E. A. Braithwaite will preside.

900 UNMARRIED MEN MAY GET AID ON FARMS

Single Unemployed Likely To Take Advantage Of Provisions

Approximately 900 single unemployed are registered on provincial relief and may take advantage of the Dominion-provincial plan for farm settlement, according to A. A. MacKenzie, chairman of the Alberta Relief Commission.

Details of the plan are not yet available, as Hon. Charles Cockroft, provincial treasurer is at Ottawa, completing negotiations. Until these arrangements are completed such matters as remuneration will not be settled.

It is likely remuneration to men going on the farm will be $5 a month.

Since harvesting commenced the number of single unemployed registered on provincial relief has dropped from 2,000 to 900. As harvesting finishes the number is likely to increase grain.

Under the scheme of placing unemployed on farms in the winter in previous years, the farmers have boarded the men and have been entitled to receive a certain number of hours work each day. The government has paid the workmen $5 a month, but no cash is received by the farmer. It is likely a similar provision will be made this year.

Every single unemployed registered here is considered as fit to participate in the scheme. Calgary has 1,000 single unemployed available for participation.

In past years some difficulty has been experienced in this scheme of sending suitable workers to the right farmers. In many cases it has been found that the men, on arrival at the farms, have expressed inability to perform the type of farming work the farmer desired, which has resulted in an unsatisfactory arrangement.

Officials are seeking to overcome this in the current year's arrangements.

It is pointed out by officials that national registration of single unemployed commenced on September 1, and single men now in provinces other than their own, are urged to immediately register for relief on the earliest possible moment, as they are then in a much more favorable position to receive relief than if they remain in another province.

GOOD HIGHWAY TRAVEL HURT IN BIG RAINS

Calgary Road and Others Are Near Impassable Today

Heavy rain dislocated travel on Alberta highways Saturday, some of the roads becoming so muddy as to be actually impassable. The Peace River route, which suffered most severely from the deluge, was in such bad shape that the road was declared closed by government authorities at Fort St. John.

Carrot Creek is reported to be a sea of mud, and traffic is impossible there even with the use of chains. No cars are getting through on the side roads.

The St. Paul road, which has been in good shape for over a month, has been cut up by rains and is now reported to be muddy and rough.

COVERED WITH MUD

"I tried to get through the Calgary road today," declared a motorist whose car was covered with mud, "and look at the result. I made it, of course, but not even brand-new chains could prevent me from slipping off the road on several occasions. I think it's a scandal that something is not done to prevent this road from being so slippery, seeing it is one of the vital highways of Alberta. The fresh dirt grade near Millet was so bad that I won't trust myself to describe it."

A detailed survey of road conditions in the province reads as follows, according to a report issued Saturday by the Edmonton branch of the Alberta Motor Association:

SLIPPERY, IMPASSABLE

Edmonton to Athabasca, road muddy. Road slippery at Clyde. Smith, Slave Lake, Faust, High Prairie, Peace River, Fairview, Spirit River, Grande Prairie, Beaverlodge, Dawson Creek, highway all muddy. Road closed at Fort St. John because it is impassable.

Edmonton to Jasper, muddy and rough at Wildwood, passable at Edson and rained out at Carrot Creek; St. Paul road muddy and impassable at Two Hills, St. Paul and Waskatenau; North Battleford, Lloydminster, Wainwright, Chauvin, Hughenden, Provost, Vekcraa, road all good. Edmonton to Calgary, highway is slippery and muddy around Millet.

POULTRY MEN TO MEET HERE

Meeting and banquet has been arranged by the Edmonton Poultry Club for Wednesday, September 16, at 7:15 p.m., in the Bashi Cafe, to which poultrymen will have opportunity of hearing Dr. Weaver, poultry disease expert with the federal department of agriculture; R. W. Zavitz, assistant chief of the Dominion poultry services, Ottawa, and Dr. J. G. Munro, deputy minister of agriculture for British Columbia. The officials will attend the Hatcherymen's convention here on that date.

G. M. Cormie will occupy the chair at the banquet. Tickets may be had at the door or from poultry officials and members of the club.

I. O. O. F. Will Present Annual Service Sunday

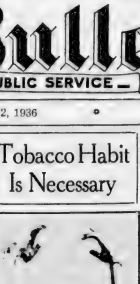

Annual memorial service of the I.O.O.F. will be held at the Edmonton cemetery on Sunday, September 13, at 3 p.m. Rev. A. E. Black will deliver the address.

Sister S. Clement, of Maple Leaf Rebekah Lodge No. 2 and Sister M. Bomerlan, of Jewel Rebekah Lodge No. 23 will be accompanists. Sister M. White of Unity Rebekah Lodge No. 26 will play a violin solo and Sister M. Spratt, of Jewel Rebekah Lodge No. 23, and Sister C. B. Manahan, of Unity Rebekah Lodge No. 26, will sing a duet.

Thomas McCallum will act as chairman.

Tobacco Habit Is Necessary

Here is one occasion on which no one can object to a girl having a tobacco habit. In fact, there might be some protests if she was without it. The Virginia beauty's costume of tobacco leaves trimmed with cigarettes was designed to be worn in the National Tobacco fete at South Boston, Va.

Police Court

Convicted on charges of keeping liquor for sale, William McVey, 34-year-old attendant of the Victoria rooms, 10166 100 street, was sentenced to one month imprisonment at Fort Saskatchewan by Magistrate A. H. Gibson in police court Saturday.

Peter Kochuk, proprietor of the North Star rooming house on Jasper avenue east, reserved his plea to charges of obstructing a police officer and the case was adjourned until Wednesday.

Kochuk is alleged to have grappled with Detective W. A. Smith, when the officer was searching the premises in the course of his duty.

Judgment was reserved until Monday in the case of Percy Delior, charged with negligent driving. The magistrate ruled that there was still some doubt about the evidence submitted.

The case arises out of an accident at 100A street and Jasper avenue, when a woman was knocked down by a car driven by the accused.

TYPHOID TAKES 3 LIVES SINCE FIRST OF YEAR

One Case of Poliomyelitis Reported to M.H.O. Here This Week

Thirty-one cases of typhoid fever have been reported in Edmonton since the beginning of the year, 14 being brought to the city from outside points, Dr. R. H. Jenkins, medical health officer, stated Saturday. Three deaths have occurred, the latest having fatal to two men and one woman.

Thirteen of the patients including five brought to the city from Goldfields several weeks ago, are still receiving treatment here.

WATER IS SOURCE

Dr. Jenkins reported that contaminated water was the source of several cases of the disease and repeated his warning that untreated river water must not be used, particularly at points on the Saskatchewan below the city's sewage outlet.

This week 83 cases of communicable diseases were recorded by the health department as compared to 98 last week. Classification of diseases follows, figures for this week and last week being given in that order; poliomyelitis, 1, 0; scarlet fever, 1, 2; chickenpox, 9, 15; measles, 9, 13; mumps, 2, 1; rubella, 3, 2; whooping cough, 53, 62; typhoid fever, 2, 2.

ONE "POLIO"

The report shows one case of poliomyelitis recorded during the week. In the fall of 1935 several cases of "polio" occurred and health authorities deemed it advisable to delay school opening for a month as a precautionary measure. Dr. Jenkins does not anticipate a similar outbreak of the disease this fall.

Terror Reigns In Addis Ababa

LONDON, Sept. 12.—According to Miss Freda Collier, a London woman whom the Italians "politely asked" to leave Addis Ababa, "A reign of terror has been established" in the Ethiopian capital.

Miss Collier, now in England, said, "All Abyssinians suspected of intrigue are put against a wall and shot. Fighting still goes on."

ITALIAN BOUNCES TO MAT VICTORY OVER McGUIRE

LOOKING THEM OVER

By JACK KELLY

Signor Martino Angelo Gives the Irish a Bad Night and the Fans Give Him Punches

Last night we hie us over to the Memorial Hall to take a gander at this latest Italian threat to the peace of the world—Signor Martino Angelo, the barefoot bruiser from Borgotaro, who is matched with Mickey McGuire in the main event of Promoter Mike Cutcher's weekly wrestling show. If only takes a glance at the Herculean physique of Signor Angelo to decide that if all Fascisti are built on the same lines, army tanks would have to double-head to break through a line of them. He is the type that Caesar would have made into the Roman equivalent of a shock trooper.

But being a simple soul we are pulling strongly for Mickey McGuire, a fine broth of a lad with the map of old Ireland stamped on his face. We are pulling for him on account of the fact that the signor is addicted to all sorts of knavish practices such as gouging at Mickey's honest bine eyes, strangling and pulling hair.

Mickey Scores Kayo

For awhile Mickey put up with these shenanigans and good Irish wrath starts spurting from eyes. He promptly quits these complicated wrestling holds, doubles his fists and sails into the pride of Italy. With the crowd cheering him on, he drops the signor cold to the canvas with a good sock on the chin before the referee has time to do anything about it. Everybody is very well pleased, except a few Fascisti, but they give Martino a salute as he comes to and bide their time. It comes in the second round and again in the third as the signor ties Mickey up in a knot and makes him say "Uncle." But before it is all over Mickey strikes one more brave blow for the shamrock.

Signor Becomes Pretzel

He is hard pressed in a corner when he suddenly remembers the family goat back in Cork. Mickey puts his head down and hits the Italian menace kersmack right in the middle—a bunt that would have done credit to any goat. The signor is bowled over and climbs into the ropes for protection, but McGuire is right after him. He gives him a twist and spin and there is Angelo tied up in the ropes like a pretzel with his head down and his feet up! Referee Jack Jackson tries to figure out how to untie him, but Mickey starts jumping on the ropes and each jump bumps the signor's head on the floor which makes a "boom" like a bass drum and everybody happy—excepting the signor.

But before any damage is done to the floor, the referee untangles Angelo, who is awful mad and proceeds to tie Mickey's arms up in a knot behind his back. Mickey decides maybe his arms are more use to him than glory, so he gives in. But the fans don't—the signor heads for the dressing room he is speeded on his way by a barrage of good Irish punches from Mickey's supporters.

Next week Signor Angelo comes back and this time it will be Scotland's turn as Rob Roy tangles with him. If this brawny Highlander can take the signor, we'll get a pipe band to play him to his dressing room.

Gridiron Governors May Put Limit In Import Stars

OTTAWA, Sept. 12.—All playing certificates of American players with Interprovincial Rugby Football union teams will be passed by the board of governors, and terms may be limited to use only two Americans on their squad, according to S. Dumoulin, of Hamilton, a governor of the Big Four, who passed through Ottawa Friday night.

Pioneer French settlers in the provinces of Nova Scotia and Quebec planted the first apple trees in Canada, more than 300 years ago.

Billiard Champ Dies At Chicago

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.— Augie Kiechkefer, 10 time holder of the world three-cushion billiard championship and for years one of the best-known players of the game, died Friday of a blood clot on the brain.

Kiechkefer, who was 47, last held the world three-rail title in 1932.

In 1928 he set a record which still stands—making 150 points in 125 innings.

PRO. CRICKET PLAYERS WIN MOST HONORS

Only One Amateur Is Given Mention As Averages Made

LONDON, Sept. 12.—Professional cricketers affiliated with English County Cricket clubs shared practically all honors, as bowling and batting averages were announced Friday, covering the campaign just closed.

Of the six leading trundlers and five top-notch batsmen, only amateur, 26-year-old Alan Melville of Sussex was mentioned. He is a batsman.

WON 200 WICKETS

Surrey's Alfred Gover became the third all-round bowler to take 200 wickets in a season since 1897, when Tom Richardson, also of Surrey, spread-eagled 290 opponents' wickets. E. A. McDonald of Lancashire topped 200 in 1925. Gover reached 200 in his last game.

Walter Hammond, great Gloucestershire batter, was again declared England's No. 1 batsman, with an average of 59.94, despite the fact he was kept out of team by illness during the early part of the season. Other leading batsmen were W. J. Edrich, qualifying for Middlesex with 55.00; L. B. Fishlock, Surrey, 53.22; Pat Hendren, Middlesex, 47.20. Melville had an average of 56.75, and Maurice Leyland, Yorkshire stalwart, 45.89.

SECOND TO LARWOOD

Hedley Verity, Yorkshire and England spin bowler, took wickets consistently all through the season and finished with 216 wickets at a cost of 13.16, coming second to Harold Larwood, Nottinghamshire star, who obtained 119 for an average of 12.67.

W. H. Copson, Derbyshire fast-medium trundler, followed with 160 for 13.34; W. E. Bowes, Yorkshire, got 123 for 13.40, and James Smith, Middlesex, 133 at a cost of 15.08.

Mayor Starts Drive

His Worship Mayor J. A. Clarke, K.C., is shown above giving the Edmonton Football Boosters Club a flying start in its drive to raise funds to give the city a senior gridiron club this season. He is giving Clarence Richards, chairman of the Boosters, a five dollar bill in return for a Booster membership ticket. These tickets will enable Edmonton to field a team that expects to be in finest grid team since the old Eskimos. They also admit the holders to all home games of the Edmonton club.

Starky to Compete For Jasper Park's Golf Honors Today

Long-Hitting Mayfair Golfer To Meet Bert Barnabe, Of Ottawa In Totem Pole Tournament At Jasper

JASPER PARK LODGE, Sept. 12.—Jack Starky, the long hitting Mayfair Golf Club player from Edmonton, will have a chance here Saturday to have the honor of having his name carved on the Totem Pole golf trophy for the second time. To do this, however, he will have to brush aside little Bert Barnabe, Rivermeade Golf Club's star, Ottawa, and to do this appears to be a mere final Saturday will be over the 36 hole route. In the semi-final matches today Starky defeated Lionel Morrsion, Calgary, 3-2, and Barnabe defeated Bill Scharfe, Vancouver, 4-3.

In the ladies' championship play-o-ff Friday morning, Mrs. Irma Moyer of Edmonton, captured the final honors by defeating Mrs. S. P. Powell, Vancouver, 4-2 in a very well-played match. Mrs. E. C. Perry, Edmonton, won the first flight by defeating Mrs. Charlie Barber, Chilliwack, 6-5; Miss J. Havens, Chicago, won the second flight from Mrs. M. McCreery, Vancouver, 2-1; Mrs. L. A. Walsh, Calgary, won the third flight from Mrs. C. V. Dacre, Edmonton, 3-2; Mrs. J. D. Laurie, Victoria, won the fourth flight from Mrs. A. H. N. Kennedy, Macleod, 3-3, and Mrs. A. Nash, Edmonton, won the fifth flight from Mrs. Austin Hooper, Fort Wayne, Ind., 4-3.

GREAT EAGLE THREE

Starky and Morrison started off with a half. Starky got a fine break on the second, when he ran through a trap to reach the green with his second and he then sunk his putt for a valuable eagle three.

Starky went two up at the third with a par, when Morrison got into trouble with his tee shot in the woods. They halved the next three holes in par. Morrison got a hole back on the short seventh, when Starky's drive caught the ditch. Starky won the eighth and the ninth to make the turn three up. Morrison played the ninth badly and found plenty of trap trouble.

Starky got a par on the long tenth when Morrison was caught in a trap, and they halved the eleventh. The short twelfth was a win for Starky to place him 5 up. The long 13th was a hall to bring the match dormie. Morrison then turned on the steam to take advantage of Starky's faults to win the 14th and 15th, the latter after a magnificent blast from the trap to four inches from the pin. They halved the 16th in par, which ended the match.

Paul Runyan, Little Share In Spotlight

Billed To Duel Alone Today On St. Andrew Course

By ELMER DULMAGE

TORONTO, Sept. 12.—A great struggle over St. Andrew's course for the Canadian open golf championship, with dapper Paul Runyan of White Plains, N.Y., in the thick of the fight with burly Lawson Little, abdicated monarch of the amateurs.

So far as the naked eye can discern, Runyan and Little are billed to duel alone over 36 holes today with only a few others placed so they can take advantage of even a major lapses by the former professional champion of the United States and the giant Little.

COURSE RECORD

These two scorched St. Andrew's Friday from end to end. Little, reaching the halfway mark with 67-66—133, one of the lowest scores ever recorded in the first half of the tournament. The 66, four under par, was a course record.

But less than two hours later Runyan came through with a dramatic 65 to take over second place with a 137 tally. The Beau Brummell from White Plains, one of golf's greatest iron players, conquered the par 70 layout with his light artillery.

Even par, but still seven strokes behind the pacemaker, Jack Littler of Ottawa and Tony Manero of Greenwich, Conn., United States open champion, were tied for third position. As golf goes they were perfect — and that wasn't nearly good enough.

HAVE SMALL CHANCE

Podgy Al Watrous of Birmingham, Mich., champion 14 years ago, was fifth with 71-70—141 and looked beyond that figure appeared to have small chance of overhauling the 26-year-old Little.

Candidates with 36-hole scores of 151 or better qualified for today's final rounds, leaving 65 in the tournament.

Little played one of the best rounds of his career, driving with tremendous power to make the long holes all two-shotters. What really counted was the San Francisican's ability to direct the long irons and ely and make full use of his length off the tee.

Several others, notably Jimmy Thomson of Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa., and Victor Ghezzi of Deal, N.J., matched Lawson's might with the woods, but both these hitters fumbled elsewhere. Thomson, who scored 68 Thursday, came back with 75 for a 143 total and Ghezzi carded 72-72—144.

GRANT GIVES PERRY FIGHT BUT BEATEN

Pint-Sized Net Rebel Does Well: Finals Set For Today

BY BOB CAVAGNARO

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 12.—Bryan "Bitsy" Grant, Jr., the pint-sized tennis rebel, almost caught Fred Perry off guard Friday, but finally lost to the great Englishman, who gained the final of the United States singles tennis championship against California's Don Budge, while Helen Jacobs fought her way to her fifth straight final and Alice Marble her crown against Alice Marble today.

A crowd of 7,000 was pulling for an upset similar to the one Bitsy cracked three years ago, when he beat the defending champion, Ellsworth Vines, almost groaned its disappointment as the scrappy southerner went down to 6-4, 3-6, 7-5, 6-2 defeat.

PERRY JUST LOAFED

Perry, apparently in the mood for anything but a tennis match, loafed through the first three sets and finally went to work in the fourth, although at no time was he really going under a full head of steam.

Budge, showing at his best form since he returned from England last month, disposed of Frank Parker, of Spring Lake, N. J., 6-4, 6-3, 6-3. The Californian, after the first set, took things as easily as possible in order to be in tip-top shape for today's final.

JACOBS DID WELL

Miss Jacobs had the dislocated thumb on her right hand tightly bandaged, but it didn't seem to give her any trouble as she turned in one of the finest performances of her career in vanquishing the formidable British southpaw Kay Stammers, in straight sets, 6-4, 6-3 likely Miss Jacobs will fail in her 6-3. On her showing it seems definite ambition to become the first player to win the championship five straight times.

The titleholder's next adversary, Miss Marble of San Francisco gained the championship round by a 6-1, 6-1 walk-over victory over Helen Pedersen of Stamford, Conn.

Public School Sports News

The annual meeting of the athletic association was held this week and plans made for sports in the elementary and intermediate schools. League rules with regard to weight and age limits will be rearranged by committees in charge of the various branches of athletics. Major Kennedy, Supervisor of Physical Education, is looking forward to a big year.

Each school will hold a field day this fall, in which champions in the track events will be crowned. Following this, a district field day will be held, weather permitting, and at the discretion of the executive.

In the meantime, house league in soccer and girls' basketball have been formed in most of the largest schools and playgrounds are being taxed to the fullest to service the eager numbers that crowd on the playing fields.

It is expected that the intermediate schools will retain soccer as their major fall sport, rugby being a little too strenuous for the nine boys whose frames are hardly rugged enough in the great majority of cases.

Major Kennedy and Coach Bill Tait have plans in mind for assisting athletic coaches for the training of the boys and girls for school field days. It's the training that makes the records—so come on you Jesse Owenses and Stella Walshes!

Gracie's Sickness Maroon Problem

TORONTO, Sept. 12.—Manager Tommy Gorman of Montreal Maroons conferred here with Bob Gracie, as to whether the speedy centre's health would permit him to line up with the National Hockey League team next winter. The former North Bay, Ont., boy has not been in good health this summer and Gorman said it was impossible to say whether the player would be available for duty at the start of the season.

Angelo Shows Crude Tactics in Winning Two of Three Falls

Rousing Battle Brings Fans To Their Feet As Fascist Campaigner Revcals Self As Wild and Rough Grappler—Roy Wins

By JOFERE DECHENE

With an outburst of wrath that reached a frothy climax in the deciding fall, Senor Martino Angelo made his initial bow before an Edmonton audience a resounding splash by taking a two out of three falls verdict over Mickey McGuire in the main event of Mike Cutcher's pro wrestling card at the Memorial hall last night.

Alternatively scornful and bold, then meek and scared, the barrel-chested Italian went through all the trials of an Ethiopian campaign. He ended it by stealing some of Man Mountain Dean's thunder, repeatedly jumping in the air and landing flush on the quistretched form of McGuire.

FOR ALL TASTES

The card was the first of a series to be held at the Memorial hall bowl and featured wrestling for all tastes clean and fast in the preliminary and the semi-windup, rough and thrill-packed in the final event.

In the opening bout Tex Hager took only five minutes to pin Ed Bours with an airplane spin after he had weakened him with a series of hammerlocks.

Rob Roy, namesake of Scott's Highland stalwart, took a decision from Art Belcher in the semi-windup but only after a heated argument.

Billed as the feature event, the final bout was a rousing finish.

Angelo was all that advance notices had made him. He strolled into the ring as lordly as Tarzan in the jungles, nut-brown and burly beneath the glow of the lights.

From the first few minutes of wrestling it became evident that Angelo would fill with honor the spot left vacant by the Kozeks and the Meyers that have come and gone.

MICKEY REBELS

But the Italian bruiser had picked the wrong man as a target for his underhand tactics. McGuire's Irish blood soon rebelled. Before the bout had gone many minutes he took it upon himself to give the Italian a lesson. Inside of ten minutes he had him groggy and sprawled upon the mat asking for a body press and he got it. Mickey slammed him around the ring, sent him flying and scurrying across the ring and under the ropes.

Coming out of his corner for the second fall Angelo had fury in his eyes. He overran after McGuire with a vengeance, clamping hammerlocks repeatedly on McGuire and then seeking the refuge of neutral ground when in danger. He soon

HEARTS CLASH AGAINST CIVICS

The Hearts will play Civics in the last scheduled game of the "Charity Shield" competition between these two teams this season, on Sunday afternoon.

This game should produce some good football, as the Civics have just captured the Alberta championship, while the Hearts have defeated the Callies in both of their scheduled fixtures in this competition.

Hearts will field one of their strongest lineups this season. The game is scheduled to get under way at 2:30 sharp.

The following Hearts' players are requested to be at the Leland hotel not later than 1:45 p.m.: Greenlees, Neale, Hislop, McPhie, C. Smith, Whitely, Williams, Shaw, McGilp, Denim, Mochuk, Funnell and Collier.

St. Paul Saints Defeat Millers

ST. PAUL, Sept. 12.—Ira Hutchinson pitched and batted the Saints to their first victory in the American Association playoffs as St. Paul defeated Indianapolis 6-5 in 11 innings.

The teams now go to Indianapolis to conclude the best four out of seven series there.

Feature Women's Golf

Three of Canada's premier women golfers, each of whom could carry away the 1936 championship without stirring a ripple of surprise, will match shots in the big tournament. They are Mrs. F. J. Mulqueen, left, Miss Ada Mackenzie, right, and Miss Marjorie Kirkham, inset.

B.C. GRID LOOP IS RE-ORGANIZED

VANCOUVER, Sept. 12.—British Columbia's Big Four Football League, for the past two years a four-team circuit in name only, will be back at full strength when the opening whistle blows Sept. 26, with the University of B.C.'s varsity squad returned to the fold after two disastrous years of American football.

In 1934 Varsity decided to "split with the Big Four and play the American game with Washington State colleges, but because they didn't win a single game and because the gates were so poor, they decided this year to return to the Big Four along with Meralomas, last year's champions, Vancouver Athletic Club and North Shore.

Meralomas, league champions last year, have most of their members back again.

Canada's Nemisis In Olympic Hockey Sails For England

MONTREAL, Sept. 12.—Nemisis of Canada's Olympic hockey team in the winter games last year, Goaltender Jimmy Foster, formerly of Winnipeg, sailed back to England aboard the liner Ascania, Friday, after a summer vacation in the dominion. As goalkeeper for the English Olympic team Foster played a large part in that team's defeat of the Canadians, which spoiled Canada's chances of defending the world hockey title.

Foster said he would play this season with the Harringay team, just outside of London. Four other Canadians will be on the team, Frank Currie of Montreal, Duke Campbell of Winnipeg, Earl Nicholson of Regina, and Chirp Bentchley of Niagara Falls, Ont.

BEATS WINNIPEGGER

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—Leo Rodak of Chicago knocked out Frankie Wolfram of Winnipeg in two minutes of the second round of their scheduled 10-round bout at White City arena Friday night.

had McGuire's arm limp with repeated punishment and he was awarded the fall with an armbreaker.

In the third heat fans were served with scene sunsurpassed for wild and fast action. Both grapplers took turns in being knocked out of the ring and on to the floor. McGuire started the session at lightning speed. He pommelled the Fascist all around the ring, tied him up in the ropes and was all set to take him apart and see what made him go.

TIDE REVERSED

But there came a hitch and the tide was reversed. Soon Angelo took the upper hand and when he had McGuire groggy and helpless he pulled his man mountain stunt, jumping and landing squarely on Mickey while fans roared boisterous disapproval. He got the fall.

The semi-windup event featured none of the headliner's rough and wild sessions, but it gave fans a fast and clean exhibition of the mat art.

Belcher scored the first fall after a short session, in which he had command at every moment. He took the fall with a surf-board.

Roy took the two last falls with toe holds after a couple of heats chock full of intricate holds, smart recoveries and fast action.

With his victory Roy earned a bout with Martino Angelo in the main event of the next card Friday next.

Hi-Grads Practice

All players and prospective players of the Hi-Grads senior football squad are requested to standby for a practice session Sunday morning. Players will meet at the York hotel at 6:30 o'clock. All are asked to be on hand.

WINNIPEGS MEET BIG GRID TEST

WINNIPEG, Sept. 12.—Winnipegs powerful champions of Canadian rugby, entrained for Regina Friday night to meet what they anticipate will be one of the greatest tests of the 1936 pre-playoff campaign. The Pegs meet Roughriders in a western conference fixture tomorrow.

The Regina-Winnipeg contest headlines the western sports program tomorrow but two other senior football games are scheduled. Saskatoon Hilltops invade Moose Jaw for a Senior Saskatchewan League fixture and Lethbridge travels to Calgary for an Alberta League game with Carl Cronin's Bronks.

Newark Captures Playoff Game

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 12.—Newark Bears got back into the international league semi-final playoffs Friday night by downing the pennant-winning Buffalo Bisons 2-0 in the third game of four-of-seven series behind Vito Tamulis' five-hit pitching.

ROCHESTER WINS

BALTIMORE Sept. 12. — Estil Crabtree's ninth inning homer gave Rochester Red Wings a 7-6 decision over Baltimore Orioles last night for their first win in the International league's semi-final playoffs. The victory left the Orioles with a 2-1 edge in the four-out-of-seven series to decide the team which will meet the winner of the Newark-Buffalo semi-final series for the Governor's cup and the right to represent the International league in the Little World's series.

Six Are Favored In Women's Golf

MONTREAL, Sept. 12—Canada's defence of its women's open golf title, recaptured four years ago after five successive seasons in the United States, rests in the hands of maybe five or six women. It was conceded Friday night only that number have a chance against the classy invasion from below the border.

Not since Marjory Kirkham, of Montreal, brought back the championship for Canada in 1932 has the United States challenge been so apolis, will rule as favorite and Monday over Royal Montreal. SOLID FOUNDATION

Quality and service have always been first in the company's work, with the result that customers always return. Upon this foundation the business has been built.

In spite of the depression of the last five years, the management has always kept faith in the province and its people as a whole.

The business has not been confined to car and radio batteries as Blais Brothers have built larger batteries for jobs exacting heavy service and great liability.

As the business of the company is mostly local, it has been contemplating changes for some time which would give the automotive trade a more complete service.

The company now occupies a new brick building, 50 x 75 feet, where batteries are manufactured and repaired. In the same building a general auto repair shop is operated in charge of M. J. Bliss, who has more than 15 years' experience in the automobile repair business, for the last five years being in charge of the machine shop of the Motor Car Supply Company.

GASOLINE STATION

A modern gasoline service station is part of the equipment, where 100 per cent Alberta gasoline can be purchased. This gasoline is equal to any that is on the market.

The most popular makes of tires and lubricating oils are also carried in large stock.

General ignition, generator and starter service is given on any make of car.

The company has been making distilled water for its own uses as well as general requirements. In its new premises it will be able to supply this product in quantity to drug stores, battery service stations and all other users.

Canal May Link New York, Montreal

OTTAWA, Sept. 12.—Feasibility of a deep-water route between the St. Lawrence and Hudson rivers, linking Montreal and New York harbors, is being studied by the international joint commission on instructions from the Canadian and United States governments.

An inspection of the Lake Champlain route will start Monday when members of the commission leave New York with their engineers and advisers. The full investigation will take months.

HOUSING ACT PROVIDES SET OF STANDARDS

Prospective Builders Must Meet Requirements To Get Assistance

"Just what kind of a home must I build in order to get help through the Dominion Housing Act in financing it?" a prospective Edmonton home-builder remarked recently, after reading about the recent action taken by the government to assist the average wage-earner in constructing a modern home at a reasonable initial outlay.

The federal minister of finance has approved of Minimum Standards of Construction for houses eligible to be financed under the Dominion Housing Act. Here are the general conditions governing the building of such homes.

WEIGHT RULE

1. All parts of building shall be designed and constructed to support safely their own weight and that portion of the live loads which they may carry. All buildings shall be adequately braced to resist lateral forces.

2. Exterior walls shall be set upon concrete or masonry foundations, either piers of continuous walls, extending to firm bearing surface below the frost line for the locality. Footings shall be proper area to assure uniform distribution of loading and to prevent excessive or unequal settlement of the building.

DRAINAGE

3. Floor construction resting directly on the ground shall be of concrete constructed to prevent the entrance of moisture. Adequate drainage shall be provided for all basement floors.

4. When no basement is provided, and wood or metal joists, beams or girders are used, the space between the ground and the floor system shall be adequately ventilated and sufficient space shall be provided for access for inspection and repairs.

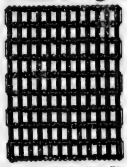

MOISTURE GUARDS

5. Exterior walls, roof, roofless, where such openings exposed to the weather, shall be constructed to prevent access of rain penetrating the building. Flashing and caulking shall be provided where necessary.

6. All exterior surfaces, which are subject to corrosion or damage from the weather, shall be adequately protected by painting or other treatment which will assure reasonable durability.

Presbytery Holds Sylvan Lake Meet

SYLVAN LAKE, Sept. 12—Fall meeting of the Red Deer presbytery was held at the Memorial Presbyterian church here. Rev. Hugh Jack, of Red Deer, moderator, presided and Rev. S. S. McCracken, of Willowdale, was presbytery clerk. A suggestion was made by the Sylvan Lake representatives that synod powers be enlarged and that a synodical missionary for Alberta be appointed.

Mr. Campbell, of Carstairs, gave an interesting report of the proceedings of the recent general assembly at Hamilton. Reports of Sunday schools and young people's work were presented by Mr. McCracken and Mr. McLean of Innisfail.

The Ladies' Aid of the church served a dinner at the home of Mrs. James Dingwall. Rev. Jack was re-elected moderator and Mr. Andrews, of Innisfail, was appointed clerk of the presbytery.

LEGION ENTERTAINED

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE, Sept. 12—Members of the local Legion, with their wives, spent a social afternoon at Prairie Creek, where they were entertained at the home of Lewis Major, one of their members. A cricket game was held between the town and country members.

Perryvale Gets New Postmaster

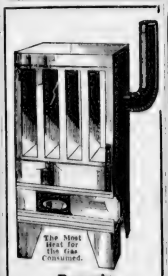

PERRYVALE, Sept. 12—T. Nesbitt, who has for many years been postmaster, has resigned and his successor to the store business W. Crossmell, has received the appointment. Miss Nesbitt Lewis is assistant.

Threshing is in full swing, but the yields are light. This district suffered from several weeks of drought, and consequently the yield is much below the average.

Miss Camp, superintendent of the Sunday School by Post, was a visitor in the district during the past week, and paid visits to the homes of the scholars of the Sunday School here.

PHOTOS DIRECT FROM THE CRIMSON SPANISH FRONT

Striped of arms and insignia, a captured rebel officer (second from right) is marched through the streets of Madrid attended by his triumphant captors, one of whom wears his steel helmet.

A motley force of civilian militia and trained infantry, these Spanish loyal troops march blithely to battle in the Guadarrama mountains where rebels now claim smashing victories.

Surrounded by cheering throngs, who raise hands in the clenched-fist radical salute, a bus swarming with troops inside and out leaves Madrid to fight for the Popular Front Government.

PADDY DRAPER AGAIN HEADS LABOR GROUP

Edmonton Delegate Wins Trip To Great Britain

MONTREAL, Sept. 12.—With some 35 years of service as a trade union official behind him, P. M. Draper of Ottawa, was today called to serve another year as president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

Mr. Draper became president a year ago after long years as secretary-treasurer and the 52nd annual convention of the congress re-elected him unanimously along with all the rest of last year's executive.

BALLOT NEEDED

R. J. Tallon, secretary-treasurer, was re-elected unanimously but the three vice presidents, James Simpson of Toronto; Percy Bengough of Vancouver, and D. W. Morrison of Glace Bay, N.S., had to stand a ballot test before securing their seats.

Ottawa was selected as the place for the 1937 convention.

Carl Berg of Edmonton won the trip to Great Britain when he secured a majority of votes over James Sommerville, Montreal; Joe Tompkins, Toronto; Harry Davis, Prince Albert, and A. Bastien, Montreal.

FOR PROVINCES

Provincial executives elected included the following:

Ontario: Ed Walker, Toronto, chairman; Rod Plant, Ottawa; A. Barrow, Toronto, and J. R. Pattison, Fort William.

Manitoba: H. Dempster, chairman; W. B. Lowe and N. L. Preston, all of Winnipeg.

Saskatchewan: A. M. Eddy, Saskatoon, chairman; Harry Davies, Prince Albert; A. Moore, Moose Jaw; Regina Trades Council will select a fourth man.

British Columbia: E. A. Jamieson, chairman; F. Griffin, F. Pearson and G. Herbert, all of Vancouver.

Seek Pensions At 60 Years

MONTREAL, Sept. 12.—Reduction in the age for old age pensions from 70 to 60 years was favored in a resolution passed by the annual convention of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada today while at the same time a motion favoring retirement of congress officers at 60 and 65 was rejected.

Dissension of United States Labor's "industrial organization" dispute was ruled out of order and 13 resolutions, all favorable to industrial organization, were wiped off the order paper.

AFRICA HITS LAND CESSION

CAPETOWN, Sept. 12 — The Union of South Africa will oppose any cession of territory to Germany, it was generally asserted today in press comments on Chancellor Hitler's proclamation at Nuremberg in which he stressed the need for colonies.

The Cape Times said: "Almost every leader of the Union government has from time to time stated clearly during the past three years that South Africa cannot consider the retrocession of either southwest Africa or Tanganyika."

The Johannesburg Mail said "The South African Union is undoubtedly against handing back mandates. It is, however, none the less true that the issue will finally be settled not on the very narrow platform of South African policy, but on the wider platform of world policy."

Young Woman Ends Life In Niagara

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. Sept. 12 — A young woman jumped into the Niagara River late yesterday and was swept over the American Falls.

Patrolman Leo Barkus said witnesses told him the woman, a blonde, about 25 year old, mounted the rail of Goat Isle bridge and plunged into the 25-mile current about 200 yards from the brink.

Sabotage Hinted In Cruiser Fire

NEW YORK, Sept. 12—An inquiry board at the Brooklyn navy yard today hunted evidence of sabotage in a small fire on the U.S.S. Indianapolis last Aug. 25, which one official described as "undoubtedly deliberate."

The cruiser, which served President Roosevelt as a "floating White House" for several days in 1933, went to sea yesterday to test repairs made since June 10. She is scheduled to sail Tuesday to rejoin the United States fleet on the west coast.

Reduction of 50 per cent on duties of American automobiles imported into France, and quadruplication of the quota, were included in the reciprocal trade treaty recently concluded between the two countries

Fleeing Winnipeg Prisoner Caught

WINNIPEG, Sept. 12. — Winnipeg police have been notified by Toronto authorities that Wasyl Baluka, alias Walter Baluke, 23-year-old dental mechanic, who escaped from custody here Aug. 19, was arrested today. Baluka and Arthur Wurch, 33, alleged bank robber, were arrested on charges of breaking and entering and theft from a store in Brunkhild, Man. They were being brought from the Manitoba provincial jail at Headingly when they made their escape.

A new federal airport, only two minutes' ride from the centre of the city, is being constructed at Rio de Janeiro. It is designed to accommodate the huge planes now flying there from the United States.

Dead Man Leads In Police Election

TUCSON, Ariz., Sept. 12—A dead man, unopposed while living, was far ahead tonight of a field of 108 who sought his job as constable in Tuesday's primary.

Election officials today had counted 685 votes for Fred "Kid" Wilding, veteran officer and former owner of town's famous Silver Dollar saloon. His name was printed on the ballots before his death.

Hunter's Paradise

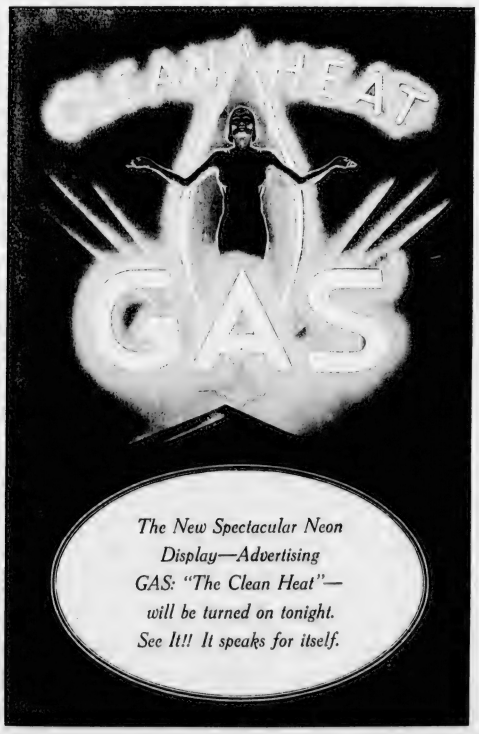

HONOLULU, Sept. 12—Hawaii has undertaken to make itself the American sportsman's paradise. Quail, peafowl, guinea hen and pheasant raising have been undertaken on a large scale to this end.

Theft Is Costly

CAZENOVIA, N.Y., Sept. 12. Andrew William Heahr, 23, Syracuse, is serving a six months term in Madison County jail for the theft of 10 cents from a poor box in St. James Catholic church.

SCENIC DRIVE IS NO DANGER TO RIVER BANK

A. J. Davidson Denies That Bank Crumbling as Result of Work Done

That the new scenic driveway from 82 street east to the Highlands will form one of the city's best beauty spots and that its building will not in any way endanger the river bank is the declaration of Alan J. Davidson, [illegible] of 5650 Ada boulevard, who has just made a complete inspection of the proposed road following reports that a petition was being circulated against the completion of the drive on which much work has already been done.

CRUMBLING PREVENTED

"I have gone over the new driveway and also up along the banks of Jasper avenue and I have come to the conclusion that the author of the petition does not know what he is talking about," said Mr. Davidson today. "As a matter of fact it would be a grand thing if some of the bank did crumble down, because the road is 100, 200 and in some places 300 feet away from the bank, but the whole of the bank, except where some cuts were made, is covered with a undergrowth which will effectually prevent any crumbling."

Mr. Davidson also contrasted the [illegible], the road built over the Grierson dump, which changed a civic eyesore into a beauty spot.

"I could not help contrasting the [illegible] driveway and that along the Grierson dump, where at the back ends of the buildings between 97 and 98 streets, south of Jasper avenue, are in some cases within four and five feet of the edge of the bank, and in other places practically below them. This bank has been in that condition to my certain knowledge since 19[illegible] when I came to the city and [illegible] to the property," he said.

ONLY ONE CRITICISM

[illegible] Highlands [illegible] voiced by Mr. Davidson.

"I saw fifteen men loosening up [illegible] with picks and shovels, [illegible] work in the whole day, even if they were working hard, as one breaker plow and a four-horse team could do in two hours," he said. "What is wanted there is teams and the men could then be used to advantage shovelling the dirt over the hill from the mouth of the scraper as it is dumped on the bank of the hill."

ALDERMEN COMMENDED

Commending those aldermen who have advocated the building of the [illegible] drive, [illegible] prove a perfect tourist attraction [illegible] who would not otherwise [illegible] of the river not the winding course followed by the Saskatchewan, Mr. Davidson [illegible] originated.

[illegible] asks for an independent [illegible] to go over the ground. I [illegible] engineer's department is not [illegible] the conclusion that the [illegible] of the petition must have [illegible] into the city engineer's department for some reason or other and is taking this way of venting his displeasure," said Mr. Davidson.

Tuberculosis Prevention Kinsmen Club's Main Contribution To Society

Methods Used Strike at the Root of Malady—Holds Spread of White Plague

In 1935 there were forty people in Edmonton alone who died of tuberculosis; in the province as a whole last year there were three hundred and twenty-nine people who succumbed to this infection. No sensitive Canadian can remain complacent while this great scourge of humanity continues to menace society, says medical men, commenting on official reports.

Realizing this fact the Kinsmen Club of this city, stirred by the [illegible] public service, is attempting to make the work of tubercular prevention its special responsibility. The organization realized that the great obstacle to the [illegible] the disease was the poverty of the people, compelling a man convalescing from the infection to [illegible] was physically able to do so.

It therefore tried to strike at the [illegible] the homes of all people still susceptible to tuberculosis.

NURSE AT WORK

A nurse whose work in tubercu[illegible] able repute in the medical profession, Miss C. Davidson, R.N., was appointed by the Kinsmen to supervise and conduct this follow-up service. Ever since November, 1926, she has been engaged in this work, making of it an occupation that often absorbs her evenings as well as working day. She has travelled [illegible] years while making her daily [illegible] homes a year, warning the convalescent patient of the perils of negligent conduct in discharging his sputum while he is still infected and teaching the other members of the household how to shield themselves against the disease.

This advice has been invaluable in curbing the spread of tuberculosis. It has practically made it impossible for people to blame their infection upon anything but their own carelessness, for sufficient warning and instruction have been given to them.

In Nova Scotia, in one particular locality, there was not a single home that did not have some one touched with the disease. In some cases slightly. No such catastrophe [illegible] cted through normal processes and curable by systematic treatment.

RECOVERY TAKES TIME

"One of the most common mis[illegible] the [illegible] he is [illegible] Nothing [illegible] truth. [illegible] employ a [illegible] thoroughly [illegible] are reserved [illegible] k per[illegible] the man[illegible] patient's [illegible]

If any medical necessities are lacking to indigent cases, the society acts in conjunction with civic and provincial authorities to see that all necessary drugs and treatment are obtained.

OPERATE BOY'S CAMP

In addition, the Kinsmen club operates a boy's camp each year. [illegible] may be able to build up sufficient resistance to tubercular infection throughout the dangerous winter months. Unfortunately, shrinkage of revenue has compelled the club [illegible] in order to concentrate on its follow-up services.

The work of the Kinsmen club is merely symptomatic of the widespread interest now being displayed in this province in connection with tuberculosis prevention. Alberta now has twelve clinics operating at scattered points throughout the province, and the provincial government has made arrangements to have two additional medical officers visit localities beyond the area served by the clinics. In this way every suspect case will receive careful inspection and care, with the cost being borne by the government.

DEATH TOLL SUMMARY

The following table, which summarizes the death toll in Alberta from tuberculosis in a recent year, will indicate the dangerous periods at which the disease is usually contracted.

Up to five years of age	53
From five to nine years	23
From ten to fourteen	25
From fifteen to nineteen	41
From twenty to twenty-four	26
From twenty-five to twenty-nine	23
From thirty to thirty-four	20
From thirty-four to forty	13

It appears that after the age of forty is reached, people develop a greater immunity to tuberculosis and the death rate begins to taper off rapidly.

ENCOURAGING FEATURE

One of the most encouraging features of the provincial government's war upon the disease is its declared intention to submit every Indian child in Alberta to a rigorous and periodic examination in order to reduce the spread of tuberculosis among a population notoriously susceptible to it.

Medicine is attacking with skill and perseverence one of the most dreaded foes of human life. Canadian citizens should assist all they can, by observing proper rules of health, in crowning their noble efforts with success.

MAJOR AND MINOR NOTES

By John Oliver

During the week, this writer was reading an article, written in 1911—just think of that—by Deems Taylor, noted composer, music critic and commentator. The article in question—remember it was written in 1911—was reviewing the musical season in New York.

Mr. Taylor was dealing with the season's productions and lamented the fact that "there will never be another 'Merry Widow' and 'Chocolate Soldier'" which statement in itself proves he was a very good prophet.

He then proceeds to recall that three years before, there had been produced in New York—that would be in 1908—the Viennese operetta, "A Waltz Dream" in which a young tenor with a wonderful voice, named Edward Johnson had sung the leading role. Mr. Taylor then proceeds to wonder where Mr. Johnson was—in 1911—and comes to the conclusion that New York managers didn't know a [illegible] when they heard one, or else didn't want to hear one and had let Mr. Johnson slip away to unknown parts.

In view of the subsequent developments, Mr. Taylor's article of 1911 is of some interest, especially in view of the fact that Mr. Johnson has sung here and considering the eminent position he now occupies.

From being a young choir singer in Guelph, Ont., Mr. Johnson had proceeded to New York to try his luck with the best in the world. "The Merry Widow" had swept the world and the next successful Viennese operetta to arrive in New York was "A Waltz Dream."

Perhaps New York managers showed more perspicacity than Deems Taylor gave them credit for, as Mr. Johnson was engaged to sing the langorous waltzes provided by Oscar Straus for "A Waltz Dream." And a handsome hero he made, becoming a matinee idol along Broadway. With the funds provided by his success in light opera Mr. Johnson hied himself to Italy, where as Edouardo Giovanni he became famous in the land of song and was there in 1911 when Mr. Taylor so ruefully wondered where he was.

At that time Mr. Taylor himself, a young composer, was seeking to catch up on Victor Herbert and Karl Hoschna in writing light operas. He never did catch up. But he later took to writing grand operas. In the meantime Mr. Johnson returned from Italy—in 1920—and became Edward Johnson again and has remained at the Metropolitan Opera ever since.

Later Mr. Taylor composed two grand operas which had their initial presentations at the Metropolitan, "The King's Henchman" and "Peter Ibbotson." It is of more than passing interest to recall that in both these works Mr. Johnson was selected to create the leading tenor roles—possibly as a result of the early and highly favorable impression made on the composer.

Now Mr. Johnson only rarely sings—his golden tenor notes floating over the vast Met auditorium only occasionally. But he is ensconced as general manager of the great operatic enterprise, the first Canadian to occupy the post, considered one of the most prized in the entire musical world.

No doubt both Mr. Taylor and Mr. Johnson often recall those days when as the dashing, flirtatious Lt. Niki, Mr. Johnson sang the lovely songs that charmed the little violinist - heroine of "A Waltz Dream," Franzl, who broke her beloved violin to bits when Niki forsook her.—J.O.

RICH BELT OF GOLD ORE LIES AT YELLOWKNIFE

Spectacular Discoveries Indicate Valuable Deposits Of Great Magnitude

Spectacular gold discoveries which have occurred in the Yellowknife gold properties indicate that a belt of valuable ore deposits lies along Yellowknife Bay and river and extends in a northerly direction for about twenty-five miles. The width of the zone in which mineralized veins occur varies somewhat, but it is computed to be three or four miles wide for the major portion of the deposit.

A heartening feature of the property is that it is close to timber and water power so essential to mine development. The area is fairly well covered with spruce and birch, partly burned, which will supply the timber requirements for the mining undertakings which are now proceeding. In addition, the ore bodies are comparatively near the shore line of Yellowknife Bay and Yellowknife River, and this waterway will supply the means of transportation to most of the companies in active operation.

PRELIMINARY WORK

So favorable are the results obtained from working this deposit thus far, that two well known mining companies of Canada have trenched and done preliminary development work on a property some sixty miles from Yellowknife giving high assays and greater width of ore body. It is believed by some people that this entire region contains high grade lenticular ore deposits that will well merit thorough exploration.

It will be necessary for the companies to install their own power plants, however, using oil or wood fuel, before the development of the various mining projects can reach their maximum of efficiency.

As yet it is too early to anticipate where a permanent townsite could be established to serve the many companies who propose development in this area. At present the camp of the Burwash Yellowknife Mines Limited is centrally located and it has assumed the responsibility of distributing, without charge, all the parcels, freight and letters for the surrounding district.

It appears to be evident that the steady development at Yellowknife is rapidly transforming that property from a single holding to the nucleus for a genuine mining community. The great force retarding this development at present is the lack of wharfage and aeroplane space to accommodate the increasing business which will occur.

It is as yet impossible to state where the greatest deposits occur. Some people have believed that the western side of Yellowknife contains more valuable ores because several mining companies have concentrated on development at that point. But this intensive work at this spot has been caused by the greater number of islands which occur on the western shore line of Yellowknife Bay, and not by any manifest superiority for big mine development.

Yellowknife is steadily becoming one of the strategic mining spots of Alberta's mineral north. If it sustains the promise of its present output, it should soon become the focus for still more energetic exploration over an extended area.

Woman Has Police At Bay Five Hours

CHICAGO, Sept. 12—Tiny Mrs. Mae Durbin, 40, aided by her whelping Pekinese dog, held her third floor apartment for five hours yesterday against a police siege of axes and tear gas before surrendering on a charge of automobile larceny.

A large crowd looked on as the five-foot woman who weighs less than 100 pounds perched in a bathroom window, her last place of refuge, shouting defiance while officers shot tear gas through a small crack in the door.

As the Pekinese snapped at their heels, the officers smashed the door and took the woman, still battling, from her perch.

Musical Season Under Way

Young Students Pass Exam. Tests

The following pupils of Miss Mabel Jackson passed very successfully in the recent Toronto Conservatory examinations:

Grade I—Theory: Betty Jackson, first-class honors; June Smith, first-class honors; Eileen Hibbert, honors.

Grade III.—Piano: Dorothy Husband, honors.

Grade V—Piano: Eileen Hibbert, honors; June Smith, pass.

Grade VII—Piano: Betty Jackson, pass.

Girls of Assam do all the proposing. After the marriage, the husband must live with his wife's people.

ELYSIAN CHOIR STARTS SEASON

The first meeting of Elysian Ladies' choir this season was held on Tuesday, Sept. 8. The following officers were elected for the coming season:

Honorary President—Mrs. D. W. Vaughan.
President—Mrs. H. H. Crawford.
Vice-Pres.—Miss E. C. Smiles.
Sec.-Treas.—Mrs. R. C. Walton.
Librarian—Mrs. I. M. Bedford.
Social Convener—Mrs. W. Peet.
Press Reporter—Miss Doris Tingle.

A vote of thanks was given the past executive for their most efficient work during the past season.

The choir once again looks forward to a most successful season under the leadership of D. W. Vaughan.

FAMOUS SOPRANO TO SING AGAIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—Amelita Galli-Curci has won her great gamble.

She's going to sing again.

A year ago the golden voice of the renowned coloratura soprano was stilled by an operation to remove goitre. Her friends feared it might never again thrill music lovers. They termed the surgery her greatest gamble.

But last night, Manager Paul Longone announced she had recovered and agreed to appear with the Chicago City Opera company.

Her "new" career will begin Nov. 17—20 years, almost to the day, after her sensational debut at the Auditorium theatre here.

ORPHEUS CHORUS STARTS PRACTICE

The Orpheus Male chorus hold their first rehearsal Monday, Sept. 14, at 8 p.m.; a very active season is anticipated. Anyone wishing to become a member kindly communicate with D. W. Vaughan, conductor.

Italy Is Forming Ethiopian Army

LONDON, Sept. 12.—Miss Freda Collier, sister and secretary to the former governor of the Bank of Ethiopia, said in an interview here today Italy is forming a great army in Ethiopia and selecting native boys from eight to 15 years old for a national youth organization.

Miss Collier said ambushes were taking place daily throughout the country and that 2,000 Italian regulars were guarding the Addis Ababa-Djibouti railway from attack.

"Model Pupil in Harmony"
By Avenir Nizoff
is now ready and on sale.
From the preface to the book:—
"The chief characteristics of this work may be summed up as follows:
1. Topics and exercises are arranged in a progressive order of difficulty.
2. Theory is presented in a terse synoptic form, thus eliminating lengthy pages of discussion which often confuse the pupil.
3. Plentiful and interesting exercises are given.
4. Prominence is given to exercises with unfigured bass which so many text-books wrongly neglect.
5. Reading exercises are given to train the pupil out of "tongue-tiedness," which is a familiar drawback both in oral and written work.
6. Material is provided in the exercises to meet the needs of both average and superior pupils."

Results obtained by pupils of Avenir Nizoff in examinations conducted by the Toronto Conservatory of Music:—
1934, June: History V—Gordon Price, first class honors, the highest in Edmonton.
Form V—Edith Payne, first class honors, the highest in Edmonton.
1935, February: Teacher's written Examination — Edith Payne, first class honors, the only one in the city.
History V—Iris Docherty, first class honors, the highest in the city.
June: Harmony V—Gordon Price, first class honors, the highest in the city.
1936, February: Counterpoint V and Form V—Gordon Price first class honors, the highest in the city.
June: Teacher's written Examination—Gordon Price, honors, the highest in the city.
Counterpoint V—Iris Docherty, first class honors, the highest in the city.
Harmony III and History III—Talma Kovnats, first class honors, the highest in the city.
Harmony III—Kathleen Gould, first class honors, the highest in the city.

Gordon Price, A.T.C.M., First Class Honors Certificates in Theory with only one mark below 90. A composer of high attainments and a pianist of distinction.

Edith Payne, A.T.C.M., concert pianist whose public recital last April was a notable musical event, and a revelation of what can be done with a very small hand.

"Mathematics and Music," by Avenir Nizoff, is to be published shortly.

ACTIVITIES OF ALBERTA YOUNG PEOPLE

NEWS AND PASTIMES — Edited by Evelyn Buxton — CLUBS AND SCHOOL

Who's Who Is Problem At Normal

Getting acquainted is the serious problem at the Edmonton Normal School these days where 130 students have gathered from all parts of northern Alberta to study for first class certificates in teaching. Hardly a soul is familiar with anyone else, and the difficulties of the situation are increased by the lack of an introduction committee which usually exists in a university or similar institution.

PLAN PICNIC

However the students themselves plan to quickly overcome any such barriers to friendship and have just plans for a picnic to be held at the South Side Athletic grounds next Wednesday. A concerted attempt will be made to keep the students circulating, and "mixer" games will be favored for the day. Briefe formal methods of introduction, students will become acquainted by means of badges worn, which bear their names.

OFFICERS TO BE ELECTED

Within the next few weeks, a member of the staff will be appointed to act as receiving officer for nominations to positions on the student union executive. The formation of the executive is the first step in the organization of activities such as dramatics, orchestra and clubs.

SPORTS HAVE PLACE

In the process of becoming acquainted sports are proving to be a great help, for every student is required to participate in softball and later in the season basketball will claim the interests of all.

Lectures have not yet begun in earnest as preliminary tests had to be given the past week, but classes will commence the term's work on Monday.

OSCAR LAMOUREUX RETIRES AFTER 20 YEARS IN SCOUTS

FORT SASKATCHEWAN, Sept. 12—A boy scout leader for more than 20 years, Oscar Lamoureux of Fort Saskatchewan recently retired from active service in the organization, and was the guest of honor at a gathering of townspeople in the Memorial hall this week. In appreciation of the long service which he has rendered, and the many boys he has helped, he was presented with a "thanks" badge by T. G. Montgomery, and a gift of Honor, presented at the hands of Ed. Roberts. Mr. Lamoureux expressed his thanks for the kind sentiments voiced by the boys.

Mayor A. H. Rogers presided during the evening and D. Roberts a member of the committee which planned the reception, told of Scoutmaster Lamoureux's long experience and history in the Scouting movement, of his approach to 50th by the 250 boys with whom he has had to deal.

T. Jones, provincial secretary of Boy Scouts, was present for the evening and gave a brief address on the creation of parents to the organization. He was introduced by Rev. L. D. Batchelor. Songs and drills were presented by the Girl Guides, Boy Scouts, and Brownies. A dance, arranged by the Old Scouts, followed the program, and music was supplied by the "Rainbow" orchestra.

MORE ABOUT CREDIT POLICY CONTINUED FROM PAGE FOUR

tem and the flow of credit within the social credit system have been classified successfully i.e. this Douglas-Gresham law has been circumvented and that the two systems continue side by side.

5. That the Douglas idea of abolishing taxation for revenue purposes has been adopted so far as 50 per cent of the present provincial revenues are concerned PLUS the extra cost of operating the new system.

6. That the cost of the social credit civil service system amounts to 50 per cent of the present provincial revenues.

7. That the natural rate of increase in wealth production amounts to one half of one per cent a month, or six per cent a year.

Reducing these various assumed items to figures we have the following:

200 000 dividends at $5.00 per month	$12,000,000.00
One half of present provincial credit assumed by the new system	500,000.00
Cost of operating the credit system	250,000.00
Total of new credit issue each month	$12,000,000.00
Less the amount actually recovered at the estimated rate of ½ of 1% of $25,000,000	125,000.00
Amount of monthly inflation IF NOT RECOVERED BY LEVIES	$ 525,000.00
Amount to be recovered by levies if inflation or redundancy of credit is to be avoided	$ 525,000.00

Admittedly all the above are assumed figures. Perchance they are not even good guesses. But they will supply me with alternative estimates I shall be pleased to consider them carefully. But I am good thing to try to form some idea of whither we are going.

Having my conclusions based on the above estimates I should expect to find that the cost of operating the credit house will be TWICE AS MUCH AS THE NATURAL RATE OF INCREASE AVAILABLE FOR DIVIDENDS. Also that present dividends plus new costs of operation will be SIX TIMES AS MUCH AS THE NATURAL RATE OF INCREASE AVAILABLE FOR DIVIDENDS. Also that present dividends should exceed $5.00 per capita per month there would be called on to farm and factory produce in its sense of responsibility.

AS THE NATURAL RATE OF INCREASE AVAILABLE FOR DIVIDENDS.

In other words there can be no such possibility as all-round dividends of as little as $5.00 per month without either WILD INFLATION OR INCREASED TAXATION

If therefore Douglas theory were applied to the situation in Alberta the per capita monthly dividend would be about 10c sixteen cents per month. Or as far as I can see it would be about 32c thirty-two cents.

If Douglas theory were discarded and if Douglas practice were adopted there would be inflation and the full extent of the sums actually paid in dividends in excess of 16 cents. No levies to recover the excess issues would be imposed

If Aberhart theory and practice were adopted and if $5.00 per capita dividend were paid there would be monthly levies inside the Alberta Credit System amounting to over four and a half millions of dollars each month.

WHO WOULD PAY?

On whom would these levies ultimately fall? To me it is obvious they must fall on producers BUT NOT NECESSARILY AS AN ADDITION TO THE BURDENS THEY ARE NOW CARRYING. The producers are now paying—directly or indirectly—the full cost of the actual toll of interest and land-rent.

The public and private debts of Alberta are said to amount to as much as $800,000,000.00 with an annual average interest rate of not less than 6 per cent or $36,000,000.00 annually. Land-rent—a large item—interest bonds, mortgage and taxes—may be assumed to be comprehended within the general term "interest"

If therefore the Social Credit System would result in a general fall of interest rates to zero, the real result might well be that producers would continue to be burdened with the debts in the present system, but that the flow of unearned income would be diverted from those who now receive interest on their savings to those whose income forth would be the recipients of dole.

Producers would continue to be exploited by a new class of government created and befriended exploiters whose will to work would be thereby undermined. But if the dividends should exceed $5.00 per capita per month there would be called on to farm and factory produce in its sense of responsibility.

Gull Lake Retreat Draws Many Around Edmonton District

The important part that youth can play in the building of a new world order was stressed at the Labor Day week-end retreat held at McLaurin Beach, Gull Lake, under the auspices of the Edmonton Young People's board

The young people at the retreat heard splendid addresses by Don Cameron on the social and economic viewpoint of the theme "Christian Youth Building a New World," and Rev. H. S. Mekeel spoke on the moral and religious life. The importance of youth taking a wide view of existing world conditions as a means of helping them to formulate their own opinions was emphasized. The Rev. Winfield Race and Mrs. Race acted as host and hostess at the retreat. The Bell Thornton cup for sports went to Grant Ross' team.

An interesting feature was the camp fire in the Memorial hall when the First Presbyterian representatives put on a play "James of Galilee," which Agnes Brierley Albert Toller and Harold Shepard participated. Ella Hewston superintendent of the Young Peoples Board and Ruth Howard secretary. The retreat was arranged by Billy Jackson.

River Trip By Canoe Provides Thrills, Beauty

By KENNETH MALCOLM

White Mud Creek to Fort Saskatchewan by river—not a long trip, but long enough to make one realize the spirit that imbued the voyageurs of old. But these same voyageurs did not take sandwiches, fruit, corn-on-the-cob, or any of the other picnic luxuries at our disposal. Nor did they have a car waiting to carry them and their canoe homewards, to eliminate the hard upstream paddling.

There is nothing in this trip to fear in the way of swift current, rapids, or any of the other "big bad wolves" usually associated with rivers. While paddling with the current one often imagines the river to be an easy-moving lake, but this opinion is soon changed on buckling upstream. En route, thrilling rides over swift water in narrow channels add to the excitement of the trip.

The journey to "The Fort" is one of beauty and enchantment. Trees commencing to assume their autumnal brilliancy of red, green and yellow, harmonize into a striking, beautiful rainbow of color, outdoing the work of the great artists. Bleak, rugged cliffs rise from the river, forming a pleasing blend with the gaudy shrub fringe at their base. The result leaves one amazed at the splendor of nature.

Occuring as irregularly as calendar holidays, sandy islands push above the shallows and cause the water to rush foam-crested on either flank. "Pancake Island" in particular, seemingly the mecca for would-be campers, has long defied the rivers' force. Across many islands traces are still visible of old Indian fordings, where many a pioneer waded through to his new home.

Winding around the numerous bends of the river, twenty-four in all, again recalls the dangers that beset the early voyageurs. How easy it must have been for a band of Indians to hide around a turn, and pounce on the happy adventurer. But the modern canoeist glides over the tranquil water, unmindful of the stirring scenes that these shores have witnessed.

The old timers had one advantage over the present day boatmen. They wound their way blissfully ignorant of the remaining distance to be covered. But the ever-present "paddle-pusher" of today's query of "How far to the Fort" is exasperatingly answered. "You are about half way there", by every water enthusiast along the way.

From start to finish the course has its fascinations—the glamour of the past, the unique small islands, the pause for lunch, and above all the inspiring sight of the "Fort" bridge. In fair weather or high winds, mortgage and taxes—may be assumed to be comprehended within the general term "interest"

If therefore the Social Credit System would result in a general fall of interest rates to zero, the real result might well be that producers would continue to be burdened with the debts in the present system, but that the flow of unearned income would be diverted from those who now receive interest on their savings to those whose income forth would be the recipients of dole.

Producers would continue to be exploited by a new class of government created and befriended exploiters whose will to work would be thereby undermined. But if the dividends should exceed $5.00 per capita per month there would be called on to farm and factory produce in its sense of responsibility.

There's Nothing Snail-like About These Pupils On Flying Feet They Wend Their Way To School

Courtesy Good Housekeeping

HABITS have changed since Shakespeare, thinking of his own boyhood wrote of the school boy, "with his pail and shining morning face, creeping like snail, unwillingly to school."

Modern methods of teaching have done much to make study and lessons attractive, and the child no longer faces school with visions of a black-robed master with a Latin book in one hand and a huge birch rod in the other, awaiting him at the entrance. Instead of meaningless classics and foreign languages the child is now taught something within reach of his understanding,—something in which he can find a genuine interest.

Nor is the dullard of the class constantly being hauled to the front of the room to have his breeches dusted with the birch rod because he won't learn. O dear, no. Today, if a child can't or won't learn, the teachers decide there must be something wrong with him, so he has a lot of fun being sent around to special classes, and clinics and specialists and experts and psychologists (that dreadful word), and so on until everyone except himself, who is enjoying it all immensely, gives up in despair.

Yes, habits have changed. Notice transportation, for instance. In Shakespeare's day the school boy crept unwillingly to school, probably kicking up a great dust on the road as he dragged his reluctant feet along. Today that has completely changed. With a smiling teacher to greet the pupils, with work they like to do awaiting them, and best of all with modern inventions, such as roller skates and bicycles to lighten the journey, modern youngsters fly to where there is awaiting them "their pencils, books and teacher's smiling looks."

A bicycle is a great comfort for the first few days of school. But, of course, everyone can't have a bicycle—there simply would not be enough to go around, so others have to be content with roller skates. For pure enjoyment there is very little to choose between them, and roller skates have the advantage of being less dangerous. The little girl above is enjoying sunshine and the pavement speed by beneath her flying feet, even if she is a little timid about standing up alone.

However who really suffers most about this "back to school" business. Left alone all day, it's no wonder he begs to be taken along, and hangs around the gate to wistfully awaiting your return at four o'clock.

Y.P. Society Holds City Conference

Young People's Societies of the Edmonton Presbytery will meet in a three-day conference in First Presbyterian church from September 18 to 20, when delegates from Lloydminster, Vermilion, Bardsley and other points as well as representatives from all city organizations will gather for a series of social, worship and discussion groups.

MR. BURTON CHAIRMAN

General chairman for the conference will be Rev. R. J. Burton and others who will lecture and assist at the conference will be Rev. T. E. Boulston, Mr. Gordon Blunt, Rev. A. Walker, Rev. D. Ferguson, Rev. G. L. Collins, Miss Norma Cuthbertson, Mr. Donald Cameron, Rev. F. Roxburgh and Mr. Southen.

At a banquet in the church hall on Saturday evening, John Ferguson will be the guest speaker, Rev. F. Roxburgh, assisted by Rev. A. Walker will conduct the communion service in the church on Sunday morning, and Dr. A. R. Osborn will conduct a Sunday-morning session.

On Saturday afternoon Rev. G. L. Collins will speak on the place of the Young People's Society in the Presbyterian church, and election of officers in the central committee of the organization will take place following the address. Installation of officers will be conducted by Rev. William Simons on Sunday afternoon at 3:30. The conference will conclude with the Sunday evening service at which Rev. H. Mekeel and Rev. A. Walker will preside.

Milk Was Poisoned

MULTAN, India, Sept. 12—Hundreds of natives were ill today as the result of drinking milk from goats which had eaten poisonous herbs.

St. Faith's Pack Opens Autumn Season with Rally at Hollandale

The Second St. Faith's pack opened the fall season with a successful camp at the district campsite at Hollandale Beach, South Cooking lake over the Labor Day week-end. Sixers, Seconds and Thirds, twenty in all were the fortunate ones enjoying the camp. Favored with ideal weather which made swimming possible, the campers entered into all activities with enthusiasm.

Games of all kinds featured the Cubs and in competitions the groups under J. Ferguson and F. How waged a close battle for the honors. The sports events ended with the Reds holding the lead and winning the softball game and the field day while the Browns stayed in the running with a victory in the football game. Other competitive events included fire lighting, dodge-ball flag grading and the daily inspection of tents. Eventually the Red Six emerged winners of the camp competition with six wins to four for the Browns.

Saturday evening the camp enjoyed a marshmallow roast with the campers following a trail in search of the marshmallows which were finally discovered by Dick Davis. The Treasure Hunt the following day also saw Dick Davis finding the treasure to again carry off the prize. The campfire held indoors on account of a shower nonetheless proved a huge success with the new pack song "The American Railway" making a great hit and a thriller from Akela holding the audience interest for a half-hour.

A peanut hunt formed the last event just before the Cubs reluctantly returned home after one of the most successful of the summer camps staged by the Second Pack.

ROVER MOOT PLANNED

The 3rd Alberta Rover Moot was held over the Labor Day week-end at Calgary, and was attended by 16 members from Edmonton from the 1st and 6th Crews—D. B. Holloway, Stewart Cooper, Selwyn Cooper, Col. Palmer, W. S. Beckman, Ken Grey is carrying on as head of the board until the re-election of officers.

Plans were made for the next Moot to be held in or near Edmonton, arrangements to be made by the 6th Edmonton Crew. The 1st Crew have offered their hut at Black Mod as the centre for the training. Plans for the 1st Dominion Moot were also discussed This will no doubt be held at Winnipeg during the coming summer.

The average price of a pile rails set in 1830 was $96. in 1836 it was $48.50.

Prize Snapshot

The smart little picture of the bride and groom, shown above, was submitted by Lily Conrad, 9635 108 avenue. Lily didn't say, in her letter, who the subjects of the photograph were, but perhaps it's just as well, for after all, they will be growing up some day.

Lily's picture wins the dollar award this week for the best snapshot in the weekly contest.

SAYS WOLFE DIED OF TUBERCULOSIS

TORONTO, Sept. 12. — James Wolfe, hero of the plains of Abraham, died of tuberculosis rather than from battle wounds, Hon. Dr. J. A. Faulkner, Ontario, minister of health, told a service club today during an address on Ontario's fight against the disease. Wolfe braved the rigors of war rather than the horrors of his mother's pet remedy against tuberculosis, a potion of green garden snails and earthworms, said Dr. Faulkner. Ontario spends more than $3,000,000 annually in treating the disease, he said. More than $9,000,000 is invested in sanitaria in the province.

JUST A THOUGHT

Office-boy (nervously)? Please, sir, I think you're wanted on the phone.

Employer: You think! What's the good of thinking?

Office-boy: Well, sir, the voice at the other end said, "Hello, is that you, you old idiot?"

CITY CLUBS SWING INTO ACTIVITIES FOR FALL SEASON

With the resumption of fall activities in all fields of boy and girl work and many young people's organizations, Boy Scouts, Girl Guides, Canadian Girls in Training, Sea and Trail Rangers are all looking forward to another banner year in the forward march of Edmonton youth.

Edmonton Girl Guides will be particularly interested in the announcement of Canadian Girl Guide Week, to be held October 17 to 24. Arrangements are in the hands of Mrs. E. F. Decker provincial commissioner.

Scouts and Trail Rangers in Edmonton staff are united during the next two weeks by newly-appointed Provincial Boy Work Secretary Alton J. Cooper. Mr. Cooper will be busy from Calgary, where the boys' work office is located. He will speak at meetings of the Edmonton Boys' Work Board and will visit many of the boys' groups on their churches. He will probably address them on the growth and significance of the Trail Ranger movement.

On account of the retirement of Herbert Allen, president of the Edmonton Boys' Work Board for many years, a campaign to secure a head of the board until the re-election of officers.

Leaders of the 6th troop, Holy Trinity church, commenced their fall meetings this week under the capable leadership of Scoutmaster E. W. D. Wilson. The troop is looking forward to the ultimate acquisition of a troop camp site, and hopes to win some major scout trophies in the near future. Arthur Weedland is troop leader.

Girl Guides of the 4th company of All Saints' church will hold their first meeting of the season on Monday in the parish hall at 6:30 p.m. Old and new guides will be welcomed by the captain, Gwen Mudie.

Gilwell Scouts Get Kudu Horn

Alberta has now its permanent Gilwell training centre where scoutmasters from all over the province will come for their training. In recognition of this fact, the Dominion camp chief Sir John A. Sillesi has forwarded to W. S. Backman, the deputy camp chief for Alberta, the kudu horn. This horn which is said to equal by the chief scout, Lord Baden-Powell, is used for all formal occasions as an assembly call to scouts and scouters. The chief imports the horns from South Africa where they are collected from the wild kudus. This horn will play a great part in the building of the training centre which is situated on Sylvan Lake.

The leaders who attended the camp this summer and those who will attend the future years will recognize this spot as their "Old training centre." Seven hundred and fifteen leaders have already been trained in Alberta at different camps throughout the province and greater plans for the development of leadership training through the development of the movement are being made.

The following received Part II Gilwell certificates in Northern Alberta this summer: Gena Burke and J. Stonehocker, Cherry Grove; Rex H. G. Lester, Bonnyville; Lloyd Morris, St. Paul; R. Woolmer, 14th Edmonton Troop; H. L. Bennet' 19th E. G. Lester, Bonnyville, and Harold Moore, Holsbun.

A BEDTIME STORY

Story by HAL COCHRANE Pictures by GEORGE SCARBO

Wee Danny laughed both loud and long when he was told he did things wrong, and thus he said, "Well, lots, I guess I'd best not feed a hand."

"Of course I'd love to do my share, but I'll just watch, if you don't care. The rest of you can hitch the dogs. I'm sure you'll do it grand."

"You think you're smart," snapped Goldy. "Gee, the other Tinies will blame me for criticizing things you do. It just gives you a break."

"However, go ahead and rest, I'm sure, if I just do my best, that I can do your share and mine, and not long will it take."

* * *

And on five Tinies worked away until fair Dotty cried, "Hurray! The dogs are hitched and now we're ready for a dandy ride."

"The Eskimo, I think, should check our work, so we won't have a wreck. The dogs, I'll bet, will run away, if not correctly tied."

"Don't worry," said the Eskimo, "I already have checked, and know that everything is safe and sound. The sled is very strong."

"Both of the dogs are tame, and they well are trained to do just what I say. Unless you Tinies take a spill, there's nothing to go wrong."

"Now, hop aboard and we will see if there is room enough for me, for if so, I'll travel with you, and if not, I'll stay right here."

"Oh, please go," cried fair Goldy, "We are very fond of you, you see. You know this far northland, and it is nice to have you near."

By this time all the Tinies had sat down, and then the northland lad said, "Well, I'll run along behind, where I can steer the sled."

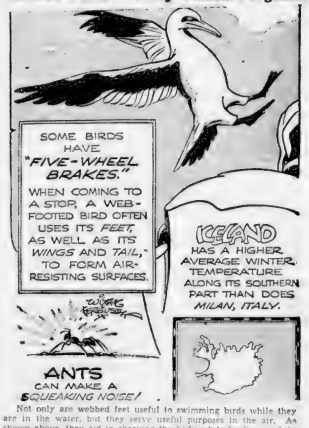

"When I get tired, I'll hop aboard." Then to the little dogs he reared. "Let's go!" And so, the Tinymites began to move ahead.

Curious World — —By William Ferguson

Not only are webbed feet useful to swimming birds while they are in the water, but they serve useful purposes in the air. As shown above, they aid in checking the body while landing, and, in the case of short-tailed birds are used as rudders, for steering the birds while in flight.

TRANS-PACIFIC FLIGHT

BEGIN HERE TODAY

KAY DUNN, pretty young nurse, applies for a job as stewardess on Overland Airways. In the Overland office she encounters TED GRAHAM, veteran pilot of Trans-Pacific Airways, and largely due to his intervention, she is accepted for a trial period.

Two other girls, DORIS LEE and ALICE MILLER, are accepted on the same basis.

Graham, who flies the Trans-Pacific route, goes to San Francisco and as he waves goodby Kay wonders when and where she will see him again.

The three girls begin their preliminary training. Doris is fitted to win a regular job. Alice surprises the other two by announcing her marriage to Chuck Jones, a pilot.

Kay learns she has been assigned to the western division and is to leave next day for the Pacific coast.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VI

KAY'S first run on the Overland Airways route was from Reno to San Francisco bay. The home port was Reno, in the pleasant green valley of the Washoe river — a veritable oasis in the midst of the Nevada desert. But Kay was lonely there, terribly alone.

Her early lessons in self-discipline served her well. She tried to organize her life around her job. During the day there was a four-hour run to the Oakland Airport and a four-hour return. Sometimes, when the shift changed, she spent the night on the bay. But in Reno, where most of her leisure hours were spent, she rented a little furnished apartment.

She did not meet Ted Graham, as she had so fondly hoped to do. She read about him in the newspapers and followed the routine of the trans-Pacific flight, day by day, eastbound, westbound.

She knew Ted's approximate position every day of the week—Honolulu, Midway, Guam, Manila. But on the days when he was in port, at Ship Harbor, he usually went to his ranch in the San Carlos valley to rest. Between such rest periods he was away from the home port for three weeks at a time. Kay had never been on the bay when his ship came in.

As the weeks passed she became increasingly absorbed in her work. She felt like a veteran now. At first she had missed the bustling activity of the Central Airport. At the flying field in Reno there were not nearly as many planes coming and going and the local passenger traffic was not heavy.

Kay usually drove out to the airport with the pilot who was taking the plane down to the Pacific. It was a long drive, leaving "The Biggest Little City in the World" behind and following a paved highway through green fields that had been salvaged from the desert. In the distance were the snow-capped peaks of the Sierra Nevada range.

The westbound plane appeared first as a tiny speck on the horizon. It always reminded Kay of her first trip by air through the vast spaces of the west.

But these vast spaces only increased her feeling of loneliness. She began to feel a nostalgia for the friends she had left behind, the scenes that had been familiar since her childhood. Kay needed the warmth of human sympathy. There were times when she would fling herself face down on her bed and lie there, very quiet, for hours at a time. One night she let the tears come, and sobbed out this feeling of loneliness and desertion.

Then she read in a newspaper that Ted Graham's ship was due in San Francisco bay the next day. Again, deep in her heart, Kay felt a kindling of hope. If she could only see him again!

The two-room apartment, with its chintz frimmings, seemed intolerably lonely. Kay got up, put on an evening frock, and flung a cloak over her arm. The night was cool, as were all nights at this altitude.

Her adventurous spirit was stirring. She took a taxi and rode to the Marlin Dude Ranch which she knew was a rendezvous for members of the air corps. If there were any aviation figures in town, she would find them here.

But, at first glance, Kay saw no one she knew. She sat down at the roulette table and bought some counters. She had no idea how the wheel operated, but she was game for anything tonight.

She lost one stack of chips and bought another. She was placing a counter on the red marker when a hand caught her elbow and eased it gently back.

"Play 10 green," a voice said and then she heard a gay laugh. Kay turned and saw a man standing behind her, a handsome youth of about 28. He had dark brown hair and blue eyes.

He had also, Kay noted, had several cocktails. She did not recognize him, but his face was tanned with the leathery sort of tan by which one comes to recognize a man as an inveterate flyer. Perhaps she had met him somewhere. There was no denying, either, that he had a gay, impudent smile that intrigued her.

She smiled, but played the red again and put another 10 green won and the young man who was still standing behind her laughed.

"Try 10 green again," he said, and she put her money on the red. When 10 green won again she stood up to go, smiling a little ruefully.

"Oh, wait—please!" he begged. Then he shoved some money down on the table. "The lady plays number 10 green."

Kay hesitated. There were so many people standing around talking and playing that this encounter seemed quite harmless. And then the red won!

"See? The young man said. "You wouldn't take my advice when it was right. But if I were you, right now, I'd come have a drink at the bar with me."

She took her head, declining, and turned to move away.

But the young man was not to be so easily discouraged. "Please don't go," he said. "If you won't have a drink, at least stay and talk to me. I'm Monte Blaine. I don't know who you are, but you certainly have the most gorgeous hair I've ever seen—and the most beautiful eyes. In that black evening dress you're—"

Kay laughed. "You've had too many drinks," she said.

He denied this. "I'm intoxicated with your beauty," he said. "Who are you anyhow? I want to know all about you—"

"Just another girl," Kay told him. "I haven't a name—or a telephone."

"No cozy little nest?" he asked, wrinkling his eyebrows.

"No. I live in a castle with lions guarding every gate."

He said suddenly, "Don't you like to do rash, impulsive things? Don't you ever get up to look at the sunrise and want to go flying just to meet it? I guess you know now that I'm a flyer, Monte Blaine."

"I've heard the name twice, but I can't seem to recall it."

"You haven't heard about Monte Blaine and his eight non-stop speed records? I adore you," he said. "Come on, let's dance."

Kay looked at him doubtfully. It was obvious that he had been drinking. "I don't think you can dance," she said.

"Listen, I'm so steady they're going to use me on the trans-Pacific flight to test the gyro-pilot!"

"Oh—!"

"Sure. I signed up last week and I'm on my way to Oakland by plane. Stopped over in this outfit to celebrate. You know who my boss is going to be? Ted Graham!"

Kay laughed softly. "It's a smaller world than I thought. I've been working for Overland Airways."

He said, "Really? I thought you had that look in your eye—that far-away look. You're one of the hostesses, aren't you?"

"Right."

"Then we'll go out," he announced, "and paint the town red. Here you are, marooned in the desert, and I'm going to rescue you!"

She said, "You're one of the devil-may-care pilots."

Monte got unsteadily to his feet and helped Kay into her cloak. They went out and got into a taxi which whirled them out into the cool desert air.

Kay leaned back in the seat. Monte made a clumsy attempt to kiss her, but he was easy to evade. The high altitude and cocktails he had drunk didn't mix. Soon he slumped in the seat at her side.

"Where is your hotel?" she asked.

He murmured dreamily, "Have not got any. I'm under the stars. I'm all alone in the world. I'm an—exile."

Kay leaned forward and gave an address to the driver. Then she sat back and waited until the taxi pulled up in front of her apartment house. With the driver's aid she got Monte up one flight of stairs into her little apartment.

He lay on the couch in the living room, sound asleep. She put covers over him, watched his face for a moment under the light. In repose he was little more than a handsome, swashbuckling boy. She turned out the light then and tiptoed into the bedroom, locking the door behind her.

Kay balled, looking thoughtfully into the mirror. "It's us against the world," she thought. "—and he's going to be working for Ted Graham."

King of Greece Receives First Coronation Bid

ATHENS, Sept. 12.—King George II of Greece received last night what was believed to be the first invitation to King Edward VIII's coronation in London next May.

The invitation was extended by Sydney P. Waterlow, the British minister here. It was framed to include also the members of the Greek cabinet.

Persons close to King George said he would either attend in person or if circumstances prevented, would send Prince Paul, his brother.

The Greek ruler has long been on the friendliest terms with the British royal family, whose guest he was at the time he was recalled from exile to return to the throne here.

Delaware is the only state without direct airmail service.

The U. S. Postoffice Department has on file applications for the establishment of more than 24,000 rural routes. This mileage is almost as great as that in the present system.

MAYOR WILL DEFY COURT

Despite the fact that his action might result in a contempt of court charge being brought against him, Mayor Joseph A. Clarke, K.C., declared Saturday he would sign the agreement providing for the acceptance of scrip by the city. The mayor said he would take this step in the face of the present injunction which restrains Edmonton from entering into an agreement with the provincial government for the circulation of scrip.

City Clerk Alfred Russell, whose name must also appear on a part of this kind, will not be asked to place his signature on the agreement, Mayor Joseph A. Clarke, K.C., declared Saturday he would sign the agreement providing for the acceptance of scrip by the city. The mayor said he would take this step in the face of the present injunction which restrains Edmonton from entering into an agreement with the provincial government for the circulation of scrip.

City Clerk Alfred Russell, whose name must also appear on a part of this kind, will not be asked to place his signature on the agreement, Mayor Clarke stated.

Reporting on Section 12 of the provincial government's recently passed legislation which gives Edmonton the right to enter into the agreement, George B. O'Connor, K.C., counsel for the city, states: "This section removes any doubt as to the city's authority to enter into the agreement but it does not refer to the injunction which continues in full force. If Mayor Clarke and Mr. Russell sign the agreement before the injunction is dissolved they will be guilty of contempt of court and liable to fine or imprisonment."

RAINS FALL: SNOW SIGHTED

Edmonton enjoyed a slight let-up from the chilly spell of the past few days during the night, the overnight low temperature reading being 38 above, registered at 4 to 6 a.m., Saturday. The highest reading Friday was 55 above, clocked up at 2 p.m. By 9 a.m. Saturday the thermometer had reached 47 above.

Rainfall Saturday morning from 2:45 a.m. to 9 a.m. totalled 20 inches, and more is promised, the forecast being "no change."

The near north continued to be cold and blustery Saturday, reporting three inches of snow overnight and more falling. Fourteen other districts got rain, snow or both during the night.

Mail Bag Record

Dress of Slacks, Shorts, As Mode for Church Finds Sustained Opposition Here

POSED FOR EFFECT

"The woman shall not wear that which pertaineth unto a man, neither shall a man put on a woman's garments for all that do so are an abomination unto the Lord Thy God. — DEUTERONOMY - Chap. 22, verse 5.

Edmonton ministers thus far in their experiences, have never been faced with the problem of what to do if a girl appeared in their churches clad in shorts or slacks.

"I have never heard of such an occurrence in Edmonton," said the head of all the Anglican churches in the city. "And I wouldn't want to, either," he added.

"The wearing of slacks to church would show lack of reverence to Almighty God," said Right Rev. Bishop Burgett, flatly. "A person wouldn't think of attending a reception to the king clad in shorts or other unconventional dress, why should they do so when appearing in the house of God"

CAREFUL OF REPRIMAND

The bishop, however, indicated that he would carefully consider the circumstances before attempting to reprimand a person who should appear in church in such a garb. "If a person on a hiking or cycling trip happened in drop in to worship I think allowance should be made for their mode of dress. However, to dress in such clothes with the deliberate intension of heeding church would be intolerable," he considered.

Deuteronomy, chapter 22, verse 5 contains the answer to the question thinks Rev. H. C. Phillips of Norwood Regular Baptist church.

"The woman shall not wear that which pertaineth unto a man, neither shall a man put on a woman's garments, for all that do so are an abomination unto the Lord thy God," he quoted without hesitation when asked if he thought girls should be allowed to wear slacks to church.

"Slacks," said Rev. Mr. Phillips, "are not conducive to the spiritual life."

TYPICAL OF ATTITUDE

Mr. Phillips' statement was typical of the attitude of Edmonton ministers who stated that though they had never been called upon to deal with the problem in the past, yet they did not consider shorts or slacks proper clothes for church wear.

Rev. J. C. Matthews, rector of St. Matthew's, St. Michaels and All Angels churches, stated that he would not say definitely whether slacks had ever appeared in his churches. "I think one or two might have worn them on occasion but I can't definitely say. I didn't notice particularly," he stated.

He shared the feeling that the wearing of slacks to church would show lack of respect and reverence.

"The wearing of slacks or shorts to church would be a form of exhibitionism and the church is no place for that,"

PROBABLY DISTURBING

"In their appropriate places such forms of dress may be respectable, but out in a spot given over to the worship of the things of the spirit," said Mr. Burton. "The presence of a bare back within view of the congregation would probably disturb the devotional atmosphere," he thought.

"It would only be consideration for the rest of the congregation that had come to worship, to debar from appearing in church a girl with a sun-tan back dress or other revealing costume," said Mr. Burton.

Questioned as to whether they considered there was anything improperly wrong in the exposure of wide expanses of the human body, the general reply of Edmonton ministers was "A modest person will dress modestly"—and modesty is largely a matter of appropriateness, they thought.

WOMAN AVERS SHE SLEW SON AND MAN 69

Voluntary Confession Is Made To Police At Nelson, B.C.

VICTORIA, Sept. 12.—A 33-year-old woman is held under observation by authorities at Ymir, near Nelson, B.C., after she voluntarily appeared at police station there and made a statement purporting to reveal details of the slaying of her three-year-old son and a man who she said caused trouble between herself and her husband.

Provincial police here said she made the statement voluntarily four days ago.

NO CHARGE LAID

No charge had been laid against the woman who said she left hospital in Vancouver only "a few days ago" after having given birth to a baby six weeks ago.

The woman, police said, declared her three-year-old son died Sept. 1, 1935, from scalds received when he was pushed into a basin of scalding water. She said the lad had been suffering from water on the brain and she did not wish him to live.

The death certificate of the child gave the cause as accidental scalding.

ADMITS POISON

According to police the woman said that a certain man died after poison had been administered to him in home-made wine. She said that this man, a 39-year-old blacksmith, had caused trouble between herself and her husband.

Records on file with provincial authorities here show that the man in question died May 9, 1933, from coronary thrombosis.

GERMAN PLANE OFF TO STATES

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Sept. 12—The German experimental transatlantic flying boat Aeolus took off for New York at 6.35 a.m. M.S.T. to complete her flight from the United States.

After bucking headwinds most of the way the 10-ton sister ship of the Zephyr, which has already made a successful crossing, came down here yesterday afternoon. It had flown 2,500 miles from the deck of the steamship Schwabenland, lying off the Azores.

WESTLOCK SCHOOL FAIR SUCCESSFUL

WESTLOCK, Sept. 12—Fourteen rooms from some of the surrounding school districts turned out to compete in the first school fair held in the history of the present school generation. Exhibits totaled nearly 1,000, and there would have been at least 500 more had not lack of transport facilities prevented some of the schools from the outlying districts sending a full entry.

The same circumstance, and the ban on children riding on trucks, compelled some of the schools to leave the children behind. This is a serious drawback to all junior activities, affecting as it does, school fairs, musical festivals, boys' and girls' camps and school and district picnics.

HIGH ORDER

All the exhibits were of a high order, the vegetable and cooking classes being worthy of special mention. Carrots alone contained over 90 entries, while there were 23 chocolate cakes entered.

Schools completely included Pibroch, three rooms; Holm, two rooms; Manola, two rooms; Sunnybank, two rooms; Springewell; Edison, Poplar Knoll, Pembina Heights, Reed Lake and Elk Park. There were also a number of independent entries from districts not officially entered.

The department of agriculture diploma was won by Sunnybank junior room, with an average of 28 points per pupil, 50 per cent higher than any other room in the fair. The Sunnybank made a valiant effort to secure the diploma for school work but just failed to qualify by one point. Holm senior room beating them by two-fifth of a point.

SHORT COURSE

The short course at Vermilion School of Agriculture was awarded as first prize, Happiest boy, Donald Selvey, Holm; runner-up, Billie Stanley, Sunny Bank; highest girl, Kathleen Lyons, runner-up, Rhoda Boon, both from Sunnybank.

Judges for the various classes were, field and garden products and manual arts, W. G. Malaher, School of Agriculture, Vermilion; livestock, E. G. Wood, district agriculturist; sewing and cooking, Miss M. P. Shaw, Vermilion school work, G. F. Hollinshead and Miss J. V. Gaines, Barrhead.

A good program of sports kept the children fully occupied while the judging was in progress.

Officials in charge of the organization work were G. McTavish, president; R. Smith and Mrs. A. Collins, vice presidents, and C. R. Clennett, secretary treasurer.

Great credit is due local business men who donated freely, providing sports prizes, chocolate bars, peanuts, etc., all of which were much appreciated.

SPUD IMPORTS BELOW QUOTA

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12—A report by the United States customs commissioner showed today imports under the Canadian-American reciprocal trade agreement since Jan. 1 were far below the allowable quota for seed potatoes and dairy stock, but had almost absorbed the beef cattle quota.

The commissioner reported 20,671,843 pounds of seed potatoes had been imported from Canada up to August 24, representing 45.9 per cent. of the quota allowed for import during the calendar year.

The aeronautics display at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington includes a model plane, on which Lincoln Ellsworth and his pilot, H. Hollick-Kenyon, made their trans-Atlantic flight.

4,000 Owners of School Lands Are Given Relief By Cut In Interest Rate

Announced that relief must be granted to purchasers of school lands, many of whom bought at a time when the financial returns from farm products were in excess of today's prices, Hon. C. C. Ross, minister of lands and mines, on Saturday announced that interest on unpaid instalments of the contracts would be reduced from six per cent to four per cent and interest on arrears from seven per cent to five per cent.

About 4,000 cases will be affected by the move, he said.

Deciding that some specific form of relief must be given, the minister has taken action by proclamation, to bring into effect the reduction in interest rates.

BOUGHT AT PEAK

He stated that the outstanding part of the proclamation deals with assistance to be given purchasers who bought at peak prices and who find that, through depletion of their resources, they are unable to comply with contract terms.

"Such purchasers will have the right to make application to the registrar of the Farmers' Creditors' Arrangement Act for a compromise," said the minister, who explained that the department would write each contract holder as to how the purchaser should proceed if he desires to take advantage of the legislation.

Sales that have been cancelled since September 30, 1930, may be reinstated if the land is available and such settlers will have the same privilege to bring their cases before the registrar for a compromise or reduction in the terms of the contracts.

URGES ACTION

The minister pointed out that this action is consistent with the stand taken by the government at the recent session, in dealing with the reduction and settlement of outstanding debts.

Those settlers wishing to obtain advantage of these concessions would, he said, be well advised to take immediate action so that they may obtain the full benefit of the reduction.

Laughs At Menace Of Russian Lumber

TORONTO, Sept. 12—Hon. Peter Heenan, Ontario minister of lands and forests, commenting on announcement from Ottawa that Canada and Russia had resumed timberly trade relations, said last night that only by undercutting methods or by dumping could Russia's timber exports affect the Canadian market.

"At the moment I think it will have very little effect upon us," Mr Heenan said. "I do not think they can compete against us unless, of course, they resort to subsidizing or to dumping."

A new radio device is said to measure accurately the internal behaviour of an automobile engine in operation, the operator being able to tell whether a particular part of the motor is performing as it should.

Britain Bans Her

PARIS, Sept. 12—La Pasionaria, Spanish woman Communist, Friday, was denied a visa to enter England by the British consulate on the basis of a ruling barring known Communists.

Sweden's first air baby was born recently in an ambulance plane, and before birth could be registered legal action was necessary to determine the official place of birth.

THIS GORIOUS WORLD

COYOTES

THE COYOTE, OR PRAIRIE WOLF, IS AN ANIMAL OF THE OPEN SPACES/ IT ONCE INHABITED ABOUT 3,000,000 SQUARE MILES OF THE UNITED STATES.

TODAY, ALTHOUGH ITS RANKS HAVE BEEN THINNED, THE COYOTE ACTUALLY HAS INCREASED ITS RANGE SINCE THE COMING OF THE WHITE MAN.

HE IS AN EXPERT HUNTER, AND DOES MUCH GOOD IN ERADICATING DESTRUCTIVE RODENTS/ HOWEVER, HE TAKES A HEAVY TOLL OF YOUNG LIVE STOCK/ BY A COMBINATION OF RELAY RUNNING AND AMBUSH, THE COYOTE HAS LEARNED TO RUN DOWN FULL-GROWN ANTELOPE.

9-13 © 1936 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

The COYOTE IS ONE OF THE WISEST OF OUR WILD ANIMALS, AND ONE OF THE MOST DIFFICULT TO TRAP.

HIS WEIRD SONG, SUNG AFTER SUNSET, IS ONE OF HIS MOST REMARKABLE GIFTS/ TWO COYOTES CAN SOUND LIKE A PACK OF ONE HUNDRED OR MORE ANIMALS.

THE COYOTE DEN USUALLY IS DUG IN A ROCKY HILLSIDE, AND IS VERY DIFFICULT TO FIND/ THE MALE OFTEN HAS A SEPARATE "BACHELOR APARTMENT."

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

AW, GEE, MOM... I'M NOT HUNGRY... HONEST!!

NEVERTHELESS, YOU'RE COMING HOME AND EAT YOUR LUNCH!

GROWING BOYS NEED PLENTY OF FOOD! YOU'LL NOT LEAVE THIS HOUSE UNTIL YOU'VE CLEANED UP EVERY MORSEL ON THAT PLATE!

AW, GEE!

MAY I GO OUT AND PLAY NOW, MOM? COME AN' LOOK.... EVERY SPECK!!

YOU MUST HAVE BOLTED IT DOWN! ALL RIGHT, GO AHEAD AND PLAY!!

MRS. PLETZENBAUM, DID YOU TRY THE VACUUM CLEANER THAT I LEFT HERE AS A DEMONSTRATOR?

YES, BUT I DON'T THINK I'LL KEEP IT!!

POSSIBLY YOU OVERLOOKED SOME OF THE IMPORTANT FEATURES!

I THOUGHT YOU SHOWED ME EVERYTHING ABOUT IT!

ON THIS END, THE MACHINE HAS TERRIFIC SUCTION POWER.... THE OTHER END CAN BE USED AS A BLOWER!

BY REMOVING THE HOSE FROM THE SUCTION END AND ATTACHING IT TO THE BLOWING END, IT CAN BE USED FOR MANY PURPOSES, SUCH AS BLOWING DUST FROM UNDER CARPETS! I'LL DEMONSTRATE!!

FOOW

THAT'S STRANGE.... IT NEVER HAS DONE THAT BEFORE! BAKED BEANS AND SPAGHETTI!!
